TAFT WANTS HUGHES FOR SUPREME BENCH

President Understood to Have Decided to Offer Vacant Justiceship to Governor.

HIS ACCEPTANCE PROBABLE

Inquiries Already Made by the President—Senators Suggest That Hughes Might Become the Chief Justice.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—It is understood this evening that President Taft has decided to offer the vacant place on the Supreme Court bench to Gov. Hughes, but that the definite offer has not as yet been sent to the Governor. The President has been interested to ascertain whether such an appointment would be acceptable to Gov. Hughes or not, and the information this evening is that although he has not yet heard directly from the Governor on that score he has learned that the offer probably would be acceptable.

It is felt among Senators interested in the matter, especially upon the Judiciary Committee, which will first pass upon whatever nomination is made, that Gov. Hughes is the most desirable man who could be chosen.

There is a growing effort on the part of Western men, however, to have the appointment go to their section of the country. Their difficulty is in the lack of available timber. Judge Vandevanter of the Circuit Court, which passed upon the Standard Oil case, is the strongest man from that part of the country, but the sentiment among Senators is against his choice now in view of the hearing that has been ordered for the two big trust cases. In several of the Western States the bar associations have been getting up meetings to urge a Western man for the place, and they may yet be able to impress their views upon the President if they can bring forward an acceptable candidate.

There is much opposition in the Senate to the suggested appointment of Solicitor General Bowers. It is based not merely upon the fact that he was general counsel for the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad before he came into the Department of Justice, but upon the broader ground that his experience having been almost entirely in railroad work the inevitable tendency has been to give him a development only along that line, instead of along the general lines which it is felt are essential to the proper equipment of a Justice of the Supreme Court.

For this reason there would probably be some objection to the confirmation of Mr. Bowers, quite aside from that arising from his connection with the Department of Justice during the pendency of the two trust cases. But there would be no objection whatever to the confirmation of Gov. Hughes. In fact, it has been suggested by several Senators that it would be a fine thing for the President to appoint the Governor with the understanding that in case Chief Justice Fuller should retire Hughes would be advanced to that place.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 20.—Gov. Hughes had already retired when the report that the President had decided to offer him the vacant place on the bench of the United States Supreme Court reached Albany. At the Executive Mansion it was said that he couldn't be disturbed. Of the Governor's friends no one is in a position to say whether he would accept the appointment or not.

HINTS SUPREME BENCH PLOT.

Senator Purcell Says Taft May Pack Court to Suit His Railway Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Late this afternoon the fight on the Railway bill was renewed and gave Senator Purcell of North Dakota a chance in his maiden speech to make a very sharp attack on the President and the Attorney General. Mr. Purcell charged in substance a Presidential purpose of so transforming the Supreme Court as to insure such construction of the proposed law as to supplant and nullify antagonistic State laws and State Constitutions.

The debate also seemed to show—though no vote was reached before adjournment—that the announcement of the speedy retirement of Senators Aldrich and Hale had already had its effect. The insurgents sat together in a little knot in the middle of the chamber and sharply opposed the efforts of the regulars to rule out on a point of order an important amendment proposed by Senator Cummins, while Senator Aldrich, who rarely interferes in parliamentary battles, led the regulars with unusual aggressiveness.

It seemed that the insurgents were highly elated at the indirect victory they think they have won in the retirement from whatever causes of Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Hale. On the other hand Mr. Aldrich seemed to resent the insinuation that his power is in any way weakened by the announcement of his retirement from the Senate.

Senator Purcell based his rather sweeping remarks on the merger provision of the Administration bill. Stating that the North Dakota State Constitution prohibited the consolidation of railroad lines, he contended that under its decisions the Supreme Court had held in effect that questions of this character were subject to State control. He then proceeded:

"It must be apparent to every one that when the President and the Attorney General drafted this law they were familiar with existing laws in relation to the matter. Section 12, if enacted, would conflict with the decisions mentioned.

"It can become operative only in one way. Of the members of the Supreme Court which decided the Louisville & Nashville Railroad case only three are now on the bench, and two are advanced in years and are now entitled to their retirement. The court is in a lamentable condition. Two vacancies now practically exist. Two more will soon exist in the natural course of events. This will make at least four appointments that the President will have to make.

"Having the power to appoint the members of this court, who finally determine the law upon all questions, he has the opportunity to appoint those whose sentiments in regard to Section 12 accord with his. The Attorney General would no doubt grace the Supreme bench. If he were appointed would he not support his own handiwork?

"The pending bill demonstrates that the President is strongly inclined toward the interest of the railroads. Therefore, would he not make appointments of court of commerce Judges known to be favorable to the railroads?

"If this should happen, then by the passage of this bill all the benefits and protection given by court decisions may be lost, and the railroads may, by our action, be authorized to accomplish those very things in matters of consolidation which the courts have determined they could not do because they were detrimental to and destructive of the people's rights."

Mr. Purcell declared that the country had already repudiated the wisdom of the President in giving his indorsement to the new tariff law, referring in support of this statement to the action of the Indiana State Republican Convention. He pointed out also that in all the five Congressional elections held since the Payne bill became a law the Republican candidates had been defeated, notwithstanding the districts had all been Republican.

MARK TWAIN SINKING.

Author's Condition Is Critical, but He Is Expected to Live Through Night.

Special to The New York Times.

DANBURY, Conn., April 20.—At 11 o'clock to-night Samuel L. Clemens, though he had been sinking all day, and at one time late in the afternoon was thought to be in a very serious condition, was resting at his residence, Stormfield, in Redding, Conn., comfortably enough to assure those in attendance on him that his chances for living through the night were very favorable. His daughter, Clara, and her husband, Ossip Gabrilowitch, the pianist, and Alfred Bigelow Paine, the humorist's manager and biographer, who comprise the household, felt confidence enough to retire for the night shortly before 11 o'clock.

Dr. Robert H. Halsey, the heart specialist who has been in attendance, admitted that his patient was in a critical condition, giving his trouble as angina pectoris. Dr. Quintard was called from New York in consultation during the afternoon, but left this evening. Oxygen was resorted to early in the afternoon to stimulate vitality. Although he was weak on his arrival from Bermuda last Tuesday, and had not since recovered his strength, it was not until to-day that his symptoms became alarming.

He was noticeably weak this morning and did not respond to treatment as he had previously. As the day went on he became weaker and collapsed this afternoon. He has been almost in an unconscious condition during the afternoon and this evening. He did not show any interest in his surroundings and took no notice of the people around him. Early in the evening he aroused a little and talked for a short time with his daughter. He does not seem to be suffering any pain.

The doctors who have been watching Mark Twain agree that it is simply a case of how long his wonderful constitution can battle with the malady which is gradually overcoming him. He may die during the night or he may live for several weeks, there is no knowing.

WOMAN DEAD IN AN AUTO.

Car, with 2 Men in It, Speeds Through Jersey Villages and Disappears.

Special to The New York Times.

MILLVILLE, N. J., April 20.—Coroner Ralph Worth and the police of this town and neighboring communities are striving to locate an automobile which passed through here last night carrying in its tonneau the body of a woman, according to Howard Shull, a machinist, at whose shop the two men in charge of the car stopped to have some bit of mechanism repaired. As yet no trace of the car has been found since it passed through Delmont, at some little distance from here.

The story told by Shull, who hastened with it to the Coroner as soon as he had made the necessary repairs to the car, was that there were two men in the auto, and that they were carrying with them the body of a woman who had died while in the automobile after starting from some other town, the location of which the autoists concealed.

The car remained in Millville only a short time, and started away in a southerly direction. To-day it has been traced through Port Elizabeth, Dorchester, Lessburg, and to Delmont, where the trail was lost.

"Shull is a reliable citizen," said the Coroner to-night, "and I am convinced that the story was told to him as he told it to me. It is most mysterious, to say the least, but the police are trying in every way to locate the car, and we hope by to-morrow to get some further trace of it from Delmont.

"Shull did not see the woman, whose body was covered with rugs in the tonneau of the machine."

CROKER DIDN'T LOSE $200,000

Rumor That He Dropped That Sum in Cafe de l'Opera Denied.

Richard Croker, once Tammany chieftain, sailed for his home in Ireland on the big Cunarder Lusitania yesterday, leaving behind him a report that $200,000 of his money was in the Café de l'Opera in Times Square, which recently went into a receiver's hands. The report was emphatically denied last night by Edward Cahill, Treasurer of the company which operated the concern, and who is now in charge. To a reporter Mr. Cahill said:

"I was the unfortunate man who invested the $200,000. Mr. Croker, to whom I said good-bye on the Lusitania this morning, I have known for many years. He was a lifelong friend of my father, but he had absolutely no interest in the Café de l'Opera whatever. I presume that the rumor arose through my being seen frequently with Mr. Croker."

In sailing yesterday, Mr. Croker said that this was one of the finest trips he had had in years.

"I have been going without a hat," he declared, "and I find it a dandy treatment for growing hair. Just look at my hair," he said, as he removed his hat.

As to politics, he said that all signs, including the news from Rochester, pointed to Democratic success this Fall in the State. The wave had been a long while "getting a move on," but now there was nothing to stop it.

Mr. Croker expressed the opinion that Mayor Gaynor was "doing wonderfully well." If he could stop the passing of money from the saloon keepers to the police he would accomplish "one of the greatest reforms of the age." As to the Mayor as a Presidential possibility, Mr. Croker said:

"If Judge Gaynor can accomplish what he has set out to do he is good enough to take any office within the gift of the people."

ARGENTINE POLAR SHIP?

Plans of Peary's Vessel Examined by Republic's Representative.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., April 20.—V. Masjoan, who has been representing the Argentine Republic at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, where a battleship is being constructed for Argentina, came to Portland this morning to make a study of the plans of the hull and machinery of the Roosevelt, the ship in which Commander Peary went to the polar sea. Mr. Masjoan presented credentials to Richard C. Payson, President of the Portland Company, the concern which installed the boilers and engines of the Roosevelt, and was allowed to examine the blue-print plans of the vessel.

Mr. Masjoan did not give his reasons for wanting to see the plans. Mr. Payson, however, understands that the Argentine Republic is to build a ship to go into the south polar seas.

SEVEN SHOT IN RIOT AND THREE MAY DIE

Strikers and Police in Fierce Battle in Bloody Angle at McKees Rocks.

EXTRA REVOLVER SAVES DAY

Policeman Draws It at Critical Moment—Wounded in Hospital Under Guard for Fear of Rescue.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, April 20.—In a bloody battle this evening between striking employes of the Pressed Steel Car Company and township constables at McKees Rocks at least seven persons were injured, and three of them will probably die. These three are Constable James M. Daniels, who is shot through the abdomen and chest; Joe Birnot, a Hungarian striker, shot several times by the constables, and an unknown striker who refuses to give his name. All are at the Ohio Valley Hospital, the last named two being under arrest.

In addition to these one of the attacking strikers was hit by a train as he was escaping from the pursuing mob and knocked over the bank. He is thought to have fallen into the river, but no trace of him could be found in the darkness. A farmer named Hannan was shot through the hand, and two unknown foreigners were carried away by their friends, apparently badly injured, but their names cannot be learned to-night.

The battle occurred just at dusk in the notorious bloody angle where so much rioting and bloodshed occurred in the last strike, and where the Victor Bank was looted and two employes killed some weeks ago. There had been a mass meeting near-by held by the Industrial Workers of the World, and about 250 of the foreign-speaking workmen on their way back stopped to talk matters over. One leader was haranguing his fellow-workmen in an unknown tongue, and they were getting wildly excited when Chief of Police Edwin Silvers of Stowe Township, with Constable Daniels, came up to the crowd and ordered it to disperse.

The Shooting Begins.

The speaker shouted something as he jumped from the perch on which he had been standing, there was a spit of flame from the crowd, and Constable Daniels fell to the ground shot through the body. Three bullets passed through the clothing of Chief Silvers, but none hurt him. The mob, after its first fire of perhaps a dozen shots, made a rush for the prostrate constable. Chief Silvers, standing over Daniels, began to shoot fast, and Daniels, rising on one arm, lent his fire, while four other constables who had been in the next square came running up, shooting as they came.

"Get that big fellow, he has killed Jimmy!" shouted Chief Silvers to his men as he tried to bring down a large foreigner, who had been shooting from behind a tree. One of the constables closed with the foreigner, who, chased from his hiding place, ran toward the Ohio River with the constable in hot pursuit. The man tried to cross the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad tracks just as a freight engine running wild came along. He was tossed by the cowcatcher over the bank, and by the time the pursuing constables got down the bank there was no trace of him. He may have been knocked into the water and drowned, or he may have escaped.

Meantime Chief Silver and his men were having a hot time in the Angle. The foreigners, when their ammunition was exhausted, hurled rocks at the constables, who were backed up against a fence and had to fight their way out. A constable named Johnson had his revolver knocked out of his hand by a rock and was felled with another rock as he stooped to recover it. Chief Silvers at this moment dropped the rock throwing striker with his billy.

Finds an Extra Gun.

At one time six of the strikers were on the ground writhing near Daniels, who had once more managed to stagger to his feet only to be knocked down again. He reached for an extra revolver which he had slipped into his inside coat pocket, got his back against the fence, and opened fire on the mob, which up to this time showed no indications of giving way. Not a shot had been fired for perhaps a half minute previous, all ammunition on both sides having apparently been exhausted. When Daniels's new gun began spitting the mob wavered, broke, and fled.

"Watch that little Hun. Get him if you have to let every one else go," shouted Daniels to his fellow-officers. The man had been throwing rocks at him and other constables.

Two members of the McKee's Rocks police force, who had come up by this time, opened fire on the little foreigner, who stumbled and fell, but rose again and kept on his way toward the river, pursued by Chief Silvers and about fifty others. Over the tracks and straight over the bluff into the Ohio River went the striker. Silvers rolled down the bank after him to the water's edge, and, seeing a skiff, broke the chain lock, and, jumping in, put out after the escaping striker, who was swimming for the other shore. The Ohio River at this point is very wide, and the swimmer had a long lead.

Stopped with Empty Pistol.

As he scrambled out of the water on the Allegheny side, Chief Silver rose in his boat only a few lengths from shore.

"Stop," he said, "or I'll drop you in your tracks."

The pursued man seems to have failed to realize that there were no cartridges in Silver's revolver. He stopped in his tracks and held his hands above his head. He was taken into the boat where he dropped, and Silvers saw that he was badly wounded. He pulled back to McKees Rocks side with his captive. At the hospital where the striker recovered consciousness only after several hours he refused to tell his name or talk at all, though it is evident that he understands all that is going on about him. He was formally placed under arrest on a John Doe warrant, charged with rioting, an armed guard being placed at the side of his bed. In the next ward was Birnot, also under arrest and guarded.

Late this evening fifteen armed men were placed in charge of the Ohio Valley Hospital in the fear that friends of the two wonded strikers might attempt a rescue of them and at the same time might wreak their vengeance on Daniels, whom many of the strikers are said to hate bitterly.

Many patients in the Ohio Valley Hospital were removed to-night at their own request, in view of possible attack. Some of the armed guards are county detectives who have been armed with riot guns and ordered to use them on the slightest provocation. Late to-night the police of McKees Rocks turned the fire hose on a crowd which had gathered to discuss strike matters. Two men had their legs broken in trying to escape the water.

DISCHARGES PERSCH JURY BY TELEPHONE

RETRIAL SOON, SAYS NOTT

Accused Man's Counsel Contends That the Dismissal Is Illegal and Will Fight It.

After being out for eleven hours the jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court last night reported a disagreement in the case of Donald Persch, who was charged with sharing in the plot by which $100,000 worth of Heinze copper stock appeared on the market last Summer immediately after it had been pledged with the Windsor Trust Company as collateral for a $50,000 loan. The jury was then discharged by Chief Clerk Penney by order of Justice Marcus, who was not present, but gave his order over the telephone.

This method of discharging the jury was said by John F. McIntyre, who defended Persch, to be unprecedented in this city, and Mr. McIntyre said he would contest the discharge as illegal and carry the case to the United States Supreme Court rather than have his client tried again.

The jury went into deliberation at noon, and before they reported finally Justice Marcus, who was assigned from Buffalo to try the case, left the courtroom about 6 o'clock last night, going uptown. He left his telephone number with the chief clerk. Later he telephoned Chief Clerk Penney, asking him to discharge the jury after it had reported its disagreement. He said it was his custom to discharge juries in that way in Buffalo.

Mr. McIntyre was indignant over this phase of the procedure, and aired his feelings freely in the corridor after the jury's report.

"It is altogether unprecedented and illegal for an officer of the court, other than the trial Judge, to discharge a jury," he said; "every bit as illegal as the procedure in the case of the Stabile case recently. We shall contest the legality of this discharge, even if we must carry it to the Supreme Court of the United States and fight against a second trial on the ground of prior jeopardy."

Assistant District Attorney Nott, who prosecuted Persch, on the other hand, insisted that the procedure of discharge was altogether legal, pointing out that the law requires only that the jury be discharged by order of the court. In Buffalo, he said, it quite frequently happens that the Justice is not present when the jury reports a disagreement, and that the Sheriff, by his order, discharges it. It was recalled, however, that in past cases in this city, the trial Justices have been present to discharge the jury in person. Justice Goff recently came to the court room in evening dress at midnight to discharge a jury.

Mr. Nott declared that Persch would be tried again, and that, too, immediately after the trial on Monday of Charles Katz, one of the four men idicted with Persch at the time of the alleged plot last Summer. A special panel of 150 jurors has already been ordered for Katz's trial.

The jury last night reported later that they had stood evenly divided, six for acquittal and six against, and that they had maintained that relation during most of their deliberations.

The wife of one of the jurors came to the building at 8 o'clock last night and inquired of the elevator man where she might find her husband. Upon being told that he was still in the juryroom she exclaimed:

"What? Isn't that man convicted yet? Why, my husband told me last night that the man stole the money and that he would be convicted to-day!"

LIVING TOO HIGH FOR DREXEL.

Says a Modest Hotel Breakfast Here Costs $1.75 and He's Amazed.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel, J. Armstrong Drexel, Miss Drexel, and the latter's fiancé, Viscount Maidstone, sailed for England yesterday on the Cunard liner Lusitania. Mr. Drexel said that he had been "up against" the high cost of living during the five days he spent in New York. He said he was shocked, and wanted to know what those who live here every day in the year were going to do about it.

"It cost me $1.75 to have two eggs, a cup of tea, and some bread only yesterday at one of the hotels. Just think of that! I understand there are other hotels where one has to pay even more for the same things. Just think—$1.75 is very near a man's wages for a day's work!

"It doesn't matter how much money one may have such a charge appeals to one. The average man must have a chance. He cannot go on working for only the cost of eggs. Things cannot continue the way they are now."

Mr. Drexel would not say where his son, "Tony," and his bride intend to spend their honeymoon. He thought it possible the couple could be found at one of George Gould's hunting lodges. That was all he would say.

TAGGART OUT FOR SENATE.

Democratic Chairman Announces Himself as Candidate for Beveridge's Seat.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 20.—Thomas Taggart, former Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, formally announced to-day that he would be a candidate before the General Assembly next year to succeed Albert J. Beveridge in the United States Senate.

If the Democratic State Convention next week adopts a plan approved by Gov. Marshall and if a candidate for the Senate be indorsed, Mr. Taggert's name will be presented.

INCOME TAX BEATEN BY NARROW MARGIN

Assemblyman Murray's Resolution Fails by Only Two Votes, with Six Democrats Absent.

IT MAY BE ADOPTED YET

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 20.—After a spirited debate of five hours' duration the concurrent resolution introduced by Assemblyman Andrew F. Murray of New York, providing for the indorsement by the Legislature of the proposed income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution, failed of passage in the lower house today. The vote stood 74 for and 66 against its passage. Thus, while the friends of the income tax proposition mustered eight votes more than their opponents they fell two votes short of the required majority of the entire Assembly. There were ten absentees.

There may be another measuring of strength between the advocates and opponents of the proposed amendment in the Assembly. After the vote had been announced Assemblyman Murray moved to reconsider and that the motion lie on the table. This motion was carried by a large majority, leaving the way open for Mr. Murray to take the motion from the table at some future time. There were six Democratic absentees, and as the minority is practically committed to the Federal income tax it is possible that the Murray resolution may be pressed to final passage in the Assembly yet.

Feeling ran high while the debate was in progress. Party lines became blurred. The introducer is a Republican, but a majority of the Republicans in the Assembly voted against the Murray resolution. All the Democrats, with the exception of ex-Lieut. Gov. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, who represents Dutchess County in the Assembly, and William Allaire Shortt, who represents Richmond, voted for the indorsement of the amendment.

The Republicans found themselves in a rather difficult position. The income tax resolution was introduced in Congress and passed under pressure from President Taft. Senator Root has come out in favor of the proposition and has memorialized the Legislature on the subject, thus taking issue openly with Gov. Hughes, who has urged that indorsement of the resolution be withheld on the ground that the words "from whatever source derived" would place incomes derived from State and municipal securities at the mercy of the Federal Tax Collector.

Hearing by Senate Committee.

While the Assembly was debating the Murray resolution the Senate Judiciary Committee gave a hearing on a similar resolution introduced by Mr. Davenport of Oneida, who is regarded as the spokesman of Senator Root. Lawson Purdy, President of the Tax Board of New York City, appeared against the proposed indorsement of the Federal amendment. Another hearing will be given by the Senate committee a week hence, when Joseph H. Choate, who made the principal argument in the Pollock case, the test in which the United States Supreme Court during the second Cleveland Administration declared unconstitutional the form of Federal income tax law then proposed, will oppose the indorsement. W. D. Guthrie, another New York lawyer, who was engaged with Mr. Choate in the Pollock case, will also appear to urge that ratification of the Federal proposition be withheld. Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman of Columbia University will advocate its indorsement.

The debate in the Assembly was opened by Mr. Murray, who introduced the resolution to indorse the proposition advanced by Congress.

"Counsel for the Standard Oil Company," he said, "have sent briefs and communications to the Legislature in which they have used the argument that the State of New York would pay a very much larger amount in the shape of income taxes than any other State. This may be true so far as the gentlemen who control the Standard Oil Company are concerned, but no member of this House has received a communication from a constituent or constituents advancing this argument or any other that I know of against my resolution. The fact that the Standard Oil interests are most vigorously opposing the passage of my resolution is the strongest argument that I can advance in its favor. We are not the representatives of the trust; we are the representatives of the people. We must ratify this amendment because the people of this country are in favor of its adoption."

Chanler Disagrees with Colleagues.

After William Allaire Shortt and several others had spoken in opposition to the Murray resolution and Minority Leader Daniel D. Frisbie had argued for its adoption, ex-Lieut. Gov. Chanler arose and said that it was with sorrow that he parted company with a majority of his Democratic colleagues on this proposition.

"No one can convince me that these words 'from whatever source derived' have not a sinister meaning," he said. "On us devolves the duty to safeguard the interests of this State, not only in as far as they affect the present generation, but to protect our children and children's children. What is the need of haste, anyhow? No war is threatening. We should send a message back to Congress to amend the resolution so that he who runs may read its meaning and know what he is voting for."

Assemblyman Dana at this point offered a substitute for the Murray resolution calling on Congress to amend its resolution by striking out the ambiguous sentence "from whatever source derived."

This provoked a storm. Speaker Wadsworth, who had surrendered his gavel and taken a seat on the floor in order to speak in opposition to the Murray resolution, fairly leaped back to the rostrum. Both Majority Leader Merritt and Mr. Murray jumped to their feet and raised the point of order that the substitute was clearly out of order, as the Legislature had no power except to act on the resolution in the form in which it had been passed and submitted by Congress.

"This is an insult to the Congress of the United States," roared Mr. Murray. "It is asinine, boyish, trivial, dodging. Let us be men and meet this issue squarely. Let us stand up and be counted and not seek to beat this measure by indirection."

Speaker Wadsworth ruled the substitute out of order, and after Majority Leader Merritt and Assemblyman Jesse S. Phillips of Allegany had spoken against the resolution the roll was called.

Speaker Wadsworth, contrary to custom, had his name called and from the rostrum voted against the Murray resolution.

MOTTLS ARE SEPARATED.

Divorce Proceedings Abandoned and a Compromise Arranged.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 20.—The matrimonial woes of the Bavarian Kapellmeister, Felix Mottl, about which I cabled recently, have taken a fresh turn.

Frau Mottl responded to her husband's threat to sue her for divorce on account of her alleged extravagance by filing a counter-suit alleging his misconduct. In order to prevent a public scandal mutual friends induced Herr Mottl to abandon the divorce proceedings and arrange a legal compromise on the basis of a separation.

The Kapellmeister obtains his freedom, while Frau Mottl, for certain substantial considerations, agrees to preserve silence.

SNOW STOPS FOREST FIRES.

Timber Worth $500,000 Is First Destroyed in Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, April 20.—A dispatch from Cable, Wis., says that a large area of timber in Bayfield County, estimated to be worth $500,000 has been destroyed by forest fires. The tract burned over lies between Cable and Drummond. The fire is said to have started from railroad section fires.

A fall of snow last night, preceded by rain, put the fires out.

GIFT FOR GIRL MOTHER.

Mayor Busse Receives Miniature Shoes for Use of Her Baby.

CHICAGO, April 20.—A woman in Durham, N. C., has sent a letter to Mayor Busse expressing her interest in the 10-year-old girl at the County Hospital who recently gave birth to a six-pound daughter. The letter is signed "A friend."

In a separate package the Mayor received two sky blue shoes, a trifle less than two inches in length, which he is requested to send to the County Hospital for the baby.

BUCKLEY TAKES TO WOODS.

Gets Option on Bungalow for Summer in Canadian Mountains.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, April 20.—William H. Buckley has no intention of returning to New York until well on in the Autumn if external evidences may be taken as any indication of his plans. Last Friday he left here with his wife, Richard Barry, his brother-in-law, and James McShane, for Sant Agathe, in the Laurentian Mountains, north of here, where he obtained an option on a bungalow for the Summer months.

Buckley is dodging his friends in Montreal, and seems to fear he is being shadowed. When he arrived from the north this morning newspaper men got on his trail, but he managed to shake them off, and secreted himself with his family somewhere.

Mr. McShane has promised to get into touch with him, and says he will get him to make a statement regarding his plans.

DEPEW JESTS ON RETIREMENT.

Sure, He Resigned to the Capitol Janitor, He Smiles—76 on Saturday.

"Yes, I handed my resignation to the janitor of the Capitol just before leaving Washington," observed Senator Depew last night with an engaging smile when asked about a rumor that he would follow Senators Aldrich and Hale into retirement in the near future.

"But, seriously, Senator, how about it?" he was asked.

"I can't be serious. It's a joke," he replied, with another smile. "I have not left Washington for good. I shall go back to-morrow morning, returning on Saturday to celebrate my seventy-sixth birthday at the Montauk Club in Brooklyn. They have given me a party over there every year for twenty years.

"I shall sail for Europe on June 4, returning early in the Fall to work for all I am worth for the election of a Republican Governor, Republican Senators, Republican Assemblymen, and a Republican Congress. If that isn't a good programme for a man who is so old that he must retire, I don't know what is. As I have said so many times that it is getting to be an axiom, 'I am getting younger every year.'"

And he looked it.

FORBES BALLOON HITS A TREE

And Narrowly Escapes Being Wrecked Against an Apartment Building.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, April 20.—The first balloon ascension of the season in New England this afternoon came near ending in a catastrophe. The car, containing A. Holland Forbes of the New York Aero Club, John Parker, and William Hull, also of New York City, struck a tree 100 feet above the ground, and, freeing itself, swung at high speed toward the upper stories of an apartment building overlooking the Court Square extension, from which the ascension was made. As the car shifted and turned in the trees the occupants clung to the ropes and sides of the basket for their lives. But just as the balloon seemed on the way to be dashed to pieces against the apartment building Mr. Forbes threw out several hundred pounds of ballast, and at once the balloon sailed upward, safely clearing the building.

The danger was over in so short a time and the balloon was gliding rapidly northward almost before the 3,000 spectators were aware of it. Mr. Forbes had planned to go as far north as Brattleboro, Vt., or Keene, N. H., but later decided to land in Hadley, twenty-five miles from Springfield. The balloon party returned to Springfield to-night.

Wages Raised Voluntarily.

MONTREAL, April 20.—The Montreal Street Railway Company to-day announced an unsolicited increase of one cent an hour in the pay of the 3,000 conductors and motormen in its employ. The increase makes the minimum rate 19 cents and the maximum 21 cents, the latter rate also carrying free uniforms.

COTTON POOL ROW TURNS INTO POLITICS

SULLY FAILURE RAKED OVER

And Effort Made to Connect Government's Action with Henry W. Taft, Coreceiver, and Elihu Root, Counsel.

Bitterness caused by the criminal action brought by the Federal authorities against F. B. Hayne and W. P. Brown, two of the leaders of the bull pool in May and July cotton threatens now to extend beyond the cotton market into politics.

The Souhern planters, who have unsuccessfully attacked cotton speculation on the Exchanges, when the market was running down, deluged their New York brokers yesterday with telegrams attacking the Administration for its assault on the bull leaders.

The head of a prominent Stock Exchange house, which has been largely interested in the cotton market and has many clients in the South, said that he believed the action had been started because it hurt a part of the country where the Republican Party received the fewest votes. Others went even further and found significance in the suggestion that the only defense of the Government's action so far has come from a man who was co-receiver with Henry W. Taft, brother of the President, of Daniel J. Sully's firm after the collapse of his bull pool in the Spring of 1904, when Elihu Root, now Senator, was one of the counsel for the receivers.

Theorizing on the Motive.

The receiver of the Sully firm was David H. Miller, a member of the Cotton Exchange. He issued a statement yesterday which his fellow-brokers were inclined to receive as an inspired document because of the inside knowledge he showed of the facts in possession of the Federal authorities. He is to be a witness to-day at the "grand inquisition" in the Federal Building. Henry W. Taft, who was appointed co-receiver with him of the Sully firm, withdrew after two months' service on the excuse of the pressure of other business, but cotton men who are looking for hidden motives behind the present action, pointed out yesterday that besides the opportunity he had to see the inside of Cotton Exchange practice, he was afterward counsel in an action against the Exchange brought by Theodore H. Price on the ground that the differentials allowed on low grade cotton delivered on contracts were insufficient to the buyer.

In this action, which was one of the precursors of a Government investigation of the Exchange two years ago, further opportunity was given to Mr. Taft to acquire valuable information on the ways of the cotton market. Attorney General Wickersham, who is the instigator of the criminal move against the bull leaders, is a brother-in-law of Henry W. Taft, and in some way or other the angry speculators are trying to make two and two of that.

The cotton brokers in their present prosecution made the most of these connections in their advices to their Southern correspondents yesterday.

In David H. Miller's statement yesterday, which was a defense of the Government, this sentence occurred:

Miller Holds Copy of Agreement.

It is an alleged agreement of this nature which is understood to be the basis of the Government's case, and Mr. Miller's apparent exact knowledge of it was a point which Cotton Exchange sympathizers with the plight of the bulls took as confirmation of their suspicions.

Mr. Miller admitted yesterday that he had seen the agreement and that he had a copy of it in his pocket. He said that he was not at liberty to make it public.

His statement, which stirred up trouble, read:

> It seems quite important that every one in the cotton trade should get a clear understanding of the recent action of the Department of Justice. It is apparent from a cursory study that this action has no relation whatever to the character of the contract dealt in the New York Cotton Exchange, and no one, well informed, professes to believe it so. There is no question as to transactions on or methods of the New York Cotton Exchange, involved in the inquiry, which is very mistakenly called a "fishing excursion."
>
> It is not so deemed by any one well posted. It is a criminal prosecution, instituted by the Department of Justice, in the belief that certain statutes of the United States have been violated, not by transactions made on the New York Cotton Exchange, but by agreements made outside of that institution. The idea that the action of the Government has been induced by bear speculators is an insult to the Administration and Attorney General.
>
> Agreements made in the cotton trade, or among cotton dealers, are proper subjects of judicial inquiry whenever the officials of the law have reason to believe that these agreements are contrary to the statutes. Why do not the members of the so-called "bull clique" show the world that they have made no improper agreements by publishing all those actually made? I wonder what members of the Exchange would think of an agreement which binds spinners not to sell any cotton on the New York, New Orleans, or Liverpool Cotton Exchanges before Nov. 1, 1910?
>
> New York the Highest Market.
>
> I have no hesitation in saying that many of the contentions of the bulls seem to me entirely mistaken, from a cotton point of view. For example:
>
> It is stated that New York is "still the cheapest market." No one with any knowledge of the prices at which cotton can to-day be bought in Bremen and Havre could make such a statement. The New York market is to-day the highest in the world, relative to spinning centres. There is no market in the world to which cotton at the price of May delivery in New York can be shipped from New York without a large loss, and this was true of the cotton shipped out by the bull clique in March, despite numerous assertions to the contrary.
>
> Considering present prices in Bremen, it would be very interesting to know the terms and cost of the recent shipment of 24,000 bales to that market, and the terms and prices of the quantity of this cotton (if any) which has since been sold.
>
> Cotton has recently, daily and in quantity, been sold from the South for delivery in New York at no loss whatever. It is well known that the cotton being shipped here from Liverpool was bought in that market and sold here at relative prices which show no loss to the tenderers.
>
> Nobody but the members of the bull clique know how much cotton they are long, but it is well recognized in the trade that the purely speculative short interest is very limited indeed, and that short selling has been very restricted lately, in old crop months, owing to the advertised manipulation.
>
> I am speaking from no speculative point of view. I have no interest in cotton, to use the words of the "Bull pool's agreement, in New York, New Orleans, or Liverpool," and I do not intend to have any until the present artificial situation in New York is corrected.

Trades in May Option Refused.

One of the results of the Government's action has been the refusal of the more conservative Stock Exchange and Cotton Exchange houses to accept business in the May option. The fight is now so bitter between the Hayne-Brown and Patten-Scales interests on the bull side and the bears led by the firm of George H. McFadden & Brother that it is not expected that quarter will be given or taken when the May option expires. There is no knowing which side will win, and careful houses are not willing to risk being on either side of the market with the prospect of revengeful bulls making the shorts climb sky-high for cotton.

On the other hand if the Government action disrupts the pool, or if for simpler reasons it collapses brokers believe that the bears will show no mercy and will endeavor to knock the bottom out of the market.

It is understood that there were tentative negotiations under way last week between the two factions. James A. Patten, who is looked upon as the most powerful of the bull clique and the real dictator of their campaign, was, it is said, disposed to grant liberal terms to shorts. Since the Federal prosecution was started, however, it has become a cut-throat fight, and it is said that neither friendship nor other considerations will figure when the accounting comes.

The dullness of the cotton market yesterday with May cotton moving only within the narrowest bounds was attributed to the suit.

The Cotton Exchange officials believe that if the Government is successful the Cotton's Exchange business will be injured beyond repair.

Patten Speaks Guardedly.

James A. Patten arrived in town yesterday from Chicago and talked at the office of his brokers, J. S. Bache & Co. He reiterated his denials of being a party to any such agreement as the Government charges.

"There is no corner in cotton and there will be no exorbitant price asked for what I hold if the mills want to buy," said Mr. Patten. "I own my cotton and have bought it as a result of my conviction that this would be a scarcity year. Purchase of contracts, as they matured in the progress of the season, made it necessary for me to take the cotton in order to protect myself against the assaults of the bears on the Cotton Exchange every time an attempt was made to sell. Some weeks ago one of my customers wanted to sell 5,000 bales. The bears gave it out that Patten was unloading and beat the price down to 14 cents before the market was aware of what had happened. They jumped on it with all their might, and meant to demoralize the whole trade by doing so; but I am made of fighting stuff and I know what I am about, and anybody who wants cotton at a price which the supply and demand determine can get it without being anxious about any exaction on my part.

"As for my being in league with anybody else, I never knew W. P. Brown, F. H. Hayne, or E. P. Scales until several months ago, when we came together incidentally by virtue of our taking a similar view of the market. They looked at things very much as I did, and will probably use their own judgment, as I do mine, in the disposition of their holdings. If there is any blame to be attached to my possession of the goods in which I deal I should like to know it. Meanwhile I do not see that anybody can blame me for adhering to my judgment of what cotton is worth.

"The efforts to make settlements by importing Liverpool cotton is a bad move because of the scarcity of supply over there. Liverpool will need 500,000 bales of cotton before the end of the season, and it is not wise to be sending any of the supply this way. I don't believe in much of this talk of curtailment. Dry goods people tell me they have had the best business in years, and fabric prices are not so high now as they were a few years ago."

Strong Interests Combined.

An associate of Mr. Patten talked yesterday of the market positions of the pool. He said that there never had been a stronger combination of interests in the market financially.

"I have been close to Mr. Patten and more closely in touch with his associates in his grain speculation. They estimate his fortune at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. I should put it at $18,000,000. If the bears expect to weaken his position by bringing cotton in from all the corners of the earth they will be surprised at his resources. Besides his own funds he has liberal financial support from the banks, particularly in Chicago, and since the beginning of this Government action has had offers of support from cotton houses which had up to then remained neutral. These houses consider that the cotton bears are behind the prosecution or are, at least, helping the Government with information."

A contribution to the political arguments was made yesterday by C. I. Hudson of the Stock Exchange and cotton house of that name. He said:

"I have formed a different idea in regard to the Government move against the so-called cotton pool. In my opinion the base of the move is political. The Government officials have started this action against the part of the country from which they receive no votes—not daring to attack the grain and flour situation, which has been held up so many months by the millers, shippers, and farmers throughout the West, where the party in power receives the voting support of most of the States. I do not think this has occurred to most persons. After looking over the entire situation carefully I am forced to express the belief that it is political play, pure and simple, engineered by the Administration in an effort to stop newspaper attacks on the tariff and high cost of living."

TRICKED BY BEARS, HE SAYS.

South Carolina Senator Charges Plot Behind Federal Cotton Indictments.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Incidental to the discussion in the Senate to-day of the resolution authorizing the expenditure of $65,000 to extend the work of the special committee on the cost of living, Senator Smith of South Carolina, referring to the indictment of cotton speculaters in New York, declared that the Attorney General had been made the victim of a plot with the end in view of depressing the price of cotton in the interest of the foreign markets.

He said that the bears had sold the cotton at a lower price than cotton was bringing in the South. They would have to go to the planters to get the cotton, and they would find that they could not get it there because the farmers were looking after their own interests. He added that every American citizen was interested in the price of cotton, because so much of it was exported, and asserted that the Attorney General was not dealing fairly in taking any steps that would play into the hands of those who would depress the price. He objected to cotton, the chief commodity of a section which is politically unfriendly to the Administration, being selected for the prosecution.

"Instead of investigating those who are trying to put up prices, why don't you investigate the foreign bears?" demanded Mr. Smith. He admitted that he had assisted in organizing the farmers of the South for their own protection.

Senator Aldrich said he believed that the tariff had done more than any other cause to increase prosperity. Mr. Smith sought to construe this into an admission that the tariff was responsible for high prices, but Mr. Aldrich would not admit so much.

The resolution was under discussion for two hours, but was not acted upon. Mr. Overman thought all the facts necessary could be gotten from the newspaper files at the Congressional Library. Mr. Beveridge declared that by the expenditure of a few postage stamps this information could be procured from all the principal cities in two weeks' time.

"The Senator from Indiana may get the information in two weeks' time and by the method outlined, but I cannot, nor can the committee," replied Mr. Lodge. "The inquiry must be systematic if it is to be of any value," he added.

$4,000,000 COTTON FAILURE.

Knight, Yancey & Co., Big Alabama Concern, Go Into Bankruptcy.

DECATUR, Ala., April 20.—The cotton firm of Knight, Yancey & Co., one of the largest concerns of the kind in the South, having offices at Decatur, Mobile, Birmingham, and other cities, went into involuntary bankruptcy to-day. The liabilities are said to be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. No member of the firm will give out a statement at this time regarding the company's assets further than to say they are large.

The claims against the company are mainly foreign, and it is said no Southern banks are affected by the failure.

DEMOCRATS TO GAIN SOME SENATE SEATS

STRONG HOPE IN NEW YORK

New Jersey, Ohio, and Various Western States Also Offer Possibilities if a Landslide Is Coming.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The notable Democratic victories in the three Congressional by-elections that have been held recently in the Sixth Missouri, Fourteenth Massachussets, and Thirty-second New York Districts have given Democrats here renewed assurance that they are likely to carry the next House of Representatives. Some of them are so enthusiastic that they are declaring they will also make large gains in the Senate. A survey of the whole Senatorial situation hardly bears out this rosy view, but it is practically certain that the Democrats will make some Senatorial gains.

The Republicans now have fifty-nine Senators and the Democrats thirty-three—a Republican majority of twenty-six. The terms of thirty Senators expire on March 4 next. Of these only six are Democrats. They are Messrs. Culberson of Texas, Daniel of Virginia, Money of Mississippi, Frazier of Tennessee, Rayner of Maryland, and Taliaferro of Florida. Two years ago Mr. Money announced his retirement, and John Sharp Williams was elected to succeed him. Mr. Culberson will have no difficulty in returning if he wants to, and Mr. Daniel has already been re-elected, but both are in bad health. Mr. Frazier has been meeting some opposition, but will probably have no real difficulty in coming back, nor will Mr. Rayner have any trouble. At any rate, there will be no losses among the Democrats.

The twenty-four Republicans are: Messrs. Aldrich of Rhode Island, Beveridge of Indiana, Bulkeley of Connecticut, Burkett of Nebraska, Burrows of Michigan, Carter of Montana, Clapp of Minnesota, Clark of Wyoming, Depew of New York, Dick of Ohio, Du Pont of Delaware, Flint of California, Hale of Maine, Kean of New Jersey, La Follette of Wisconsin, Lodge of Massachusetts, McCumber of North Dakota, Nixon of Nevada, Oliver of Pennsylvania, Page of Vermont, Piles of Washington, Scott of West Virginia, Sutherland of Utah, and Warner of Missouri.

Republicans in Danger.

Of these Messrs. Beveridge and Warner are almost certainly marked for defeat by Democrats. Messrs. Burkett, Carter, Dick, and Nixon may travel the same route, and in view of recent events Messrs. Depew, Kean, and La Follette may also be put in the doubtful class. In the other eighteen States Republicans will probably be elected. It is certain that in several of these cases the present incumbents will not return, for already four of them have made definite announcement of their retirement. These are Messrs. Aldrich, Flint, Hale, and Piles. The information to-night is that Mr. Depew has also recognized the handwriting on the wall and taken himself out of the race.

Of course, if there is an old-fashioned landslide coming such as swept the Republicans out in 1892 the Democrats may even make more gains than have been here indicated. The situation which would under general circumstances give the New York Legislature to the Democrats would also probably take New Jersey and Connecticut along.

Taking the States by groups the different situations to-day are practically as follows: In Maine the Republicans seem certain to control the Legislature, but there are already three factions in the party, with an insurgent so far ahead in the race to succeed Mr. Hale.

In Vermont Senator Page will come back or be succeeded by another Republican, who stands for the same political ideas.

In Massachusetts Senator Lodge is already having some trouble in his own party, and he may also have a lot of trouble with the Democrats before he secures re-election. Both he and Senator Crane are confident that the Republicans will carry the Legislature, in which event Mr. Lodge will no doubt succeed himself.

The Connecticut situation has shown no signs of difficulty for the Republicans thus far, and Senator Bulkeley seems sure of re-election.

Disturbed Over New York.

The New York Republican leaders are very much disturbed over the situation in their State. The defeat of Aldridge yesterday, following on the heels of the Allds scandal, are extremely bad indications. On every hand is heard the expression that only Col. Roosevelt can save New York to the Republicans next Fall. What he will do, of course, no man can tell.

New Jersey presents a largely similar situation, and if the indicated Democratic ground swell finally develops Senator Kean is quite likely to be elected to stay at home for a while.

In Delaware there are no signs yet of any serious trouble among the Republicans, and Senator Du Font is likely to come back. But the Republican majority there is not large, and a ground swell may easily wipe it out altogether.

In West Virginia Representative Hubbard is out for Senator Scott's place. The Republicans are split into factions very badly. But there has been no special indiction of disaffection, and the tariff took care of West Virginia handsomely, so that the Republicans stand to hold their own unless there is a great upheaval.

Pennsylvania will no doubt return Senator Oliver.

Then comes Ohio, where the Republicans are in all sorts of trouble, factional and otherwise, with a strong Democrat in the Governor's chair. Gov. Harmon will run again, with every prospect of re-election. Senator Dick, one of the old guard reactionaries, is out for a primary to renominate himself with three or four candidates against him. The Democrats stand a good fighting show of carrying the Legislature and choosing his successor.

In Michigan the Republicans probably will have no trouble carrying the Legislature. Senator Burrows is out to succeed himself, but Representative Townsend is hot after him. Mr. Burrows may be defeated, but a Republican probably will succeed him.

Little Hope of Indiana.

Mr. Beveridge stoutly maintains that the Republicans will carry Indiana by 50,000, and that he will be re-elected. Neither the Democrats nor such Republicans as Messrs. Watson and Hemenway believe any such thing. The Republican Party in Indiana is shot full of holes and nothing short of a political miracle can save Mr. Beveridge.

In Wisconsin the Democrats were admitting only a short time ago that they had no chance of beating Senator La Follette; so were the regular Republicans. He is on the popular side of the tariff agitation, and unquestionably has a great deal of strength. There is little real probability now that he will not come back.

Minnesota is another State where there is strong factional difference among the Republicans. But there the regulars are in the hot water. Senator Clapp is a red-hot insurgent and probably will have no especial trouble in securing re-election.

In Missouri every indication points to the election of a Democrat to succeed Senator Warner. There is hardly a Republican to be found here who will express the opinion that it is possible for his party to carry the Legislature.

North Dakota stands now to return a Republican. Senator McCumber is having some trouble in his own party there, but thus far there has been nothing to indicate that he would not be able eventually to overcome it.

Senator Clark of Wyoming is as good as re-elected right now.

The Democrats have a good fighting chance, and, perhaps better, of carrying Montana and electing Senator Carter's successor. They have the Governorship now and not a large majority to overcome.

Utah is entirely satisfied with Senator Sutherland, and he will no doubt get another term.

The pocket borough of Nevada has been divided up for some time between Newlands, the Democrat, and Nixon, the Republican. Newlands does the talking in the Senate for the State, and Nixon sits tight and votes with the Republican old guard. The Democrats have not far to go to get Nixon's place if they really want it.

In Washington the Republicans are in good position to elect the successor to Senator Piles, although there is a good bit of insurgent sentiment in the eastern part of the State.

There is a redhot campaign on in California for the place of Senator Flint. Unless the indicated ground swell develops with emphatic force the probability is that some Republican will win.

In general, then, the showing now is that the Republicans will surely lose two of their twenty-four seats, and perhaps three or four more, with a good chance that their loss will be considerably larger if the election in New York and Massachusetts give a true line on conditions all over the country.

ARTISTS' WORK SHOWN.

Pictures by Lichtenauer, Kronberg, and Elliott Exhibited at Knoedler's.

At the Knoedler Galleries this week are three exhibitions, all of interest. One is a group of portraits by J. Mortimer Lichtenauer. The finest is the portrait of the artist's wife, which was exhibited at the last academy, and which shows the downright qualities of Mr. Lichtenauer's draughtsmanship together with an unusual felicity of color. Another excellent portrait is that of the artist's niece. "Madame Bertha Kalich of The New Theatre" is striking as a composition, but the general effect is hard and somewhat superficial. It is one of the characteristics of the portraits as a whole that nothing is compromised or flattered in the rendering and tendency to hardness of outline is a natural result by no means altogether to be deprecated.

In the same gallery is a group of pictures by Louis Kronberg, for the most part scenes of the theatre, with two or three little nudes delicately drawn and firmly modeled. The large picture called "The Lotus," representing a woman of Egyptian type in Egyptian draperies, is an envoy of the Longfellow traveling scholarship. Technically clever in the extreme it is less attractive than the smaller subject, the little ballet girl mending her gauzy skirts in a big rather barren room, her charming head silhouetted against a gray wall beautiful in value. The portrait of the late Richard Mansfield as Baron Chevrell is rich in characterization and extremely effective in the placing of the figure on the canvas. The ballet subjects suggest Degas, of course, but are independent in vision and remarkably strong in execution.

John Elliott's original pastel drawings for the illustrations of "The Great Sea Horse" by Isabel Anderson are in the outer gallery and show a combined spirit and delicacy rare enough in illustrative work. The figures of the horses, in particular, are vigorous in the extreme, and the artist has caught unfamiliar attitudes with a precision and fire that are seldom seen in equine portraiture. "The Great Sea Horse Rolling on the Sand" is a tour de force in this kind, and the imaginative sympathy with the moods depicted is no less noteworthy than the rapid and accurate notation of the passing gesture. The horses were drawn, we believe, from the lively beasts of the Roman Campagna, where the artist had an opportunity to study his models at close range.

Two large portraits are also shown, one a half length of a man with his hands clasped in front of him, an early work painted when Mr. Elliott was fresh from Carolus Duran's tuition, the other a recent portrait of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, exquisite in its rendering of a spiritual type undimmed by the passing of many years.

IN NEW JERSEY.

Bayonne will not appeal from the verdict of a jury in the Supreme Court, but will issue bonds for $243,222 to settle the claim of Contractor W. T. S. Critchfield for the reimprovement of Broadway. Counsel for the city bitterly opposed this action and urged an appeal.

School Commissioner Dr. John F. Condon of Belleville reported to the Belleville Board of Education last night that a school teacher presented to her class the controversy between the Vatican and Col. Roosevelt. In commending the latter and censuring the Vatican has resulted in the Roman Catholic pupils being insulted by those of other denominations. Dr. Condon asked for an investigation, but the board decided it could take no action.

While fishing in Third River, near Bloomfield, Charles Pierson, a fourteen-year-old boy, found yesterday a box containing four sticks of dynamite. The boy took it home, and believing it was rock candy was about to break it up with a hatchet when his father snatched it from him and placed it in a pail of water. Policeman Blum took the dynamite to the station house, and the police are puzzled as to what to do with it.

A scolding that Judge Joseph B. Bray in Orange administered yesterday to John Kelly lost some of its snap because he had to write it. Kelly is deaf. Kelly's dog has scared his neighbors. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself," wrote Judge Bray. "I know it," wrote Kelly, "but I'll get rid of him." That ended it.

HEARST LAUDS TAFT; REJECTS ROOSEVELT

Declares the President Has Done More in a Year Than His Predecessor Did.

WARNING TO THE COUNTRY

Fears Renewed Dominance of Roosevelt—Statement Issued After a Talk with the President.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—William Randolph Hearst, former aspirant for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, issued to-night a remarkable statement over his signature, in which he unqualifiedly indorsed President Taft, criticized the administration of President Roosevelt, and warned the Nation against a renewal of the political domination of the former President.

Mr. Hearst called at the White House this afternoon. He spent a half hour with the President in the Executive office. Upon leaving he said he had called merely to pay his respects to Mr. Taft, whom he said he admired. Later he issued his statement.

"No one can talk with the President without appreciating and respecting his earnestness and sincerity," the statement says. "Personally, I believe also in his efficiency. He has been one year in office and he has certainly accomplished more in that one year than Roosevelt did in his first year.

"It is hardly fair to compare Taft's one year with Roosevelt's seven, and yet I am not sure that even with that the comparison might not be to Taft's advantage. Taft's methods are not those of Roosevelt, but then Taft will probably not conclude his term with a panic.

"On the whole, it seems to me that a quiet, earnest gentleman who came into office when the country was in the slough of adversity, and, after one year in office, has placed the country on the high road of prosperity, is quite as valuable a President as a more showy and spectacular person who found the country in the height of prosperity and left it in the depths of adversity."

Mr. Hearst admits that he does not charge Mr. Roosevelt directly with responsibility for the panic of 1907, nor does he undertake to give Mr. Taft the entire credit for the restoration of prosperity. He declares, however, that an Administration which is producing more dividends for business men and finding work for the unemployed "should not be too carpingly criticised for certain minor faults of omission or commission."

"Taft is carying out Roosevelt's policies in the one way that they ought to be carried out," he says. "That is to say, he is doing the things that Roosevelt should have done but did not do. Taft is making the Roosevelt railroad rate act complete and effective. The Roosevelt railroad act has always been an utter failure, and everybody who knew anything about the subject knew when it was passed that it was a farce and would be a failure. It might have been meant to be a failure.

"At any rate, Mr. Hepburn, the gentleman who was selected by the Roosevelt Administration to stand sponsor for that bill in the House, had but lately been hung in effigy by his enthusiastic constituents for too great friendliness to the railroads. Would you have selected that kind of a man, tagged with that kind of a testimonial, to frame that kind of a bill? And can you imagine Mr. Roosevelt, the Diogenes of politics, hunting through the House of Congress, lantern in hand, to find an honest man, and selecting this executed effigy as the fittest one to frame the people's railroad bill?

Mr. Hearst says that President Taft is trying to stiffen into active force the "spineless railroad bill" of the Roosevelt Administration. He gives Mr. Taft credit for the prosecution of criminal trusts and for throwing his powerful influence behind many needed laws, among them the Corporation Tax bill, the Overcapitalization bill, a bill providing for postal savings banks, the parcels post measure, and the Income Tax bill.

"All these measures are good," continued Mr. Hearst. "Some of these, the Roosevelt Administration willfully omitted, others it fairly neglected, some it discussed but never accomplished.

"If the people want more of achievement than Taft is giving them they must turn to another party, for I do not believe that there is another man in the Republican Party who will do more, or as much.

"Most certainly, if the people want the tariff modified they must turn to another party, for the tariff will never be modified by its beneficiaries. And its beneficiaries control the Republican Party."

Mr. Hearst closed his statement with the declaration that the American people need look for no tariff reform. He signed his full name at the end of the document.

PEARY PROOFS COMING OUT.

Hampton's Magazine to Publish His Records This Summer.

Those in Congress and elsewhere who were recently clamoring to see Commander Peary's records and proofs that he reached the north pole before giving him the honors proposed in Congress will be gratified the coming Summer, according to an editorial announcement made by Hampton's Magazine for May.

The editor of Hampton's says that Commander Peary's contract with that publication provides that his proofs shall first be given to the world in its pages, and according to present plans the installments of the narrative appearing in June, July, and August will contain his records and scientific observations on the trips to and from the pole. The editor adds:

"These proofs will not only confirm the belief on the part of his millions of friends; they will answer his critics and prove his claim beyond cavil."

AGAINST QUARANTINE INQUIRY.

The Assembly Votes It Down by 82 to 30—Dr. Doty's Denial.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 20.—By a vote of 82 to 30 the Assembly refused to-day to adopt a concurrent resolution by Assemblyman Weinstein of Brooklyn directing the health officer of New York to investigate reports of neglect, cruelty, and revolting treatment of immigrants held for observation at the Quarantine stations in New York.

"I do not think that there is a more honest official in the public service than Dr. Doty, the health officer of the Port of New York," said Mr. Weinstein, "but there have been well-substantiated statements of gross abuses in the treatment of immigrants in Quarantine and elsewhere, and they should be investigated.

Reputable men and women are reported under affidavit of having been starved and beaten and subjected to the vilest indignities. The Legislature cannot afford to close its eyes to such atrocities. The guilty underlings who are responsible for this condition, if it really exists, must be brought to the bar of public justice."

"I hope that this resolution will not be adopted," said Republican Leader Merritt. "It contains unwarrantable reflections."

"The proper course," interjected Democratic Leader Frisbie, "seems to me to be to amalgamate this inquiry with the general investigation that has been proposed."

In reply to complaints made by I. Irving Lipsitch, agent at Ellis Island of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, concerning the care of immigrants held at Quarantine, particularly at Hoffman Island, Dr. Doty, Health Officer of the Port, said yesterday that the immigrants are well treated, both as to shelter and food, and that even better accommodations will be provided for them just as soon as certain improvements are made to the quarters on Hoffman Island.

"These complaints have been given careful and thorough investigation," said Dr. Doty, "and I find that most of them are without any foundation whatever. Others of a more serious character, alleged to have occurred two or three months ago, and which involve principally temporary employes who have not been connected with this department for some time, cannot be properly investigated because the complainants have long since passed from my jurisdiction.

"Statements which reflect, or are intended to reflect, on Mr. Bartow, the Superintendent of Hoffman Island," concludes Dr. Doty, "have not been confirmed, and he has neither resigned nor will he be asked to resign."

KITCHENER AIDS A VETERAN.

Promises to Help Get Him a Higher Pension—Sails for Home.

Before Lord Kitchener sailed for England yesterday on the White Star liner Oceanic he gladdened the heart of an old and maimed English soldier named John Hughes, who came to the Plaza, bearing a petition for an increase of pension. After hearing the veteran's story, Lord Kitchener shook him cordially by the hand, and promised to visit the Pension Office in his behalf as soon as he reached London.

For forty-one years, according to Mr. Hughes, he has been receiving a pension from the English Government of only sixpence, or about twelve cents, per day.

"A word from you and you could secure an increase of my pension," said the veteran to Lord Kitchener. "My right eye is totally blind, an injury which I received while on guard under arms at the Old Fort Barracks in Toronto, Canada, in November, 1868. The records at Chelsea will prove this.

"I was admitted to the pension of sixpence per day on July 9, 1869, from the Twenty-ninth Regiment. The number of my certificate at Chelsea is 95,328."

Before going to his stateroom Lord Kitchener consented to pose before a battery of cameras, remarking as he did so that he was breaking a general rule of his life in granting the request. The photographers escorted Lord Kitchener to the upper promenade deck, where he stood in the sunlight. He looked rather bored, but consented to stand for just "one more," for a belated camera man. When some one commented upon his surrender Lord Kitchener said that he had always retreated from newspapermen.

"I have had a ripping time," he said. This is really a great town, and it has the prettiest girls I ever saw."

DAVENPORT STILL LOST.

Aged Mother of the Six-Foot Paper Man Now Comes Seeking Him.

Mrs. Charles H. Davenport of South Hadley, Mass., the mother of Charles H. Davenport, Jr., who dropped out of sight in this city on Feb. 10, has come here to search for him. Mr. Davenport, her husband, has come here frequently to look for his son.

For many weeks after her son disappeared from the Waldorf-Astoria, the mother was prostrated with grief, but she is now endeavoring to run down some clue as to his fate. Mrs. Davenport said yesterday at the Hotel Belmont that she believed her boy was still alive.

Mrs. Davenport visited Ward's Island following the receipt of a letter asserting that one of the insane patients resembled himb, but the mother returned disappointed. To-morrow she will visit the insane asylum at Islip, L. I., and other institution for the insane and the ill in the vicinity of this city.

The missing man was 38 years old and had a wife and young daughter. His wife recently consulted an astrologer, who declared that her husband would return within twenty-one days. But the stars erred.

A reward of $500 was offered in vain by the father for the recovery of his son, dead or alive.

STARVING CANCER, A NEW TREATMENT

Remarkable Results Shown at a Clinic in the Skin and Cancer Hospital.

MANY APPARENT CURES

Men and Women Who Seem to Have Recovered Completely Appear to Demonstrate Bainbridge Theory.

Dr. William S. Bainbridge of the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital delivered the annual clinical lecture in the assembly room of the hospital yesterday afternoon. In the course of the clinic, the subject of which was "Ligation," the process of cutting off the blood supply upon which cancerous affections feed, he exhibited several apparent cures which aroused the keenest interest. For instance, Dr. Bainbridge introduced first a man and then a woman, both of whom had suffered from serious cancers of the face. In each case nearly the whole side of the face had been removed and a new cheek created by grafting skin, taken from the patients' legs and arms, on the side of the head where the cancer had been.

The clinic drew an attendance of physicians and others which taxed the capacity of the hall. These, many of them women, rose and cheered several times following the introduction of some man or woman who had been benefited by the surgery of Dr. Bainbridge and his corps of assistants, who, Dr. Bainbridge said, must share with him the credit of any work that had been done in the war on cancer which the hospital is making.

Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley, who as the representative of the hospital Trustees introduced Dr. Bainbridge, said, incidentally, that the hospital now has plans ready for the construction of a twelve-story building on the site of the present small structure, and that as soon as the necessary $1,000,000 is forthcoming work on this much-needed building will begin. He asked everybody present to aid in the work of making possible the proposed new hospital, and said that there were wealthy men in New York who, he thought, could well give the hospital consideration in the distribution of their wealth.

Dr. Bainbridge, who was then introduced, enjoys the reputation of being the youngest looking medical man in New York for his age. He is over 40, yet he looks not a day over 30. Several who had never seen him before were not certain that it was "Bainbridge, the concer specialist," when he got up to talk, and asked their nearest neighbor if this really was the man whose prominence in investigations of the disease is recognized throughout the world.

Dr. Bainbridge began by referring to the clinic as one of the happiest days in his struggle against one of the most horrible of diseases, since it enabled him to show some results. He went on to state the subject of the clinic, ligation, which he defined as the starving out of the death-eating growth. Near Dr. Bainbridge at this time was an elderly man, over the left side of whose face was spread a piece of antiseptic cloth. The man looked happy. Presently Dr. Bainbridge turned to him, and calling him by name asked him to come forward.

The man walked briskly up to the side of Dr. Bainbridge, and the latter put his arm around him and removed the cloth which obscured his face. Even some of the doctors present shuddered at what they saw. Nearly half of the man's face was gone, but the hole was healing, as everybody could see.

The man came to Dr. Bainbridge several weeks ago, he said, apparently in a dying condition. An operation was performed, the blood vessels leading to the cancer being closed so that it had nothing to feed upon.

"This man," said Dr. Bainbridge, "was operated on five weeks ago. He tells me now he has no pains, that he has gained eight pounds in weight, and he is feeling fine."

The next man who came forward was a middle-aged citizen of Westchester County. He wore glasses, the left lens of which was made of darkened glass such as blind men wear. Dr. Bainbridge told him to remove the glasses. Those present looked at a man who had once been in exactly the same condition as he who had just appeared before them. But there was no gap in his face. The skin was clear and healthy in appearance. Only the cicatrix and the depression in the cheek showing that he had once undergone a serious operation.

"This man," said Dr. Bainbridge, "two years ago was in just as bad a fix as the one you have just seen. Then he came to us. An operation was successfully performed and skin taken from his leg and grafted on the cheek. Now he looks al right, doesn't he? My friend came to New York this morning to tell his only daughter—"

"Excuse me, it was my oldest, Doctor," the man from Westchester laughingly interrupted.

"All right, old fellow, your eldest daughter then. She sailed for Bermuda this morning, and he just stopped in to show you what can sometimes be accomplished."

Seated in the rear of the room while Dr. Brainbridge was talking was a little German woman, only 23 years old. She came to the hospital only last month. The doctors found that she had long been suffering from cancer in its most malignant form. Ligation was performed and the growth isolated. Yesterday, just thirty-eight days after she left the operating table, she was in the room. No one there would ever have thought she had been a victim of the disease.

Since she was operated upon the color has come back to her cheeks, she has gained 10 pounds in weight, and is able to attend to most of her household duties.

When the woman had gone, Dr. Bainbridge turned around and asked Sergeant Shea of the New York police force to come up.

"A year ago last Christmas," said Dr. Bainbridge, "Sergeant Shea was eating his dinner when he felt a severe pain in his stomach. He did not know what it was, but when we examined him we found that he was suffering from a terrible cancer. It was one of the worst cases, but we operated and the diseased parts were removed. That was a year ago last January. To-day Sergeant Shea is feeling fine and he is still one of the good men who are guarding your persons and your property in this city."

Next was a middle-aged woman, a happy faced little creature, who looked at Dr. Bainbridge with an expression that showed more plainly than words that the youthful looking surgeon was not less than a saint, in her opinion. She had undergone the same operation that the Westchester man had, and she, too, had a new left cheek. Dr. Bainbridge put his arm around her and asked her how she felt.

"Fine, doctor," she said.

"And you are glad to be alive, aren't you?" the doctor asked.

"Indeed I am," she answered smilingly.

Then Dr. Bainbridge, his arm still around her, told how near death she was when she went to the hospital many months ago.

"I don't know whether I have a brain or not, Mrs. ——," Dr. Bainbridge said gently, "but I know that you have, for I have seen it."

The skin for the new cheek that this woman has was grafted from her arm. Like the Westchester man, she is happy, and apparently completely cured.

"This dear little lady," said Dr. Bainbridge, "was in just as bad a fix as was the man you have seen. Now she does her work, can go wherever she wants to, takes care of her home, and is happy and contented."

A dapper looking young man, stylishly dressed and looking as if he never had a care in the world, came forward next.

"What hospital is this?" Dr. Bainbridge asked him.

"The New York Skin and Cancer Hospital," the man answered in a clear voice, enunciating the words perfectly.

"Let's hear you say 'Dr. Bulkley,'" said Dr. Bainbridge.

The reply was clear and distinct. Then Dr. Bainbridge told the man to show his tongue. There was but a little of it left. To-day, to all appearance, he is cured. The man himself says he never felt better in his life.

These were only a few of the remarkable cases that Dr. Bainbridge showed yesterday. All of them owe their present improved condition to the system of surgery known as ligation. Dr. Bainbridge does not pretend that all are cured. He does say, however, that all have been greatly benefited and that in many cases they are apparently cured.

After the lecture Dr. Bainbridge was overwhelmed with congratulations, many of the physicians present declaring that what they had seen could be described by one word, and that word was "wonderful."

HOFFSTOT ARRESTED HERE AS A FUGITIVE

Gov. Hughes Grants the Pennsylvania Executive's Demand for His Surrender.

BANKER KEEPS UP THE FIGHT

Obtains a Writ of Habeas Corpus and Is Released in $10,000 Bail Pending Argument.

The storm which has been gathering over the head of Frank N. Hoffstot, indicted President of the German National Bank of Allegheny and head of the strike-ridden Pressed Steel Car Works, broke with renewed vigor yesterday when he was arrested by Detective Flood of District Attorney Whitman's office as a fugitive from justice, Gov. Hughes having honored, with vigorous comment, the application of the Pennsylvania authorities for Hoffstot's extradition earlier in the day.

The indictment is in substance that on June 3, 1908, in Allegheny County, he conspired with one Stewart and one Friend (now dead) to defraud the City of Pittsburg and to procure by the bribery of Councilmen the selection of the Farmers' Deposit National Bank of Pittsburg, Second National Bank of Pittsburg, and German National Bank of Allegheny as the depositories of the city. A $52,500 bribe fund is mentioned.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Albert Perkins of this county, together with District Attorney William A. Blakeley of Allegheny County, who has prepared the case against the indicted bank President, and George Gordon Battle, special representative of the Allegheny County authorities in this county, went over the indictment against Hoffstot with Gov. Hughes last Monday. They returned to this city yesterday morning with the Governor's written grant of the Pennsylvania Governor's application for Hoffstot's extradition. Mr. Perkins telephoned to John D. Lindsay, the indicted bank President's lawyer, that he must produce his client.

Ready for Arrest.

"He will be in my office, 113 Nassau Street, by the time your detective can reach it from the Criminal Courts Building," Lindsay answered.

Hoffstot and his lawyer stood ready in the latter's office when County Detectives Flood and Thomas arrived. All four went up to the Criminal Courts Building in pursuance of the formality required by the extradition papers whereby the indicted bank President was required to give himself into the custody of the District Attorney of this county to be turned over to the agents of the Pennsylvania authorities.

On reaching the Criminal Courts Building, however, Mr. Lindsay, for Hoffstot, sprang a surprise.

"I have a paper here which you should read before we do anything further," he said to the Assistant District Attorneys and detectives.

It was a writ of habeas corpus ordering the District Attorney's office to produce Hoffstot forthwith in the United States Circuit Court. There had been talk that Hoffstot intended to fight extradition to the last ditch. He and his lawyers have set many hopes on the contention that he was not in Pittsburg on June 3, 1908, when the crime with which he is charged was committed.

Gov. Hughes in his opinion did not seem to think that the contention was well taken. Nevertheless Hoffstot's lawyers clung to it before Judge Holt and said later that they intended to keep on doing so.

When Hoffstot was arraigned before Judge Holt his lawyers immediately asked for a hearing on the permanency of the habeas corpus writ. Judge Holt set it for to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Adrian H. Joline, for Hoffstot, argued that his client should be released in his custody, but Mr. Battle and Assistant District Attorney Johnson opposed this vigorously. Judge Holt finally fixed bail at $10,000. It was furnished by the National Surety Company.

While the lawyers were arguing Hoffstot stood silent, his thin lips now and then twitching nervously.

"This is my second visit to you," he said urbanely to United States Commissioner Shields while the bail bond was being made out. Hoffstot would not comment on the case when he left the Federal Building.

The Governor's Opinion.

Gov. Hughes's warrant of surrender is accompanied by a fourteen-page brief, going into the law of extradition. He said:

> It is claimed on behalf of the accused that he is not a fugitive from justice. In support of that claim he testifies that he was not in the State of Pennsylvania on June 3, 1908, the date on which the indictment charges that the crime was committed, but on that date he was in the City of New York.
>
> But it is the contention of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that it is not limited to the precise date mentioned in the indictment, and that the crime was not committed on that particular day, but during a period extending through May and June, 1908.
>
> The crime here alleged in conspiracy to bribe municipal officers. It would not be necessary to prove that the crime was committed on a particular day. It may be proved by circumstantial evidence and its very nature frequently makes a crime of this sort susceptible of none other.
>
> The rights of the accused in an extradition proceeding are no more sacred than those of the defendant upon the trial for crime. The precise date may be disregarded in the latter, and it should not be deemed absolutely binding in the former.
>
> I conclude, therefore, that the question in the present case is not simply whether the accused was in the State of Pennsylvania on June 3, 1908, but whether he is a fugitive from justice with respect to the charge of conspiracy committed in the Spring of 1908.
>
> Now, in order that he should be deemed a fugitive from justice it is not necessary that the accused should have left the State in which the crime is alleged to have been committed for the purpose of avoiding a prosecution. Nor may the accused be the less a fugitive from justice because he may reside in the State where he is found.
>
> Upon an application of this sort it is neither practicable nor proper to try the merits of the charge, npr to determine whether the accused is guilty. So far as the charge of crime is concerned, it is sufficient that it be shown by affidavit or indictment as the statute requires. Nor can it be conceived to be necessary to try the merits of the charge in order to determine whether the accused is a fugitive from justice.
>
> Question of Where He Was.
>
> It must be deemed sufficient that it appears that the accused was within the demanding State at or during the time to which the charge relates, and in circumstances which do not negative his participation in the crime.
>
> Where the charge is conspiracy, as in the present case, it is idle to say that the accused cannot be considered a fugitive from justice unless it is shown that, while he was within the demanding State, at the place and during the time to which the charge relates, he performed an act sufficient to show his participation in the crime.
>
> Whether his acts within that State during the period in question are of a character to justify his conviction, must be determined by a consideration of all the evidence which can satisfactorily be produced only upon the trial, and cannot properly be heard or weighed on an application of this kind. At least this would seem to be clear where his presence in the State at the time to which the charge relates was not under conditions which establish the impossibility of his participation.
>
> Viewed in this light, I am convinced that I should honor the requisition.

The Governor then refers to Hoffstot's business connections in Pittsburg and to his testimony before the Governor, in which he said he was in Pittsburg on May 25 or 26 and June 29 or 30, 1908.

"It is no answer," continues the Governor, "to say that the presentment in connection with other matters refers to an intention that payment of the bribe money should be made in New York in order to escape prosecution in Pennsylvania. This is only one of the statements. The charge is sufficiently made that he committed the crime in the State of Pennsylvania.

"The only question is whether he should be regarded as a fugitive from justice; and I find that he is and hence will grant the warrant."

LESLIE CANNOT ESCAPE.

Court Orders Him to Appear for Trial Next Monday in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, April 20.—The trial of Max G. Leslie, County Delinquent Tax Collector, on charges of bribery and conspiracy in connection with the use of his influence in the passage of certain city ordinances, which was postponed on Monday on motion of counsel for the defense, who declared that Leslie was confined to his bed in New York City, too ill to stand trial, was set for next Monday by Judges Cohen and Frazer, sitting in Criminal Courts to-day.

A physician who examined Leslie in New York City yesterday appeared in court today with the statement that Leslie was "undoubtedly suffering with nervous trouble, but not seriously ill." Upon the strength of the physician's testimony Judge Frazer set the date for Leslie's appearance, and cautioned counsel to have him here on the date named by the court.

The trial of former Common Councilman A. V. Simon, on two indictments charging bribery, was called to-day. Simon pleaded not guilty.

According to the desk clerk at the Hotel Imperial, M. G. Leslie of Pittsburg is not so ill as to be confined to his bed.

"Mr. Leslie has been staying in the hotel for the last three or four days, perhaps a week," said the clerk. "He is out now, however, and won't be back till to-morrow night."

LAWYER TAFT IN WILL CASE.

Mrs. Johnson's Daughters Charge Ellerton P. Whitney with Fraud.

Henry W. Taft, brother of the President, appeared yesterday before Surrogate Thomas as attorney for the contestants of the will of Caroline Elizabeth Johnson, who died in 1908 leaving an estate valued at more than $750,000. The contestants are the three daughters of Mrs. Johnson, Josephine W. Taylor, Alice W. Emmet, and Fannie Lawrence Johnson.

It is charged that Ellerton P. Whitney, a nephew of the dead woman and for many years her agent in her business affairs, exerted an undue influence on Mrs. Johnson and obtained her signature to a will executed on Oct. 26, 1903, by fraud. Whitney and Charles S. Rackerman are executors under the protested will.

Spencer, Ordway & Wierum represent the proponents of the will. Lawyer Rackerman, who drew the document was the principal witness yesterday. At the hearing to-day Whitney, the nephew, will tell his story of the drawing of the document.

BELLEVUE THIEF BUSY AGAIN.

Gets Away with the Gold Watches of Drs. Coe and Douglas and $25.

A robber who kept the authorities of Bellevue Hospital busy several months ago turned up once more yesterday, and as a result two gold watches and chains and cash, valued at about $600, are missing.

The victims were Dr. H. E. Coe and Dr. John A. Douglas, visiting physicians. The property was taken from their lockers in the dressing room on the top floor of the hospital But for the first time the thief was seen and a fairly good description of him is in the hands of the police.

A class was at work in the amphitheatre when Dr. W. E. Studdiford, a visiting physician, suddenly entered the room and bumped against a young man. The young man, whom the physician describes as about 5 feet 10 inches in height and smooth shaven, wearing dark clothes, nodded pleasantly to him as he passed out.

Dr. Studdiford immediately noticed the lockers had been tampered with, and going to the amphitheatre informed Dr. Coe and Dr. Douglas. Dr. W. H. Smith, General Medical Superintendent, also was notified, but, although orderlies and others searched the building for an hour, the young man had disappeared.

Dr. Coe lost a gold watch and chain valued at $300 and $10 in cash. Dr. Douglas's gold watch and chain, which he valued at the same figure, and $15 in cash were also taken.

Beginning a year ago and for several months the robber visited the hospital every few days. The physicians and others lost many articles of value, while hose and brass fittings were taken from the building. Though the authorities placed watchmen in all sections of the buildings and grounds, the thefts continued and the thief was never caught or even seen until yesterday.

STATE POSTMASTERS MEET.

Mr. Morgan Urges Pensions for Men Old in the Service.

The New York State Postmasters' Association, made up of Postmasters of first, second, and third class Post Offices, held its annual meeting at the Republican Club yesterday. There are about 300 members, but not more than 200 were present.

Matters having to do with the betterment of the postal service were discussed by members of the organization and representatives of the Civil Service Commission and the Post Office Department at Washington. David M. Pratt of Elmira, acting President of the organization, presided. John F. Geis of Brooklyn is the Secretary. Postmaster E. M. Morgan, President of the National Association of Postmasters of the first class, made the address of welcome.

"These associations, although of comparatively recent origin," said Mr. Morgan, "have already been of great benefit to the service. At our annual conventions we can thrash out the perplexing problems with which the service abounds, we can compare notes, and come to a better understanding as to matters of routine and discipline.

"The first matter of importance, in my opinion, which I will touch upon, is the agitation that is now being waged for the procurement of a law that will retire with suitable compensation the superannuated employes in our own service, as well as in the other Federal departments. Aside from the boon which such a law would be to the old employes themselves, it should be passed if only for the benefit it would bring to the Government service generally.

"We cannot disguise the fact that a great many men are no longer able to perform a full day's work, and their retirement would open the way for the appointment of young, active men, spurred with ambition to rise in the service and willing to work hard to have their ambition realized.

"As to Sunday work in Post Offices, we know that it is a necessity and that it cannot be abolished, but I think we will all agree on the proposition that when an employe is compelled to work on a Sunday he should have a day off the week following."

H. C. Coles, Secretary of the United States Civil Service Commission for the Second District, made an address on the application of the civil service rules to the Post Office service. Expressions of approval from Congressmen in regard to the pending bill for an increase in the appropriations for third-class offices were read.

To-day James H. Callanan, Chairman of the Executive Committee and Postmaster at Schenectady, will speak on how the business of a first-class office is conducted; W. H. Bain of Canajoharie will speak on second-class, and J. L. More of Pulaski on third-class office work. H. M. Bacon, chief clerk of the classification division of the Third Assistant Postmaster General's office, will talk on second-class mail matter. In the evening there will be a dinner at the Republican Club.

SLAIN GIRL'S RING IN WOLTER'S ROOM

Ruth Wheeler's Sisters Identify It with Other of Her Belongings.

MOTHER FAINTS IN COURT

Coroner's Physician Tells How the Victim Was Strangled with Tape and Burned.

The prosecution yesterday began to draw its toils around Albert Walter Wolter, the eighteen-year-old youth who is on trial in General Sessions before Judge Foster for the murder of Ruth Wheeler. Much of the day was given up to the identification of articles belonging to the dead girl which were found in his apartment and a blow was given to the defense by the production of a ring bearing the initials "R. A. W.," by which its identity was readily established.

The chief interest of the day centred in the evidence of Adelaide and Pearl Wheeler, sisters of the murdered stenographer. The testimony of the latter as to the way in which the defendant had insulted her when she went to his rooms in search of Ruth moved him to almost the only sign of feeling he evinced during the whole day's proceedings. Most of the time he sat listlessly watching the play of counsel and witnesses.

In the course of the medical testimony, taken up as it largely was with the identification of pieces of bone and other gruesome objects, there came out incidentally some hint of the struggle the girl made before she was killed. Dr. George S. Huntington, Professor of Anatomy at Columbia University, told of finding between her fingers some hairs which were evidently not her own, and Dr. Philip O'Hanlon, the Coroner's physician, could not be shaken by the defense in his opinion that the girl had been burned before her death, and that her murderer fastened a cord around her neck to strangle her.

The first witness of the day, Jeanie Fischer of 235 East 117th Street, a saleswoman in a store at Third Avenue and 121st Street, established an important link in the prosecution's chain of evidence by a positive identification of an empty paint pot and brush as articles which she had sold to Wolter between 2 and 3 o'clock of the afternoon of March 24. She could not be mistaken, she said, because the brush was the last of the sort she had in stock, and the defendant had looked at her in a peculiar way when he bought it.

Then Capt. Edward P. Hughes of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station was called and began the series of identifications of the exhibits in the case as having been found either in Wolter's rooms or with the body of the murdered woman in the sack outside. He established that the red-backed notebook with an entry relating to Ruth Wheeler came from Wolter's trunk. He told of the contents of the sack and of the frayed tape around the girl's throat.

"It was bound tightly," he said, "and had sunk into the flesh."

Adelaide Wheeler, the younger of the surviving sisters, next took the stand. She answered the questions put to her with quiet self-possession, but in a voice which could be heard all over the courtroom. Mr. Moss began by getting the witness to identify a strand of beads as having belonged to her murdered sister. With other articles the beads were found in Wolter's rooms.

One by one the witness identified the different articles which Mr. Moss showed her. They included the umbrella, a seal ring, a braid of hair, and several fragments of clothing. She described going to the police station and identifying the body found in the courtyard. She said she was sure it was that of her sister.

As the witness gave a description of her sister's hat her mother, who was sitting among the spectators, fainted, but was taken out so quietly by the court attendants that the witness did not notice it.

After recess the medical testimony was begun. Dr. Philip O'Hanlon gave full details of what his autopsy had disclosed. He said that a piece of tape had undoubtedly been used to strangle the girl. He was certain she had been thrown into the fire before life was extinct.

Prof. John H. Larkin, a member of the medical faculty of Columbia, was the next witness. He described conditions which made him positive that a body had been burned in the fireplace of Wolter's room. In his cross-examination Mr. Scott got the witness to acknowledge that he could not be certain that it was a human body that had been incinerated.

After Capt. Carey of the Homicide Bureau had been on the stand for a few minutes to add to the strength of the identification of the articles, Pearl Wheeler elder sister of the dead girl, was called. She said that on the evening of March 24 when she returned home about 7 o'clock to find that Ruth was missing, she first telephoned to the school her sister had attended. Then she went to Wolter's apartment at 224 East Seventy-fifth Street. Mrs. Mohl, the janitor's wife, directed her to his rooms.

"I knocked at the door," she said. "A woman opened it. I know her now as Katie Muller. I asked for Wolter, and she told me to go right into the bedroom. When I entered he was in bed, and said he had not seen my sister. I walked around opening the closets and calling for Ruth."

It was then that Wolter insulted her grossly. When she found that the outer door was locked she made Katie Muller open it by telling her that she had a policeman outside. Then she went home and told of her fears. With her mother, a Mr. Stowe, and three policemen she went back to Wolter's apartment. This time he opened the door himself and they searched the rooms. As they found nothing the witness went away and sent out a general alarm for her sister.

Mr. Moss then showed her the various exhibits, which she identified without faltering as having been part of her dead sister's belongings. Mr. Scott let her off with a very much less severe cross-examination than he had given to her sister Adelaide, and the court adjourned to 10 o'clock this morning.

Judge Foster expressed the hope that the case might be finished this week, and Mr. Moss said he expected to rest to-night.

Among those attending the trial yesterday was Olga Nethersole, the actress, who was given a seat on the bench during the morning session.

BARS GRAFT CHARGES DURING CAMPAIGN

AMEND SENATE RESOLUTION

Expected That Measure Will Pass Assembly To-Day and Go Back to Senate for Concurrence.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 20.—At an executive session to-night the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly voted to report to the Lower House to-morrow a substitute for the concurrent resolution providing for an investigation of graft in the Legislature and the State departments, which was rushed through the Senate by unanimous vote last week. As a result the new measure will have to be sent to the Senate for passage before it can become effective, while, if the Assembly committee had accepted the resolution in the form in which it came from the Senate it would have gone into effect after the Assembly had acted upon it.

It cannot be said that the resolution reported by the Ways and Means Committee to-night would have the effect of narrowing the scope of the proposed investigation beyond what the Senate resolution of last week contemplates. There is only one radical difference. The Assembly resolution provides in specific terms that no charge of official misconduct against any candidate for nomination or election to an elective State office shall be received after Sept. 1.

Another new provision is that any person charged with official misconduct shall be entitled to be represented by counsel and to subpoena and examine and cross-examine witnesses.

In all other respects the provisions of the two resolutions are identical in effect, though the language differs. The section of the Ways and Means Committee's resolution in which the language of the Senate resolution has been revised deals with the scope of the proposed investigation. It follows:

> Resolved, (if the Assembly concur,) That a joint committee of three Senators, to be appointed by the President of the Senate, and five Assemblymen, to be appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly, is hereby constituted and appointed a legislative committee to investigate as speedily as possible all corruption and corrupt practices in connection with legislation which may have developed in the recent investigation conducted by the Superintendent of Insurance; the business methods, operation, management, supervision, and control of all insurance companies other than those doing life insurance business, including State and local boards of fire underwriters, and the relation of such companies and boards with legislation; any specific charge, verified upon knowledge, of corrupt practices or official misconduct in connection with legislation or the Legislature or with any matter or proceeding before any State department, board, body, or officer, and any other matters pertaining to the conduct of the business of the State which in the judgment of the committee warrants an investigation, and to the end that such remedial legislation may be enacted or change of method in the conduct of public business be adopted as will prevent a recurrence of any abuses or evils disclosed.

It was said this evening that Speaker Wadsworth was chiefly responsible for the changes that were made. The resolution will in all probability be adopted by the Assembly to-morrow. It is not likely, according to Majority Leader Cobb of the Senate, that that body will concur in the Assembly resolution earlier than next week. Mr. Merritt, Chairman of the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means, in discussing the resolution adopted by his committee, said to-night:

"The committee has reported a substitute for the Senate resolution providing for an investigation of corrupt practices in connection with legislation and methods of State departments. We consider the substitute more substantial, broader, more specific and stronger. There was no division in the committee, and no opposition so far as I know."

OHIO TELEPHONE BILL LOST.

Bribery Investigating Committee Recommends Inquiry by Grand Jury.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 20.—Despite the efforts of the lobby and the powerful telephone interests behind the move to pass the now famous Elson Telephone Merger bill, it was defeated in the Senate to-day by a vote of 14 to 19, after exciting discussion. Senators opposed to the bill referred to the charges of bribery in the House which have been under investigation, and to the large sum of money it is alleged has been used to pass the bill.

The Bribery Investigating Committee resumed work to-day, giving Lewis G. Bernard, the Democratic boss of Cincinnati, a chance to testify in his own behalf. Judge Winters, appearing before the committee a few days ago, stated that Mr. Bernard, on the day the Elson bill was up for passage, had come to him and said that if he would vote for it he would receive the support not only of Mr. Bernard, but that of other prominent Democrats, for the nomination for Secretary of State or any other office to which he might aspire.

Talks on Teeth

BY

G. GORDON MARTIN

(INCORPORATED)

No Hope

Many men and women have been told by dentists that because they have lost nearly all of their teeth there was no hope for them; they might prepare to wear a plate the rest of their natural lives.

It is a terrible sentence to impose on a person.

The very thought of having to wear a loose plate in the mouth is abhorrent to the great majority of people.

When a man has made the rounds of the dental offices and has been told practically the same story at each, and then is so fortunate as to read one of our announcements telling him that if he has two or more teeth left in either jaw we can supply, through the Martinolar Method, all of those that he has lost, we are very apt to interest him.

Very often he comes to our office a rank sceptic, but after our examining dentist examines his mouth and explains our method, and after he has made a call or two upon some of the patients that we can refer him to, he has another story to tell.

This is the way that we have built up our business. It has been a matter of confidence, and confidence is a plant of slow growth.

We are going to ask you to read a letter from J. W. Craig, which, to those who know him, will be absolutely convincing:—

980 Simpson St., New York City.
G. GORDON MARTIN, Inc.,
320 Fifth Ave., New York City.

Gentlemen:—I came to you after being completely discouraged by advice to the effect that I had no alternative but to have the few remaining teeth in my upper jaw extracted and wear a plate.

You, by a superior method certainly, put a substantial, firm set of teeth into my mouth without the discomfort of a plate. I have used the same with the greatest satisfaction for four months, and the end of this satisfaction is not in sight. Your charges I paid without question. And now I want to thank you.

Very truly yours,
J. W. CRAIG.

These are the sort of cases that we get—desperate cases, where all hope has been abandoned and where there is little or nothing to work with. The fact that we can satisfy these people and draw testimonial letters from them should be evidence enough to the sceptic man or woman that this is the greatest invention of modern times in the science of dentistry.

If you are sceptical won't you, in fairness to us and yourself, give us the benefit of the doubt and allow us to make an examination of your mouth?

If it is not possible for you to call at once at our office you can do the next best thing—send for Dr. Martin's free book entitled "Martinolar Dentistry," which explains the method in detail. In sending for this book you are not obligating yourself to have any work done, neither do you obligate yourself if you come to our office for a free diagnosis of your case.

If you are tired of wearing a partial plate or bridge and would like a set of teeth that will be just as satisfactory as nature's teeth, we are at your service.

MINNEHAHA CARGO ISLANDERS' PRIZE

People of the Scillys Have the Greatest Windfall in Their History.

AUTOS THROWN OVERBOARD

Cigarettes and American Novels Among Other Things Jettisoned—The Vessel May Be Cut in Half.

HUGHTOWN, St. Mary's, Scilly Islands, April 20.—The inhabitants of the rocky Scilly Islands have always been famous wreckers, but they will forever remember this as the greatest day in their history. The Atlantic Transport liner Minnehaha, which ran ashore early on Monday morning, disgorged part of her 17,000 tons of valuable cargo, all day long casting it upon the waters, to be gathered up by those who cared to take the trouble.

Farming and fishing were abandoned; school even was dismissed, and most of the population of the nearby islands, men, women, and children, devoted themselves to obtaining treasures from the waves.

The salvagers decided to try to rescue the Minnehaha in the same manner as in the case of the White Star steamship Suevic, which went ashore near the Lizard in March, 1907, by cutting her in half.

Every effort to lighten the ship is now imperative. To-day the waves beat up too high and strong for the tugs to go alongside. Consequently goods were thrown overboard from the forward hold as fast as the stevedores and a large crew, who arrived last night from Falmouth, could raise them to the deck.

Huge cases containing automobiles and pianolas followed one another over the side, striking the water with a great splash. Sewing machines and clocks went with them, while Michigan furniture floated everywhere. Many bales of cigarettes covered the face of the water, and tons of cheap American novels drifted to the nearby shore of Bryher, where they were piled up like seaweed.

Tidings of this jettisoning of wealth spread early, and a fleet of fishing craft, luggers, and rowboats scurried to the scene. As fast as the cargo hit the water the enterprising boatmen pulled up the smaller cases, while they took the larger ones in tow.

Most of the machinery was taken from the wreck and transported to St. Mary's, where the customs officials took charge of it. It will be stored in warehouses, and later sold by the insurance companies, but it is doubtful whether the water-soaked articles will bring much.

Many boatloads of provisions were taken ashore at other points by the islanders. The people of Bryher Island fished out boxes of food, tea, and tobacco, and thousands of paper-covered novels, enough to keep the islands in reading matter for a century.

Two hundred and twenty-four cattle swam ashore, while ten were drowned. Hay was brought from the steamer to feed the survivors.

The seamen here think that it will be impossible to save the Minnehaha, and they expect the first strong wind to break her to pieces.

The Minnehaha lies pointing southwest, with Long Rock in a parallel direction. She appears as though she were at anchor, and smoke still curling from her funnel adds to the illusion. In the half-mile channel between her and the little island, where the passengers first landed and the cattle are now huddled, are assembled several tugs, comparatively small boats, which are unable to approach closer, but are standing by in case of emergency.

INDIA LINER FOUNDERS.

Fate of the Satara's Crew Unknown—Ship Carried No Passengers.

NEWCASTLE, N. S. W., April 20.—The British India Navigation Company's steamer Satara has foundered off the Seal Rocks.

The fate of the crew is not known. It included ten European officers and engineers, the rest being Lascars.

The Satara was bound for Singapore, and, it is understood, carried no passengers.

SHIP FOR NICARAGUA HELD.

Steamship Venus Is Not Allowed to Clear from New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 20.—Collector of the Port McCall to-day informed the master of the steamer Venus that the ship would not be allowed to clear until he heard from the State Department at Washington.

Gen. Richard Sussman, representing the Nicaraguan insurgents in New Orleans, recently filed a protest with the State Department, asserting that the Venus was to be used in an east coast campaign that the Madriz Government is said to be contemplating. So far nothing has been heard as a result of this protest. The local representative of Madriz denies that his Government has anything to do with the Venus.

CABRERA IS RE-ELECTED.

Is Again President of Guatemala by an "Overwhelming Majority."

Manuel Estrada Cabrera was re-elected President of Guatemala in the elections ended on Tuesday, according to an official cable message received yesterday at the Guatemalan Consulate in this city.

The election was tranquil, and Señor Cabrera was chosen by "an overwhelming majority," the dispatch stated.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 20.—The transfer of the Fifth Army Corps from Poland to Perm, which excited public conjecture, is part of the general plan for the abandonment of Poland. In the redistribution of the army, eight corps will be stationed in the Volga region, and in east and central Russia.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, April 20.—The United States cruisers Montana and Chester arrived here to-day on their way to Buenos Ayres. They are taking on coal and provisions. Major Gen. Wood, who will represent the United States at the celebration of the centenary of Argentina's independence, and Rear Admiral Staunton were received by a guard of honor on landing to pay a visit to the Governor.

TROOPS GO TO SANTA CLARA.

But Cuban Interior Minister Says It is Only a Precautionary Measure.

HAVANA, April 20.—A special train carrying a battalion of infantry and a battery of machine guns, under command of Gen. Rivas, left Camp Columbia last night, bound for Santa Clara.

A rumor was current that an uprising had occurred in Santa Clara Province, but the Interior Minister, Lopez Leiva, issued a statement to-day postively denying the existence of the least disorder in Santa Clara or any other part of the island.

The Secretary said that reports had reached the Government that there was a condition of suppressed excitement among the negroes of Santa Clara and the eastern provinces in consequence of the incendiary utterances of the negro agitator Gen. Evaristo Estenoz.

Because of these reports, the Secretary said, the Government had decided to send troops for the sake of the moral effect which their presence would have in overawing possible disturbers of the peace and in giving confidence to loyal, law-abiding citizens. Secretary Leiva added that the Government did not entertain the slightest fear that there would be any disorder demanding the use of the troops.

Gen. Evaristo Estenoz is the leader of the negro opposition to the administration in Cuba. On Feb. 10 he was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for libeling President Gomez, but was released after two weeks' confinement under the terms of the amnesty bill passed by the Legislature and signed by President Gomez on Feb. 22.

Estenoz is now making a tour of the eastern provinces and delivering inflammatory speeches.

ART FRAUDS MANY-SIDED.

Hope That Recent Exposures in France Will Have a Good Effect.

PARIS, April 20.—The revelations in the case of "Count d'Aulby de Gatigny," who, with the "Countess," (formerly Miss Lunt of Boston,) is being examined at Tours on a charge of having misrepresented the origin of paintings and the antiquity of furniture purchased by Mrs. Charles H. Paine of this city, but formerly of Boston, have caused a profound impression in the world of art, and have served to open up the whole question of the many-sided traffic in sham paintings, other works of art, and antique furniture.

The recent exposures are hailed here as helping to check the brazen frauds perpetrated in France and elsewhere, and as a warning to foreigners to buy "masterpieces" with the greatest caution.

HAVENS WON'T RUN AGAIN.

But Democrats Boom Him for Governor—Republican Fight on Aldridge.

ROCHESTER, April 20.—James S. Havens, who deafeated George W. Aldridge for Congress yesterday, announced to-day that he was content with delivering the Thirty-second District from the hands of a "Republican boss" and would not accept renomination. Although Mr. Havens had made a similar declaration during the campaign, this fact was lost to sight in the Democratic rejoicing over his revolutionary victory, and the winning party is already facing the responsibilities of the coming Congressional campaign this Fall.

Mr. Havens reminded his friends to-day that he had accepted the Democratic nomination at the special election much against his inclination.

"I feel that I have done enough for the party in overturning the political machine that has ruled Monroe County for the past twenty years," he said. "It is now somebody else's turn."

He went on to say that for personal and professional reasons it would be impossible for him to serve in Congress after the expiration of his present term next March. Regarding a boom for Governor launched to-day by one of the newspapers that supported him, he was silent. His friends, however, say that he is not dazzled by his widely heralded victory and has no desire for public office. This attitude, however, has only whetted the determination of the victorious Democrats to keep him in public life. They assert that he is too valuable to be spared. According to the revised figures, Mr. Havens's plurality was 5,440.

A bitter Republican fight in this district is expected when delegates are elected to the State Convention. At that time will come the first real test of whether George W. Aldridge has lost his hold on the organization. The younger element in the party is already talking of an effort to depose him as State Committeeman, but not until he loses this post can it be said that his leadership inside the party is wholly discredited.

ORAL BETTING BILLS PASSED.

Assembly After Stormy Hour Puts Both Through by Big Vote.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 20.—After a stormy hour, during which the opponents to the "oral betting" bills in the Assembly had indulged in "rough house" tactics and fillibustering, these measures were passed in the lower house this evening, the principal measure prohibiting oral betting by a vote of 91 to 36, and its companion bill, holding Directors and Trustees of racing associations personally liable for violations of the anti-gambling law at the race tracks, by a vote of 94 to 30.

Meantime the Senate Codes Committee in executive session amended the oral betting bill by eliminating the words "pool selling or bookmaking, orally or otherwise," and substituting the words "bookmaking or pool selling with or without writing." The amendment, the committee held, would leave no doubt as to the legislative intent to leave protected so-called friendly bets. Senator Agnew, who introduced the bills in the Senate, said the friends of the measure were not opposed to the Senate amendment.

BUGHER TAKES A VACATION.

First Deputy Police Commissioner Will Stay Away a Month.

First Deputy Police Commissioner Frederick Bugher will leave town to-day or to-morrow for a vacation, it was announced at Police Headquarters yesterday. The length of time the First Deputy, who was recently slightingly referred to by Police Commissioner Baker, will be away was not stated. Mr. Bugher himself, however, said he was going away for a month, going first to his Summer home on Long Island and later to his bungalow in Maryland.

Mr. Bugher had a talk with Mayor Gaynor on Tuesday. For many weeks it has been common talk around Headquarters that Commissioner Baker and several of his deputies were not getting along well.

THE INTERBOROUGH DELAYS

Directors Not Yet Inclined to Compromise with the City, Though President Shonts Is Willing.

Interest in the delay in the filing with the Public Service Commission of the long-promised new subway plan of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company was increased yesterday with the circulation of a rumor that the McAdoo tunnel people will present a request in the near future for permission to extend their line south on Manhattan Island from Ninth Street and Sixth Avenue to the Cortlandt Street terminal. None of the officials of the McAdoo Company would say definitely just when or in what form this proposal will be made to the city and the commission, but their attitude was taken as an indication that they have some such thing in mind.

If this application should be made to the commission in the next few weeks, persons familiar with the situation say, it will give an added reason for haste in the submission of the Interborough's plans, if it wishes to obtain the concessions from the city already signified, and would undoubtedly complicate the situation explained in yesterday's TIMES of the holding of a strong curb over President Shonts by the Directors of the Interborough.

The extension of the McAdoo line in the manner suggested would give that company a complete loop service from the terminal at Cortlandt Street to Jersey City, to Hoboken, back to Manhattan, and south again to the terminal. Added to this will be the connection up Sixth Avenue from Ninth Street to the Grand Central Station, which should be in operation in eighteen months. This last extension is already open to Twenty-third Street, and work is now in progress north of Thirty-third Street.

Advantage of the Plan.

The sanctioning of the construction of this connection would give the McAdoo people a most strategic position in Manhattan. They would have a complete system with respect to the big traffic centres. From the Grand Central Station south the line would draw an enormous short-haul traffic, taking in the theatre district about Times Square, the shopping district between Thirty-third Street and Twenty-third Street on Sixth Avenue, and the downtown traffic on the west side through the wholesale district, with a direct connection at Thirty-third Street with the new Pennsylvania Terminal south to the big railway terminals on the Jersey shore, which are now tapped by the McAdoo line.

This connection with the Pennsylvania Station and the enormous traffic that will be poured into Manhattan for distribution with the opening of the tubes connecting with it has been one of the principal reasons for the advocacy of the construction of the extension of the present Subway south under Seventh Avenue from Times Square.

A year ago President McCrea of the Pennsylvania sent a communication to the Public Service Commission in which he stated that it is the duty of the city to provide suitable transit facilities for the handling of this traffice. He elaborated on the large sums of money that the road has laid out upon its improvements in this city, and declared that the city is duty bound to give some return for this in this form.

The Interborough's Plan.

Chairman Willcox of the commission sent a letter back in which he told Mr. McCrea that he would have more properly communicated with the Interborough. About that time the latter company presented its last subway proposal, in which it laid particular stress upon the Seventh Avenue extension, but included the old bone of contention, the purchase by the city of the Steinway Tunnel.

The Interborough Board of Directors met yesterday and discussed subway matters. Nothing definite could be learned of what took place, but from the conversation of the Directors after the meeting it was learned that they all appreciate the gravity of the situation, despite their determination not to retire from their present position until they are absolutely compelled to.

The position of Mr. Shonts and the Directors can be exactly stated as this. He is anxious that the company come to some agreement with the city and the commission as soon as possible. The Directors stand firm on the contention that the construction of all new subway routes should be held up until a "comprehensive system" can be determined upon. At the same time Mr. Shonts realizes that unless the Interborough comes forward with some definite plan it is likely to be forestalled by the absolute approval of routes such as the Broadway-Lexington Avenue, and their being turned over for operation to some rival company. In this way the city, through the Board of Estimate and the Public Service Commission, holds the whip hand.

Interborough Directors Silent.

To the question, "When will your plan be presented?" all the Interborough men remain silent. A year ago when the McAdoo people had obtained their concession to extend their line to the Grand Central and the Bradley-Gaffney-Steers syndicate had signified its willingness to bid on the Broadway-Lexington Avenue Subway, Mr. Shonts announced personally and the Interborough advertised through the newspapers that it was ready to spend $100,000,000 at once for subway extensions if some understanding could be arrived at. Attempts which were made to find out if negotiations were under way in Wall Street to "swing" this amount of money were without result.

For some time the $100,000,000 promise fell into the background, and then the Interborough announced that J. P. Morgan had agreed to finance it in further subway improvements "under certain conditions." What these conditions were was not stated, and all efforts to learn more of them since then have failed. It is thought that it may be that these "conditions" are now responsible for the delay in action from the Interborough, and there is certain indication that this is the fact of the case.

The things that the Interborough wants the city to concede to it are pretty generally known, having been set forth in two proposals which the Public Service Commission has turned down. The features to which the city and the commission have objected most emphatically have been the third-tracking of the Second and Third Avenue elevated lines and the purchase by the city of the Belmont (or Steinway) tunnel. The so-called "Letter H" plan—the extension of the present Subway south from Times Square under Seventh Avenue and north from Forty-second Street under Madison Avenue, has been conceded to be a most practical idea.

Twenty-third Infantry Arrives.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—Bearing the officers and men of the Twenty-third Infantry and a large list of civilian passengers, the transport Sheridan arrived to-day from Manila and way ports. The troops, under command of Col. Sharpe, will be ordered to Forts Bliss, McIntosh, and Clark, Texas.

ROOSEVELT IN PARIS, CITY IS GAY FOR HIM

He Arrives at the French Capital In the Early Morning After Long Journey.

NEWSPAPERS GREET HIM

Send Special Correspondents to the Frontier and are Full of Laudatory Sketches.

PARIS, Thursday, April 21.—Col. Roosevelt arrived here at 7:33 this morning.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 20. — Ex-President Roosevelt will arrive on the Orient express at 7:30 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The American Ambassador and his staff will be on the station platform, and it is expected that a number of French official personages will also be present.

An evening paper appeals to French sportsmen to gather in large numbers to welcome the ex-President as a distinguished patron of sport.

A movement is on foot among the trades people in the principal thoroughfares to hang out American flags during Mr. Roosevelt's stay.

PARIS, April 20.—France is preparing a great welcome for Mr. Roosevelt. The leading newspapers, which have sent special correspondents to the frontier to accompany the ex-President to Paris, are filled to-day with historical and laudatory sketches of the distinguished American and with words of warm greeting. The merchants are arranging to decorate their places in honor of Mr. Roosevelt, and will present an address of homage to him.

The Journal des Débats, in an article on Mr. Roosevelt, expresses the opinion that he is far from the end of his political career, but doubts if he will run for the Presidency to succeed Mr. Taft. "However confident Mr. Roosevelt is in his lucky star," says the paper, "he is too much imbued with the free spirit of America to adopt the attitude of dictator."

The Journal des Débats finds in Theodore Roosevelt some of the traits of Cromwell, Napoleon, and Bismarck, but also other traits that are distinctly Rooseveltian, all combining "to make him the representative man of the twentieth century democracy."

ATTNANG-PUCHHEIM, Upper Austria, April 20, (Aboard Mr. Roosevelt's Train.) —Although it was after midnight when the train bearing the Roosevelt party left Budapest, the Colonel was up at 7 o'clock to-day. During the stop at Vienna he got out and walked up and down the station platform for half an hour. As the train left Vienna a heavy fall of rain obscured the landscape, and Mr. Roosevelt turned his attention to a vast accumulation of correspondence. For three hours he dictated without interruption to his stenographer.

The letters and telegrams which reach Mr. Roosevelt increase in number daily. While many are from friends and acquaintances in America and Europe, the majority are from persons of whom the recipient has never known anything, while many are received from persons known to Mr. Roosevelt only by reputation. A feature of these letters is the unanimity with which the writers look to the ex-President for the leadership of any cause in which they are interested.

From Constantinople has come an appeal for aid in the establishment there of an American college for girls. The requests for a change of itinerary that would permit Mr. Roosevelt to visit their particular city or town received from numberless correspondents are very insistent.

Upon leaving Budapest Mr. Roosevelt was obliged to decline the invitation of the Bavarian Government, made through the Bavarian Minister at the Austrian Court, to stop over for several hours in Munich to-day. At Budapest Mr. Roosevelt regretfully parted with Commander Andrew T. Long, American Naval Attaché at Rome and Vienna, who had accompanied the party since the arrival at Naples.

ABBOT JANSSENS HAS TO GO.

Result of His Visit to Roosevelt—Pignatelli Not in Disgrace.

ROME, April 20.—The Pope has accepted the resignation of Abbot Janssens as Secretary of the Congregation of Affairs of Religious Orders, considering that his attitude toward Mr. Roosevelt involved the Congregation. He will remain a member of the Biblical Commission.

Previous to presenting his resignation Abbot Janssens went to the Vatican and complained of the rebuke contained in the recently issued Vatican statement on the subject. He explained that he did not intend to involve the Vatican in the homage which he paid to Mr. Roosevelt.

The report that Mgr. Granito di Belmonte Pignatelli, the Papal Nuncio at Vienna, has been recalled is declared by the Vatican to be absolutely unfounded. It is added that not only has the Nuncio not been recalled, but he has not even been blamed in any way, as the Holy See does not consider that he created any incident by paying a call of courtesy on Ambassador Kerens, when he could not help but meet Mr. Roosevelt.

One of the Vatican officials said that the Papal Nuncio would not leave Vienna until the next Consistory, when he would be created a Cardinal, and the Consistory is not likely to be held before the end of the year.

Conditions at Vienna are not satisfactory to the Nuncio, because in 1908, when Dr. Wahrmund, Professor of Catholic Ecclesiastical Law, became involved in a difficulty with the Vatican, which accused him of teaching theories of modernism instead of the canonical law, the Nuncio took an energetic attitude, which displeased the Austrian Government. Since that time he has practically broken off personal relations with Count von Aehrenthal, the Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, although retaining his post.

CLAMOR TO BE IN THE GREETING

Dakota, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Bicyclists, Autoists, and Guardsmen.

Rough Riders, military, civic, and political organizations from all parts of the country are almost begging for places in the parade which is to be one of the features of the welcoming celebration to Col. Roosevelt on June 18. Capt. Arthur F. Cosby, Secretary of the General Reception Committee, displayed yesterday a great batch of letters and telegrams from many of Col. Roosevelt's old friends in the Far West, some of them declaring that if a parade were held they would bring their own horses, all bedecked with new Western saddles bought for the occasion, and make a showing which would stir up even New York.

William A. Campbell telegraphed to William Loeb, Jr., from Omaha, saying that 100 Omaha business men and stockmen from South Dakota, Nebraska, and Wyoming insisted on coming to New York to meet Col. Roosevelt, and had determined to bring fifty horses.

"These men," he wired, "don't want to break in too strong nor annoy your committee, but want to know if they can have any sort of recognition from the committee in charge, be permitted to ride in any parade, or have representation at any of your functions. They are non-partisan and non-sectarian friends of the distinguished ex-President from the West."

Col. Zach Mulhall wrote also to Mr. Loeb from Oklahoma City, Okla., that he wanted to bring a lot of fine fellows such as the Colonel would be proud of. He said:

"I would like to show my appreciation, love, and admiration for Col. Roosevelt at his homecoming, and have in New York as an outfit of the West, ranchmen from the different States, mounted on the best horses of our kind ever produced in the great streets of New York. These men would be big, clean fellows, and Col. Roosevelt would be proud of them. It would be my aim to cause New Yorkers to tip their hats to this delegation, and would take such men from the West country as have always been admirers of Mr. Roosevelt. I would have every man purchase the best new Western saddle used in our country for the occasion."

He adds that between fifty and sixty men will come, anyway.

C. E. Hunter, President of the Roosevelt Rough Riders, writes from Guthrie, Okla., that his men have decided to hold a regimental reunion in New York at the time of Col. Roosevelt's return. Hugh F. Halfert of St. Paul, Minn., writes to Mr. Loeb that the Original Roosevelt Club of St. Paul, of which he is President, will certainly send a large delegation here, which will parade, if assigned to a place in line.

J. Edwin Browne of Baltimore, National Commander of the Army and Navy Union, writes that the Union is most anxious to take part in the reception to Col. Roosevelt, and has among its members 150 of the finest New York policemen, who would be proud to act as Col. Roosevelt's guard of honor at the homecoming.

Civic and military organizations in this city have been among the foremost to ask places in line. C. S. Busse has offered the Rough Riders of Company F, Seventh Regiment, to act as escort. Marcus Braun says the Hungarian Republican Club, which, he declares, won "the blue ribbon" in the Hudson-Fulton historical parade, is anxious to march in honor of the returning Colonel. Herman Veiler, centurion of the New York Division of the Centurion Road Club, which, he says, is the largest and oldest bicycle club in America, wants to put 200 men in line as a bicycle escort, while James M. Carples, special agent of the American Automobile Company, has offered to put at the disposal of the committee as many automobiles as may be required for the invited guests.

These are only a small part of the letters received by Cornelius Vanderbilt, Chairman of the committee; Capt. Cosby, and Mr. Loeb, either directly applying for places in line for organizations or making inquiry regarding the programme with that end in view. Yet the welcoming celebration is still two months off.

Congratulations for Joseph Duveen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 20.—When the jury returned the verdict in the Duveen slander suit yesterday the Judge was not in court and the case came up again to-day. Justice Ridley ordered the plaintiff to pay his own costs, for he thought there was no justification for the action of the plaintiff, Jacques Henri Duveen, in coming into court with a cause worth only a farthing. Joseph Duveen of the firm of Duveen Brothers to-day received many congratulations on the outcome of the suit.

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., April 20.—While relatives here feared that Miss Irene Poling, a missionary in the Chang-Sha district of China, has suffered in the rioting there, news came that she probably left the scene in time to avoid danger. Miss Poling said that after the wedding she and her husband would go to Shen Chow-Foo to live.

QUEENS RING HAD A BUILDING TRUST

Only Those Who Complied with Its Terms Could Avoid the Shoals of Trouble.

GRESSER TO LOOK INTO IT

Says His Building Superintendent Will Be Dismissed If Charges Are Substantiated.

Startled upon being told through the newspapers what everyone in Queens has been telling to his neighbor for a year or more, Borough President Gresser promised yesterday to hold an investigation into the conduct of his Superintendent of Buildings, Carl Berger, and the "Plans and Specification Trust" that has operated in Queens without interruption ever since the vending of the Tilly vent became too noisy a manner of making profits for the politicians.

Coincident with Gresser's promise to investigate Berger, promises were made by two Queens citizens to come forward with testimony which they hold will make conviction sure. They are certain to add much to the general protest circulating everywhere through Queens County.

One of these men is Arthur Jappe of Ridgewood, who was chief salesman for the Modern Sanitation Company at the time it was making its fattest profits, and Louis Berger was its head, while Carl Berger, it is said, was using his official power to enforce the sale of its product upon Queens builders.

During the campaign of 1907 Carl Berger was a most industrious worker. One of the charges of Jappe is that Berger used the offices of the Modern Sanitation Company as his political headquarters, and during the heat of the campaign kept four regular employes of the Building Bureau busy in sending out literature from these headqarters. Jappe wishes the opportunity to tell President Gresser the names of these employes, so that it can be learned whether they drew their regular pay from the city during that period.

Another charge is that Carl Berger sent to the offices of the Modern Sanitation Company a list of all the licensed plumbers in Queens County with instructions that every one of them be notified that the Tilly vent was the official one of the Building Bureau, and that its use was expected whenever new plumbing work was being installed.

Jappe said that within the last two weeks an offer of $25 a week had been made to him for doing nothing but just keeping still. What he has to tell is important, since Carl Berger's line of defense has already been outlined in the form of a plea that he had no personal knowledge of his brother's business affairs, and was in no way financially interested in the Modern Sanitation Company.

Accused by Tilly.

Charges that he was so interested are made by William H. Tilly, who declares that the Building Superintendent was present at the original meeting prior to deciding to incorporate a company, and that he personally paid $500 in the form of a check for shares listed on the books as belonging to his brother, Louis.

"If I find that Berger did have an interest in the Modern Sanitation Company, as charged by Mr. Tilly," said President Gresser yesterday, "I will discharge him immediately. I would make the same disposition of my own brother if I found he was guilty of grafting in any of the departments. No man can continue as a public servant in my employ who makes a dishonest penny and I find it out."

The adventure in the business of selling Tilly vents was terminated late in 1908 as the result of vigorous public protests. Since then the game has been worked differently, and it is because of this more recent feature that the citizens of Queens now demand that the whole Berger story be told at a public hearing.

"The Plans and Specifications Trust" is only a popular designation to cover the business done by Louis Berger & Co., architects, with offices in the Ridgewood National Bank Building, at Myrtle and Cypress Avenues, Ridgewood.

Carl Berger's tenure in office as Building Superintendent has been long, the plans and specifications business done by his brother Louis has grown large. Louis Berger is an official of the bank on the ground floor of his place of business, and upstairs many blueprint makers are at work turning out the company's orders.

Members of the Elmhurst Taxpayers' Committee say they have an unlimited number of instances in which irregularities are charged against Carl Berger to lay before President Gresser if he opens to the public his proposed investigation

Appeals to Hughes.

Rozelle, who charges that a pay check due him was cashed on a forged indorsement, and that no action was ever taken by District Attorney De Witt against the man who confessed to having forged his signature, yesterday appealed his case direct to Gov. Hughes.

In stating his reason for so doing Rozelle quoted from the speech of the Governor delivered at the University Club in Albany on March 21, and from an editorial in THE NEW YORK TIMES concerning it.

"I respectfully quote from THE NEW YORK TIMES," begins Mr. Rozelle, "in which you are quoted as saying, 'If there is a rascal who is abusing the privilege Government is giving him, show him up. If anybody is false to a public trust, uncover him.'

"In addition the editor says: 'It is a pity it should have to be made, and a good thing for the Commonwealth that the Governor was man enough to make it.'

"Conformably to the above advice I write relating facts which are matters of record in an effort to follow it and 'show him up.'"

Rozelle then proceeds to the length of seven typewritten pages to detail his experiences with his pay check and with the hearings called on account of it as a result of which the check was restored to him, but no action was ever taken against those who were implicated in taking it.

Report on a Juror.

When Justice Clark resumes the trial of John Welz this morning on the charge of perjury and of presenting a false document to the Grand Jury in connection with the Kessina Park investigation of two years ago he will receive a letter charging bias and personal interest against one of the jurors. This letter was sent yesterday to Charles Pope Caldwell, attorney for the Citizens' Committee, which is seeking an overhauling of Queens affairs, and it will be turned over to Justice Clark by this committee.

The letter recites that in certain circles they are already rejoicing and saying among themselves that this juror will never vote against Welz. A list of city contracts in which he is alleged to have figured is given, together with the politicians with whom he is said to be allied.

Justice Clark was unable to make much progress yesterday in the trial of Welz on account of the fact that counsel for the accused brewer succeeded in having a motion entertained that the indictment be dismissed on the ground that it was irregularly drawn.

The motion to dismiss was made yesterday morning, but at first was overruled. Shortly after the noon recess Justice Clark announced that the case would be adjourned until to-day in order to allow the lawyers for both sides to prepare arguments on a motion to dismiss.

ARMY YIELDS TO SENATOR.

Overman to Get Commissions for Youths Dropped at Annapolis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The President to-morrow will end what has been a most interesting deadlock between the Senate and the Secretary of War. On March 28 the President sent to the Senate the names of nineteen young men from civil life who had passed the severe examination required for appointments as Second Lieutenants of Coast Artillery. Another group of thirteen, who had passed the same examination, but with lower marks in every case except two, was held back at the War Department with the understanding that after the present first class at West Point had been graduated the thirteen would be nominated for appointment.

In the latter division were two men, W. D. Pierce and H. D. Cannon, formerly midshipmen at Annapolis, who for deficiencies in studies had been dropped. Pierce came from North Carolina, and he appealed to Senator Overman of that State. He said he had stood fifth on the list of thirty-two successful candidates, but had been moved down to first place on the second list.

The reason for this was found to be a decision by the Secretary of War that there should be enforced against midshipmen who had been dropped from their classes the same rule as prescribed by law in the case of cadets at West Point. A West Point man who fails for any cause or is dismissed for hazing cannot be appointed an officer in the army until after the graduation of the class to which he belonged. This is an old statute, passed partly to punish cadets guilty of hazing. No such law was ever in effect as applying to midshipmen. Senator Overman promptly exercised his right of Senatorial courtesy and had the nineteen nominations held up.

On the same list of nineteen was the name of former Midshipman Maurice B. Willett, whose class was graduated two years ago, and against whom no objection could be made. He was, however, held up with the rest. In the month since the nominations were made two vacancies have occurred in the Coast Artillery by reason of details of officers to staff corps.

To-day the President directed that the nominations be withdrawn from the Senate, and he will now waive the discrimination against the former midshipmen and nominate Pierce and Cannon. As it is expected that twenty-five members of the graduating class at West Point will ask to be assigned to the Coast Artillery, the difference between being in the first list rather than the second means many files and a year or two in future promotion.

Receivers Authorized to Buy Stock.

In an order dated July 14, 1909, which, through oversight, was not filed in the United States Circuit Court until yesterday, Judge Lacombe grants the petition of Receiver William W. Ladd of the New York City Railway Company and authorizes Receivers Joline and Robinson of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company to purchase 500 shares of the stock of the Bridge Operating Company.

Florist Arrested for Customs Fraud.

Jacs Smits, a florist, of Holland, was arrested yesterday by United States Marshal Henkel charged with presenting false consular invoices on importations of blue spruce, Japan maples, and rhododendrons. The invoices valued the consignment at $163. The customs authorities said this was too low. Smits pleaded not guilty to Commissioner Shields and was held for examination on Saturday.

Gary to Have Many Saloons.

CHICAGO, April 20.—The long "dry" spell in Gary, Ind., will be broken next Monday, owing to the result of the recent election. Already licenses for 160 saloons have been issued, and before the saloon doors are thrown open Monday it is predicted that the number of licenses will have reached 250.

RUBBER GOODS GO UP TEN PER CENT. MORE

Advance, Following Rise in Raw Materials in London Only One of Many in a Year.

PRICES HAVE DOUBLED

Automobile Tires Up 100 Per Cent. Since Last Year—Brazil Rubber Advanced 300 Per Cent. in Two Years.

Coincidently with a further rise in the price of crude rubber in the London market yesterday, two new high levels after steady upward jumps for two months, the United States Rubber Company, which is the largest manufacturer in the world of rubber boots, rubbers, and other standard waterproof articles, announced yesterday an increase of approximately 10 per cent. in its prices. This advance is only one of a number that have gone before. Since crude rubber began to mount in value after the setback of 1908, finished articles have been steadily marked up.

Articles made up of the highest grades of rubber have mounted still more rapidly than boots and overshoes.

A canvass of manufacturers yesterday showed increases in prices of manufactured articles of from 10 to 30 per cent. in druggists' rubber sundries, 33 1-3 per cent. in rubber articles of clothing, 5 to 10 per cent. in vulcanized rubber combs and electrical goods, and from 5 to $5 per cent. in dental material.

The material which goes into rubber bands has increased from $1.35 per pound in 1908 to $3.50 a pound to-day, and a similar grade of rubber used by the same manufacturers has risen from 65 cents a pound in 1908 to $3.08 per pound.

Speculation in Ceylon Rubber.

Ceylon rubber sold yesterday in London at $3.10 a pound, although it is not of as high a grade as the best "up river Para," which reached a new high price yesterday also of $2.88-$2.90 a pound. The higher price of Ceylon is attributed to the fact that in London rubber is a medium of speculation as cereals, cotton, and other commodities are here. It is suspected that the promoters of plantation companies have not neglected to keep the price of Ceylon rubber up in London for its effect on their shares.

In contrast with yesterday's price of $2.90 for the best grade of Para it sold at this time last year for $1.26, and in April, 1908, at 84 cents a pound. The lowest price for the best Para was touched in February, 1908, when the effects of the panic on the rubber goods and automobile trade sent the price down to 67 cents per pound. The increase in price has thus been over 300 per cent. in a little more than two years.

President Samuel P. Colt of the United States Rubber Company, known as the Rubber Trust, said yesterday that the end was not in sight, but he predicted that present prices could not be maintained in the face of the vastly increasing production of cultivated rubber, stimulated by specualtion in the shares of rubber plantation companies which have been planting enormous areas of land in Ceylon and the Straits Settlements with Brazilian rubber trees.

It would take about three years, President Colt said, for this increased production to make itself felt in the market, and then rubber would sell for about half what it is commanding now.

Tires Doubled in Price in a Year.

Incidentally, the automobile owner, who is blamed for the advance in rubber because of the enormous consumption in tires, is one of the chief sufferers. He has already seen the price of tires go up 30 per cent. since last September, and double the prevailing prices a year ago. Trade authorities predicted yesterday that a further advance of 10 per cent. at least was to be expected before the Summer is over.

The great bulk of the world's rubber comes from Brazil, where the Amazon shipments of Para rubber amounted to about 39,000 tons in the calendar year 1909 and 3,800 tons from other parts of Brazil brought the total output of that country up to 42,800 tons, against 27,900 tons from the rest of the world. Of the production outside of Brazil, Africa produced from native trees and vines 20,300 tons, Ceylon and the Straits Settlements, where so much is now being done, only 4,600 tons. The plantations now under way there are expected to produce by 1915 22,000 metric tons. When that time arrives the Ceylon plantations will be ahead of Brazil, where last season's output, figured in the dry state in which Ceylon rubber is weighed, would have been 21,800 tons.

The Mexican and Central American plantations last year produced only 3,000 tons, but are being rapidly increased.

Mostly Consumed Here.

Col. Colt explained that the United States uses about 60 per cent. of the entire output of rubber in the world. This was partly because of the immense prosperity of the American farmers, who are the largest consumers of rubber boots and other water-proof apparel, and partly because of the size of our automobile industry, which uses about one-half of all the rubber consumed in this country. The American people are not as thrifty, he said, as the foreigners with whom his company does a large export business in rubbers and boots, and the per capita consumption here is largely increased by the habit the average man has of throwing his rubbers away at the end of Winter.

"While the rise in the price of rubber has been a question of supply and demand," said Col. Colt, "the speculation in rubber abroad has had something to do with it.

"The Bank of Brazil started last year to hold back rubber in anticipation of a rise which natural conditions brought about. Common labor in Brazil fetches $1.50 a day, against 10 or 15 cents per day in the Straits Settlements, where the rubber is obtained from the same species of trees as grow in Brazil. In fact the Ceylon rubber trees have been transported from Brazil.

"Production is increasing faster than consumption, and besides at the present prices many articles which use large quantities of the coarser grades cannot be made at a profit. Substitutes are sure to be found."

RUBBER BREAKS IN LONDON.

Speculators Continue to Sell and Take Profits—Market Nervous.

LONDON, April 20.—Speculators in the rubber market continue to sell and take profits prior to the fortnightly settlement, the result being some nervousness and uncertainty among outsiders and a general weakening of prices. The reaction, however, is still measured in small fractions among the heavier priced shares, and a few pence in what are called the "Penny Packet" issues.

In the raw rubber market in Mincing Lane this afternoon prices were a trifle below yesterday's figures, smoked sheet bringing 12s 8½d per pound against yesterday's record of 12s 10d. Buyers did not display quite so much keenness, except for offerings of finer qualities.

Hear the Pianola—Then You Will Appreciate Its Exclusive Musical Features

It is not through the mere fact of its matchless construction that the Pianola today reigns supreme.

It is not its acknowledged mechanical perfection that has won the praise of the world's masters in music.

It is not its marvelous inventions—not its splendid simplicity—not its durability—nor its strength that today make the Pianola and the Pianola Piano the most eagerly sought-for of all musical instruments.

These peerless factors are but the Cause. The Effect is the Music.

It is Music—as the Pianola alone can produce it—that has won for this instrument its dominant place.

It is its Musical Result and nothing else that ranks the Pianola without one rival in the esteem of those best fitted to judge.

With the Pianola, however, as with every art-product—whether it be a painting, a poem or a piece of architecture—there are actual, tangible Reasons for the beauty of the effect achieved.

It is important that you should study and know these Reasons—the Musical Reasons that will surely guide you to choose the Pianola.

Many Years of Experience

The Pianola has reached its present perfection only through long experience. Its sole makers—The Aeolian Company—were the pioneers in this field.

This piano player is the embodiment of more study and effort—of more years of experiment—and of more remarkable inventions than any other.

It is thus—through the right of priority and through the advantage of greater experience—that the Pianola has come to possess those brilliant and exclusive Musical devices which enable it to produce its peerless renditions.

Of these devices the two most important are the Metrostyle and the Themodist.

Metrostyle Is Exclusive

There is not on any other piano player any controlling device of the Metrostyle's powers. It is exclusively a Pianola feature.

This ideally simple arrangement removes all doubts and all difficulties in the way of artistic and pleasing expression. It permits correct playing by anyone.

By the mere following of a red line with a pointer, it assures a splendid interpretation—often that of the composer himself. Or, if preferred, it is equally easy to interpret the selection to please one's own mood.

Themodist Gives Touch

Until the invention of the Themodist, which is exclusive with the Pianola, it was not possible to differentiate or subdue either the melody or the accompaniment.

The Themodist eliminates every suggestion of "mechanical," or "automatic" playing.

It is the only device in the world which does.

The "touch" of a master is the only effect that can be compared with the Themodist's work.

Welcome to Aeolian Hall

You are invited and urged to come here and listen to the Pianola and the Pianola Piano. Or, better yet, to play these yourself. For expert playing is not at all necessary to prove their simplicity or their superior musical powers.

At Aeolian Hall you will also find the best pianos, in various grades, that America can produce. This wide range of choice runs the entire gamut through the unexcelled "Weber," the famous "Steck" and the high-grade "Wheelock" to the modest priced but reliable "Stuyvesant."

Lowest Prices—Convenient Terms

We are by far the largest piano and piano player institution in the world. The daily volume of business here is unequaled anywhere else. That is why we can make the lowest prices and give the highest values at terms that suit your convenience.

Nowhere else can musical instruments be bought to better advantage than here.

TEN CENSUS TAKERS QUIT FROM 'NERVES'

Daily Tilts with Irate Housewives Too Much for Them, So They Resign.

TASK TO END BY APRIL 29

Belief That There Has Been No Remarkable Increase of Population in Manhattan.

Ten of the census enumerators who began last week to gather facts concerning the population of Manhattan and the Bronx have resigned. Most of the ten were threatened with nervous prostration after five days of ringing door bells and demanding to know things which were considered impertinent by some of the inmates, especially the women.

It was more than the new recruits in the census business could stand. Each resignation was accompanied by a physician's certificate, for without that the resigning census enumerator would be subject to a fine of $500, the Government having ruled that the resignation of an enumerator without due cause after the taking of a census has begun is a misdemeanor.

But these few resignations will not affect the progress of the census taking here. There are 1,720 enumerators at work, including about 150 women, and, according to Supt. Albert Falck, the task is going along nicely and will probably be completed by April 29.

The system of leaving advance schedules in dwellings and hotels throughout the city so that they may be filled out at leisure by the head of each family is proving an excellent expedient, says Supt. Falck. It lessens the annoyance to residents, insures more accurate answers to the questions, and makes the work of census taking easier for the enumerators.

Only one arrest has been made. In two instances the heads of families refused to comply with the demand of the Government, and it looked as though Supt. Falck would have to put the matter in the hands of the District Attorney, but a visit by an Inspector to the flats where the trouble had been encountered soothed the ruffled tempers of the residents.

Supt. Falck said yesterday that the trouble was due to the offensive manner of the enumerators themselves more than to unwillingness of the residents to comply with the rules of the census takers. In such a large body of enumerators, most of whom are inexperienced, it is not strange, says Mr. Falck, that some of them have a manner which is objectionable to citizens they approach.

The work of the 150 women enumerators has been excellent, says the Superintendent. Not a complaint from the districts covered by them has been received at 115 Broadway, the headquarters of the census men. Many complaints from the men enumerators have been received, however.

In one instance on the upper west side a few days ago an enumerator left an advance schedule over night, and when he called for it next day it was handed back with the blanks not filled. The woman of the house was told that she must comply with the regulations. When the census man began to question her she told him her name. When it came to the question as to her profession she replied:

"My profession is the same as my name, and I guess you had better not ask any more."

With that she slammed the door in the enumerator's face. But a little later on when one of the district supervisors called to smooth things over he found the woman more tractable and had no trouble getting the information required.

When the last State census was taken five years ago the population of Manhattan and the Bronx, according to the State census figures, was 2,384,000. When the last Federal census was taken in 1900 the population in the two boroughs was 2,050,600. During the last five years there has been a steady flow of New Yorkers to the country. Many who used to live in Manhattan have moved over to New Jersey. Many have gone to Long Island, although their business is still in Manhattan or the Bronx. The increased rapid transit facilities have been responsible in a large measure for this. Then, too, many of the old residential sections in Manhattan have been gradually giving way to business houses. For these reasons it is not believed that the increase of population in these two boroughs will be very remarkable.

The job of getting New York's floating population will be one of the hardest the enumerators have to tackle. Already they have managed to get about 90 per cent. of the lodging house inmates, who can be put down as residents of Manhattan or the Bronx. But the men who sleep in the parks and on doorsteps at night and those who tuck themselves away for the night in lumber yards or in niches around the docks have still to be run down and tagged.

It was originally intended to go after the bread lines, but Supt. Falck gave this idea up yesterday. He said that the bread line men would probably get on the census lists twice if this were done.

"We have decided to take the floaters only where they sleep," said the Superintendent. "It is the safest way to do. Many of the bread line men sleep in the lodging house district. Some of them sleep in the parks. We are going after the park sleepers to-morrow night. I will take about fifty enumerators and go through all the parks in town where the floaters sleep. Some of the enumerators will also round up the men who sleep on the ferryboats."

Several enumerators have been at work in Chinatown since last Friday. Accompanied by Chinese interpreters, they are visiting the tenements there, and so far have experienced no trouble with the Chinamen.

200 MORE POLICE ON PATROL.

Plain Clothes Force Reduced One-Third by Mayor's Order.

Following Mayor Gaynor's order to Police Commissioner Baker Tuesday there will be 200 more policemen on patrol duty to-day than there were yesterday. The 200 are men who have been doing plain clothes duty, a branch of the force which, the Mayor suggested, could be reduced one-third.

The men's names were sent to the Commissioner yesterday and they were assigned to precincts at once.

Two Get Verdict for Same Accident.

Mrs. Bessie Mott, whose sister Rosalind Morris won a $20,000 verdict against the New York City Railway Company's receivers last week in the Supreme Court, received an award of $5,000 damages for the same accident yesterday. The sisters were injured when a Columbus Avenue trolley car ran into an automobile in which they were returning from a rehearsal of Mrs. Mott's wedding at the St. Regis Hotel.

YERKES MANSION IS SOLD FOR $1,239,000

"FROM PATRIOTIC MOTIVES"

Outbids W. H. Chesebrough and Henry Morgenthau—Will Not Occupy It, but Was Acting for Himself.

Robert E. Dowling purchased the Yerkes mansion and art gallery at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Sixty-eighth Street yesterday for $1,239,000. The sale was conducted on the premises by Joseph P. Day and attracted an unusually large number of men who have been identified prominently with large realty operations in the city.

Mr. Dowling, the new owner of one of the finest and most-talked-of Fifth Avenue residences, is President of the City Investing Company. He purchased the property, he stated, on his own personal account, denying that he was acting for Thomas F. Ryan, whose house adjoins the art gallery. He said he had no intention of occupying the house, nor did he intend to tear it down and erect a big apartment, as is about to be done on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Eighty-first Street.

"I wish to preserve Fifth Avenue, perhaps from patriotic motives," said Mr. Dowling.

A week ago, when the Yerkes property was offered at an upset price of $1,400,000, no offer was made. The court then granted an order to sell the plot without restrictions, and the assurance of a sale brought out the large operators, those present including William H. Chesebrough, Henry Morgenthau, ex-Mayor Hugh J. Grant, Frank W. Woolworth, Edmund L. Baylies, George W. Young, Charles D. Wetmore, Robert E. Simon, and R. G. Babbage.

Under the conditions of sale, in the foreclosure proceedings brought against the Yerkes estate by the United Underground Electric Company, Limited, of London, the house and art gallery first were offered separately. For the gallery Mr. Dowling bid $302,000. For the house $701,000 was bid by Theodore Herrman of Guggenheim, Untermyer & Marshall. These bids were to be nullified if the entire property sold for a higher figure than was bid for the separate parcels, and such was the case.

The first bid was $1,025,000. Henry Morgenthau, Mr. Dowling, and Mr. Chesebrough then became active competitors. Mr. Morgenthau dropped out when $1,200,000 was reached, and Mr. Dowling and Mr. Chesebrough then had one of the most exciting fights ever seen in a public sale of New York realty. They advanced the price steadily by $1,000 bids, requiring little prompting from the auctioneer, although Mr. Day made hard efforts to bring other contestants in line.

Finally when Mr. Dowling made his bid of $1,239,000 Mr. Chesebrough turned around and signified that he was out and the Yerkes mansion had found a new owner.

CHURCH CLUB DINES.

Talcott Williams Telling It How a Philadelphia District Was Reformed.

Talcott Williams of Philadelphia, speaking last night at a dinner of the Church Club at the Hotel Astor, at which 125 laymen and clergymen, including Bishop Greer, were present, said:

"On the floor below there is a dinner of the Eighth Assembly District. I have no doubt that each man at that dinner knows more of his neighbors in his election district than any diner here knows of his neighbors. Each one of them knows more widows and orphans in his district than any diner here. He knows the names of the election officers in his district and whether they can be trusted. He is discharging that duty of social leadership and social aid, which we are neglecting."

Mr. Williams was mistaken about the nature of the dinner on the floor below. It was a fraternal dinner. He described how he and Owen Wister had set out to redeem the election district in which they both live at Philadelphia.

It was under the control of an organization which operated in the Tammany fashion when they began work, and there were only four or five reform votes ever cast in it, he said. Now, he said, the reform element carries it five out of six elections. The change was wrought by forming a personal acquaintance with the voters and by organizing the young men into athletic clubs. Baseball, he said, killed the gambling spirit among the young men of the district.

In the absence of President Francis Lynde Stetson of the club on acount of illness Vice President George Gordon King acted as toastmaster. On Bishop Greer's motion a resolution of regret at his illness, expressing desires for his speedy recovery, was passed by a rising vote. Joseph Packard of Baltimore, a distinguished layman who has presided over the General Convention of the Church, addressed the diners. Rear Admiral A. T. Mahan, Dean Van Amringe of Columbia University, and Bishop Partridge of Kioto, Japan, were also at the speakers' table. Bishop Greer said:

"We have the privilege of ministering to an age of great religious hope and promise. The newspapers often ask why do not the people go to church? The answer is that they do go! It is my candid opinion after much careful study that there are more people in the churches now than there ever have been. There has been a reaction from the philosophical and practical materialism of the last quarter of the nineteenth century.

"I stirred up a hornet's nest last week when I ventured to suggest a method by which we might take advantage of this situation with a united Christianity. But it will come! The time is one of doubt and perplexity, but it is not one of indifference. We must meet it with a spiritual message, which will be able to reach the people, and enable them here and now to live the spiritual life. A message which will not favor the rich and which does not flatter the poor."

SEE A GIRL LEAP TO DEATH.

Elevated Passengers Too Far Off to Help a Chinatown Suicide.

Katie Ledane, or McCoy, a Chinatown girl, took her life in view of a score of passengers waiting on the platform of the Third Avenue elevated station at Chatham Square late yesterday afternoon by jumping from the roof of a five-story building at 4 Bowery.

Before she jumped she carefully spread on the roof edge a silk handkerchief and placed on it a bottle half filled with cocaine. The girl struck on her head on the sidewalk and died instantly.

Patrolman De Martin of the Elizabeth Street Station was attracted by the cries of passengers on the elevated station and came up just as she dived from the roof. He called Dr. Le Vake from Hudson Street Hospital, but there was nothing for the surgeon to do.

Tenants of 4 Bowery said they had prevented her from jumping from that roof on several occasions.

55 YEARS A FEDERAL CLERK.

41 Years Commissioner—Congratulations from Everybody to J. A. Shields.

Yesterday was "Shields Day" in the Federal Building. There has been a Shields Day annually for many years, and the usual procedure on such occasions was followed yesterday; that is, all the Judges, lawyers, and court attachés about the building flocked to Commissioner John A. Shields's office and congratulated him on having completed another year of service, his fifty-fifth as clerk in the United States Circuit Court and his forty-first as United States Commissioner.

Commissioner Shields was only 15 years old when he got his appointment as a junior clerk, and since then he has missed scarcely a day's service. He has become an authority on Federal law and the procedure of the United States Courts, and is known to lawyers all over the country.

Rockefeller Jury Hears Alleged Slavers

The Grand Jury will meet again to-day. It is understood that its labors are drawing to a close.

NEWARK'S AUDITOR STRANGELY MISSING

George Forman Leaves a Note Behind Asking the City Council to Name His Successor.

POLICE PUT ON HIS TRAIL

At His Family's Request—Once Investigated by Grand Jury, but He Didn't Handle Any Funds.

A sensation was caused in Newark, N. J., yesterday when it became known that City Auditor George Forman had mysteriously disappeared. He was last seen by his chief clerk, Andrew K. Brady, in his office last Saturday afternoon. At that time he told Mr. Brady that he would probably be late in reporting at the office on Monday and that he might not be in until Tuesday morning.

This was the last seen of him by his friends or his family. It has been learned that he told his wife that he was going on a business trip to Boston, but to Mr. Brady he said that he was going to the Jersey seashore, where he usually goes in the Summer months.

The Newark police were requested last night by the family of the missing Auditor to search for him. It also became known that Mr. Forman drew $800 from the National Newark Banking Company just before closing time on Saturday, practically closing his account there. It develops, too, that about ten days ago he sold his stockholdings in the Ironbound Trust Company, receiving about $1,200.

When Mayor Haussling heard of Mr. Forman's disappearance he held a conference with City Counsel Nugent. At the end of this conference Alderman Emil Wohfarth, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Common Council, issued a call for an emergency meeting at 10 o'clock this morning. This meeting is called for the purpose of ascertaining whether an investigation of the missing auditor's accounts is to be made. Many of the city officials expressed the belief that the auditor's accounts are straight.

There is no cash of any kind handled in the auditor's office. He countersigns and issues all warrants. He also signs all checks drawn for that purpose. The checks are drawn by the City Treasurer, and except in instances where payments are held up in a dispute or failure of a payee to call for the same they are held in the custody of the Auditor.

When City Auditor Forman failed to appear at his office yesterday morning Mr. Brady opened his desk and found two official letters. One was addressed to the Common Council and the other to Mayor Jacob Haussling. The letter to the Council was as follows:

> In conformity to the provisions of an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, Chapter 156, Laws of 1905, Page 269, I hereby designate and appoint Andrew K. Brady, a clerk in my office, to act as my deputy during my absence until my successor shall duly be installed in office.

The letter to the Mayor contained a recommendation of Mr. Brady as his successor, saying: "He is probably more capable of filling the office than any other living man."

Mr. Forman, after he left his office in the City Hall, on Saturday afternoon, went to the factory of Edward Zusi, at 78 Mechanic Street, Newark, and met Mr. Zusi, who is a close friend. Mr. Zusi said yesterday that there was nothing strange in Mr. Forman's manner when he last saw him. He declared that he had recently made a payment of $2,000 to him, money which he had borrowed.

It had been known for many months that Mr. Forman had been worrying over his failure to keep up with the work in his office in the City Hall. It is also a significant fact that this was caused by an ultimatum being delivered to him by City Counsel James R. Nugent one day last week, in which the latter, speaking for the Mayor, told the Auditor that he must resume making his monthly trial balance reports to the Common Council, a requirement imposed by the city charter. Without authority, the Auditor discontinued these reports to the Council for more than three years.

While Mr. Forman was on a visit to St. Louis, Mo., last Autumn, the Grand Jury investigated his methods of procedure in the conduct of his office and criticised him. At that time he promised to resume the publication of the reports. He then prepared a synopsis of the accounts and their standing, but soon relapsed into his former inertness with regard to his report. The City Counsel is said to have told the Auditor that if he did not get busy and perform his duty steps would be taken to get some one who wanted to do the work.

Many of the city officials, including Controller J. Henry Bacheller, City Treasurer Albert T. Guenther, City Clerk James F. Connelly, and Alderman Jerome T. Congleton, were insistant in urging the Auditor to resum ehis trial balances and reports. Mr. Forman is said to have remarked on a number of occasions that these balances and reports were only required by an old law. He said they were burdensome and unwise now that Newark had outgrown its primitive condition. In his explanation to the Grand Jury he said that by publishing the reports monthly it would cost the city several thousands of dollars without producing any adequate return for the outlay.

When Clerk Brady opened his superior's desk the usual litter of papers and books was not there. Documents and papers pertaining to municipal business were carefully pigeonholed. The missing auditor had carefully gone over his desk and removed everything that belonged to him personally, except two envelopes, one containing the key to his residence and the other containing a key to the lodgerooms of the Damascus Commandery, Knights Templars, of which he was an active member.

No one seems to be able to give any good and sufficient reason for Mr. Forman's odd disappearance. His honesty is unquestioned, even by his political enemies. In the conduct of his department the missing auditor engendered antagonism, but this was principally due to his personal opinions. He has frequently been charged with interfering with other city departments and with attempting to usurp the power of the Mayor.

Besides holding his official position Mr. Forman was interested in several financial institutions in Newark. He was one of the organizers of the Ironbound Trust Company, and was its first President. His official duties engaged too much of his time, and he withdrew from the company about a year ago. He was financially interested in the McCutcheon-Adair Company, a shirt waist manufacturing concern. Mr. Forman was regarded as an expert on building and loan affairs. He was one of the organizers of the West End Building and Loan Association and was a founder of the Eleventh Ward Building and Loan Association and was its first President.

He is a member of the Lincoln Club, Roseville Club, and the Republican Indian League. He is a certified public accountant and a member of the American Society of Public Accountants and the New Jersey Society of Public Accountants. He is a member of many Masonic organizations, and is one of the best-known Masons in New Jersey.

In the Fall municipal campaign of 1908 Mr. Forman ran as a candidate for Mayor on the New Idea ticket. At that time he broke with the regular organization and has been with the reform wing of the Republican Party ever since. During the election campaign he made many speeches on the stump. He was beaten, however, by the Democratic candidate, Jacob Haussling, the present Mayor of Newark.

W. GOULD BROKAW SUED.

Hotel Keeper Asks $1,600 for Entertaining His Wife During Her Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 20.—The suit of Henry F. Wilder against W. Gould Brokaw for $1,600, which he alleges is the amount of a bill run up by Mrs. Brokaw while staying at a hotel at 14 West Sixtieth Street, was postponed in the Nassau County Supreme Court here to-day until to-morrow morning.

Mrs. Brokaw, becomingly frocked in a blue tailored suit and a simple black chip hat, was ready to go on the stand, but the case did not commence, owing to the fact that counsel for the defendant was unable to come.

The bill, it is asserted, was contracted by Mrs. Brokaw during her separation suit, when her own home was closed.

Protecting Swan's Eggs in the Park.

In Central Park there are four black swans, twenty white swans, and fifty or more ducks of one kind and another. In years past people who rented rowboats on the lower lake stole the eggs. Park Commissioner Stover ordered yesterday that, during the nesting season, the rowboats be taken off the lower lake, and that a high fence be built across the nesting ground. Not a swan has been hatched in Central Park in ten years.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—John Kelly and William Thurston are in the Naval Hospital here with their right legs broken as a result of an accident that occurred aboard the naval yacht Mayflower when a cable that was being used in hoisting coal aboard the vessel snapped. Sixteen members of the crew, including Kelly and Thurston, received injuries from the recoil of the cable.

HYDE'S LAWYER GETS SECRETS OF STATE

Grand Jury Notes Lost by Prosecution Show Weakness in Its Case.

EXPERT FOUND NO POISON

Found It Later, Prosecutor Says—Nurse Tells of Deaths of Hunton and Swope.

KANSAS CITY, April 20.—A stormy scene in which several lawyers addressed the court at the same time and bandied charges of unfair play among themselves marked the trial of Dr. B. C. Hyde, charged with the murder by poison of Col. Thomas H. Swope, to-day.

The trouble all arose through an assistant in Prosecutor Conkling's office losing the Grand Jury notes of the testimony of Dr. Walter S. Haines, a toxicologist of Chicago, and forty-two other State witnesses. A woman found the notes and gave them to Frank P. Walsh, chief counsel for Dr. Hyde. He said he kept them, in spite of legal ethics, because it was a chance to prove his client's innocence.

These notes, according to Mr. Walsh, contain statements of Dr. Haines that no cyanide of potassium was found in the viscera of Col. Swope and that not enough poison was found in Chrisman Swope's viscera to cause death. If Dr. Haines swears on the witness stand to any alleged facts other than these, he will be prosecuted for perjury, according to a statement made in court by Mr. Walsh. Perjury in a murder case is a capital offense in Missouri.

Prosecutor Conklin admits this is the testimony Dr. Haines gave before the Grand Jury, but avers that later the chemist found traces of cyanide of potassium in both bodies. He will testify to this effect, Mr. Conklin said.

The papers were returned to the State to-day and the defense kept carbon copies.

Attorney John Lucas, representing Dr. Hyde, to-day renewed his fight to prevent the State from introducing any testimony in the trial of his client for the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope that does not bear directly upon the death of the millionaire.

The particular point upon which the defense objected was the giving of details of James Moss Hunton's death. The court overruled the objection, holding that the State was attempting to prove motive on the part of Dr. Hyde in the alleged killing of Hunton.

Miss Keller, the nurse, who was on the stand yesterday, immediately began to tell of the death of Hunton. He was suffering from a stroke of apoplexy when Dr. Hyde was called. He and Dr. G. T. Twyman bled the patient.

"Dr. Hyde made the incision in Hunton's arm," said the witness.

After a pint of blood had been drawn Dr. Twyman suggested there had been enough bleeding. Dr. Hyde dissented from this opinion and more blood was drawn.

"A second and a third time Dr. Twyman objected to the bleeding, but Dr. Hyde continued the bleeding. 'That's enough blood to take from any man,' said Dr. Twyman. Then Mrs. Hyde said to her husband: 'Dearie, I think you had better stop bleeding.' Dr. Hyde then closed the wound. I took charge of the blood and upon measuring it found there was two quarts."

"While the undertaker was still in the house caring for the body of Hunton, Dr. Hyde met me in the hall and said he wanted to talk with me," Miss Keller testified. "He said: 'Pearl, you have influence with Col. Swope, and I want you to see that I am made administrator in Hunton's stead.' I told him I could not do this, as I was only a nurse, and the minute I began to mix in the business affairs of my employers I would be going outside my province.

"When Dr. Hyde came to the house at night," she continued, "we met in a hall. He asked me if I had spoken to Col. Swope regarding the appointment of an administrator to succeed Hunton. I told him I had not. He said nothing more."

It was at this point that the scene over the papers taken by Mr. Walsh occurred. After the incident had been disposed of Miss Keller resumed the stand, and Mr. Reed proceeded with the examination. On the morning of Oct. 3, said Miss Keller, Dr. Hyde gave her a capsule to give to Col. Swope, who at first refused to take it, but later did so.

"What was the nature of this capsule?" queried Mr. Reed.

"It was either a three or five grain capsule of a white or grayish appearance," she replied.

"How long was this before the death of Col. Swope?"

"About ten hours."

Following the death, said the witness, Dr. Hyde and John G. Paxton took Col. Swope's will from a vest in his room.

"As I followed the men out of the room," she continued, "Dr. Hyde turned to me and said, 'When you present your bill for services here, make it for $35 instead of $25 a week.'"

This statement was stricken out by the court.

On Oct. 11 Miss Keller left the Swope house and was recalled on Dec. 11 by Mrs. Hyde. Nora Bell E. Dickson, Miss Margaret Swope, and Miss Sara Swope were ill with typhoid fever. The nurse took charge of Sara Swope. As the witness started to tell of the typhoid epidemic in the Swope home, Attorney Lucas objected to the State delving into this feature of the case. The court upheld Mr. Lucas, saying it desired to be convinced of the materiality of this testimony. Adjournment was then taken with Miss Keller still on the stand.

LOVETT FINDS CROPS AND BUSINESS GOOD

Outlook in West Never Better Than This Year and Public Friendly to Corporations.

BACK FROM A LONG TRIP

Going Right on with Harriman Policy of Upbuilding, the Head of Union Pacific Says.

President Robert S. Lovett of the Harriman lines returned to the New York offices of the Union Pacific yesterday after a 15,000-mile trip through the West, principally over the Union and Southern Pacific lines. He expressed confidence in the business outlook and said that the crop conditions and the view of the public toward business affairs, including those of corporations, were never more satisfactory in the West than now.

"I can only speak," he said, "of conditions on the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific lines, for those are the only ones I observed closely. From New Orleans to the Pacific Coast and west of the Missouri River conditions are excellent. It is a little early, of course, to speak of the crops, but as far as can be seen at this date I have never known crop prospects to be better. The season has been good and seeding favorable. Business is very good. People are talking about the crops and about business and about improvements, but so far as I observed, not at all about politics, not even about the tariff.

"There prevails also a feeling of good will and of frinedliness toward everybody and everything, including railroads and industrial organizations. This feeling is pronounced, and there appears to be a very general disposition to take a friendly attitude. I do not mean to predict that this carries any significance in respect to changes in legislation, but there is a feeling of co-operation and friendliness in all the territory, in Texas as well as in the other States.

"It would seem, therefore, that in the absence of political disturbances, the promise is that this will be an unusually prosperous year."

Replying to questions regarding improvements in the Harriman lines Judge Lovett said:

"There are no plans of special significance, but we have improvements always under way. We are spending a great deal of money and expect to continue to spend money, if we can get it. We are going right on with the Harriman policy of upbuilding and betterment."

Judge Lovett is expected to submit to the Directors of his roads at a meeting to-day the results of his observations on the trip.

THE LIFE of ME
By ETHEL SHACKELFORD

A MOST amusing autobiography (supposedly by a baby) written cleverly by a most observing woman. There's wit on every page that calls forth a laugh for its fun and at the same time conveys a sermon that sticks to the memory like a burr. Cleverly illustrated, $1.50. Ask your bookseller for it.

"I like to write letters to my Grandmother on the painted floors with a Tack, but this meets with cold lack of sympathy."

"The feet can be got off tin soldiers, if one is persistent enough. I thought you might like to know."

NEW MOTOR BOAT DEFENDER.

A Thirty-Seven Mile Craft Ready to Take to the Water.

The identity of one new power boat which will compete in the elimination trials to select a team of three wherewith to defend the British International Cup on Aug. 20 next, provided, of course, that elimination trials are found necessary, became known yesterday. In the event that not more than three defenders are forthcoming there will, naturally, not be any elimination trials, and then if the new craft is found fast enough she may be one of the defending trio.

She is a twin screw boat, and is equipped with an eight-cylinder, 300 horse power motor, calculated and designed to give her a speed of thirty-seven miles. The boat is almost ready to be launched.

Coincident with the finding of this craft the name of one of the British challengers and some of the details of the English craft were received here yesterday. She is Maple Leaf I., the property of Mackay Edgar. A little larger edition of her was Maple Leaf II., which competed at the recent Monaco meet, the motor intended for Maple Leaf I.'s power plant getting its first thorough trial at the Monte Carlo races.

Maple Leaf I. will be equipped with a twelve-cylinder, V model engine, expected to deliver 400 horse power. All the cylinders are separately cast with inlet valves over the exhaust, operated by rocker tappets. There are, in addition, auxiliary exhaust ports uncovered by the pistons at the end of the stroke.

A special system of water cooling the crank case has been adopted, and no pains have been spared to insure continued running at full power. One of the chief features of the craft is the lattice girder construction of the engine bearers.

Tower Out of Motor Boat Committee.

The resignation of Charles Tower as member of the Joint Regatta Committee of the Automobile Club of America, Motor Boat Club of America, and Larchmont Yacht Club—having in charge the arrangements of the coming Harmsworth Cup race—was received last Saturday and accepted. Commodore Melville of the Motor Boat Club, recently elected to that office, was delegated in his stead. The meeting of the Board of Governors of the Motor Boat Club, at which Mr. Tower's resignation was accepted, was held at the Automobile Club of America for the purpose of revising the constitution and by-laws of the Motor Boat Club. It is expected that at an early date these wil lbe completely revised and presented for ratification at a general meeting of the organization.

AUTOMOBILE DEALERS LONG AGO RECOGNIZED THE MERITS OF

40 H. P. Velie $1,800

When the VELIE was first placed on the market, dealers and manufacturers were impressed with it. They saw in the VELIE their ideal. They were quick to recognize the fact that the VELIE contained the best in motor car construction. They understood what it cost to produce a car possessing such excellent material. Those who were connected with the industry KNEW the merits of the VELIE, but—naturally they kept their knowledge to themselves.

BUT NOW

Car buyers and motorists in general are awake to the extraordinary value of the VELIE. They have found out that it is a $2,500 car selling for $1,800. That is why VELIE cars are being bought by men who have owned automobiles at twice the VELIE price. You'd better investigate the VELIE if you intend purchasing a car—it will pay you to do so. An inspection will immediately reveal the fact that the VELIE is the most economically priced car on the market.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The reappearance Tuesday night of the northeast Canadian high-pressure area and the consequent retardation of the low area over the western lower lake region have rsulted in a peculiar weather distribution over the northeastern quarter of the country. Winds along the New England Coast will be light to moderate, south, becoming variable; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate and variable; South Atlantic Coast, light west to southwest.

Steamships departing Thursday for European ports will have moderate variable winds with showers to the Grand Banks.

THE ROOT OF THE MATTER.

In seeking explanation for the revulsion of sentiment in the Republican Party, especially in this State, much might be given to the disgust and distrust caused by the exposure of corruption in the Legislature. But it must not be forgotten that this corruption is indirectly but inevitably connected with the nature of the National policy to which the party, for some twoscore years, has been obstinately devoted—the policy of legislation for private interests at the expense of the mass of the people.

It is not to be denied that the Republican Party, at the close of the war for the Union, with the great number of adherents it had obtained on war issues, embraced the greater part of the sober, honest, self-respecting voters of the Northern States. The moral attitude of the rank and file of the party was shown in 1876 when the disclosures as to corruption and intrigue in the Federal service brought about the contested election, a large number of Republican votes being cast against their own candidate. The blighting influence of legislative favoritism had not then matured. A like revolt took place in 1884 and again in 1892, but the folly of Bryanism in 1896 so weakened the opposition that, from that time on, the extreme protectionists had practically their own way. With the revival of business after the depression of 1893 and the tremendous expansion of industry and commerce due to the stronger organization and the larger concentration of control in all enterprise, the rule of the protectionists was greatly reinforced and until very recently has been substantially undisputed. What it was possible to do under this rule was shown last year by the enactment of a tariff more ingeniously and unscrupulously framed for the profit of the selfish interests involved than any previously enacted.

Now this protectionist rule was essentially corrupt and corrupting and necessarily so. Every schedule of the tariff is packed with provisions that cannot be changed without affecting the profits of large numbers of business concerns. Such changes are of more consequence to the man to be hurt or helped than anything else in politics, and when they are called upon to vote it is inconceivable that they should not use all their influence, good or bad, for the party that will help and not hurt them. Whether the candidates, the leaders, or the subordinate agents of that party be honest men or rascals is not, with them, the deciding element. They vote and work, naturally and logically, for their own pockets every time. And on the basis of this solid, stolid trust and unquestioning support has grown up the Republican machine of which Allds and Aldridge are but by-products.

Happily the time has come when large numbers of Republicans see, on the one hand, that protection has been greatly overdone and is no longer even plausible to be supported as a general good, and on the other, that the machine to which it has given rise is in many ways too bad and shameful for this to be tolerated. This double conviction counts for much in the recent striking instances of successful revolt, and the signs are numerous and encouraging that the revolt will become a revolution.

PRAISE FROM MR. CROKER.

We are inclined to give a high rating to Mr. Richard Croker as a judge of Mayors. We are confident that he could qualify in any court as an expert on Mayors. He knows the qualities of good Mayors, for he and his organization have suffered great privations during years when the city has been served by Mayors who were faithful public servants. He knows even more about bad Mayors, for he has nominated them, caused them to be elected, and, by his control over them and his day-to-day familiarity with their procedures, he must have come to understand the elements of their badness better than any other man in New York.

So, when Mr. Croker says that Mr. Gaynor "is making a good Mayor," that he is a man with the courage of his convictions, and "that a man who has accomplished as big things as Mayor Gaynor is fit to occupy any position that the country can give," we think he has given testimony of high value to the excellence of the Mayor's administration. But the Mayor has been making friends so fast since he took office that it is not surprising that Mr. Croker, who at one time was not at all his friend, has become a convert.

What Mr. Croker says about "graft" is deeply interesting. He declares that the war now being waged "against excise graft" is "a good work." "Of course," he continues, "all saloon keepers are not lawbreakers, and all policemen are not grafters, but there has been a lot of that sort of thing going on." There has been a lot of it. There was a lot of it during the time when Mr. Croker was the Chief of Tammany Hall. He must have known about it, for the matter was continually called to his attention by the press, and, occasionally, by the reports of committees of investigation sent down here from Albany. The public has never been informed as to the attempts Mr. Croker made to suppress "graft." He kept that to himself. He was a very busy man "working for his own pocket all the time," according to his own testimony, so it is doubtful if he ever felt entirely free to go into the "graft" question as deeply as his stern convictions would have urged him to go. But a war against "graft" that has Mr. Croker's approval makes a good start.

POSTAL RATES.

It would appear from the text of Postmaster General Hitchcock's latest statement that he is contemplating urging on Congress a general advance in rates of postage on all second-class matter, newspapers, and periodicals, with the argument that, by the revenue thus obtained, he can provide one-cent postage for letters. The tendency toward a lower rate of postage for letters has long been pronounced, but it is not generally desired, so far as we are able to see, that it shall be secured by raising other rates.

There are considerations affecting the second-class rate that do not apply to all the publications paying this rate, and it would surely be wiser to discriminate as the facts and justice may require than to increase the cost of all these publications to their buyers. Moreover, the means of reducing the cost of the mail service are not nearly exhausted. The Postmaster General has made some progress in this direction, but he has not yet gone so far that he can reasonably propose an advance in rates on one class in order to make a reduction on another.

LITIGATING THE PRICE OF COTTON.

So far as the public is concerned the substance in Attorney General Wickersham's prosecution of the cotton traders is whether or not the men whom he is prosecuting raised the price of cotton beyond its fair worth. Another way of stating it is to say that as an officer of the Government he is prosecuting because manipulators raised the price of cheap clothing above the ability of the people to pay. Naturally that is a popular thing to do, and interests many who have no concern at all in the contentions of the bulls and the bears.

The obstacle to taking this view of the matter is that the basis of the suit is an agreement not fully disclosed regarding 150,000 bales for future delivery by each of four parties. The world's supply is 3,784,110 bales, and at a price every bale can be ordered sent here by telegraph. The American supply is 2,578,110 bales. It is difficult to see how a contract regarding such a moderate amount of the staple can be regarded as a monopolization of it. There is nothing ultimate or inevitable about a price. It is the most mutable of all things human, a mere expression of the comparison of judgments about values, and is here made the basis of a lawsuit as though it were a finality and had an independent existence apart from other conditions. The prosecution is to punish the men who have raised the price "in excess of the normal." But what is the normal? How is this year's normal related to last year's normal? And whether or not this year's price is normal, and is made what it is by the defendants, how are they responsible for the condition of the wage market which alone makes the price of these goods more or less easily borne by consumers of the product?

These are only a few suggestions of the morass into which Government ventures when it meddles with markets. They are organized to register the interplay of forces which shift every minute, and in which there is no ultimate truth which holds good beyond the instant in which it is true. By intervening the Government takes sides not as between moral right and wrong, but as between differing judgments in the cotton trade. Not until the event can it possibly be known whether the bulls or bears are right, and not until then will any prudent person venture to deliver an absolute judgment upon the propriety of the Administration's procedure. It will be praised and criticised by partisans of course, and equally by market partisans and by political partisans. It is not a function of Government in any proper sense to regulate prices. If there is any statute which has to be enforced in this manner it is an object lesson of the sort of statute which more discredits the lawmaker than benefits those suffering under the law.

The situation which now ripens is the outgrowth of the recent excessive production, when planters were receiving less than they thought their cotton was worth. They started a pursuit of the wicked bears, and got from a sympathetic official at Washington several volumes of investigation and report with the conclusion that it was the duty of Government to intervene and control the "psychology" of the markets which prevented cotton bringing its fair price. This was absurd enough; but now comes another officer of Government and prosecutes the wicked men who have so far corrected the psychology in question that cotton is now bringing so much above a fair price that the poor cannot wear it. This is a little more absurd, if possible, but the greatest absurdity of all is that the petitioners for Government help when cotton was down are now loudest in complaint when Government is seeking to cheapen cotton. Why did Government overlook those wicked bears, and why does it now pursue these wicked bulls? How is an agreement to buy cotton restraint of trade? If it is wicked to buy for future delivery is it not equally wicked to sell, and why does Government prosecute only one side of the meretricious bargain? If the price of cotton is exorbitant who is responsible, the mere traders in options or those who hold the real stuff and keep it off the market, thus alone making it possible to manipulate the price?

THE SINS OF PAUL REVERE.

That entertaining Tory historian, Mr. James Henry Stark, celebrated April 19—Patriot's Day in Cambridge, Mass.—by besmirching the memory of Paul Revere. Mr. Stark has written a book about the War of the Revolution entitled "The Other Side," in which most of the American heroes are represented as a crew of treacherous and thieving scoundrels, generally incapable of fighting any but unsuccessful battles. Paul Revere is harshly dealt with. "His ride," said Stark on Tuesday, "which Longfellow unwittingly wrote of as successful, was a big failure, but Revere received money for the attempt from the Government."

Revere seems to have been a bad lot. "His pugnacious disposition got him into the police court, in 1761," Stark says in his book. His copperplate engraving of the "State Street Massacre" was "appropriated" from a drawing by Henry Pelham, apparently without credit given. He "was one of the chief actors in the tea mobs that destroyed the tea which precipitated the Revolution"—a reference, no doubt, to the Boston Tea Party. Now we come to the evidence of his mercenary spirit:

> Revere was permanently engaged by Dr. Warren as a scout to do outside business for the Committee of Safety. This patriotic service had a commercial value, and the committee, in auditing the bill, thought he was disposed to value his labors too highly, for they reduced his charges from 5s. to 4s. a day.

That is, he charged $1.25 a day, and this was scaled down to $1. Moreover, Revere was twice engaged in military actions which Loyalist observers called cowardly. But most of the actions fought by the Colonists were of the same sort, as Mr. Stark elaborately proves. We wonder why, at the close of their disastrous war, the mother country condescended to grant them the independence they could not have earned.

MERELY A THROUGH ROUTE.

The reply of the Public Service Commission to the request of the Downtown Interborough Association that the tri-borough route for the subway, soon to be built, should be altered so that it might give the east side connection with Brooklyn, has been made public. It is now almost a year ago since the Pennsylvania Railroad called attention to the fact that the uptown west side connection is as defective as that of the downtown east side.

Ex-Mayor Schieren says that between the Fulton Street station of the Subway and the East River there are only two north and south routes of transportation. But within a shorter distance west of the Fulton Street station there are already six north and south routes, and the plan is to add to their number. This cannot be denied, and is hardly a novel or secret condition. Vice President Rea last July reminded the Commission that for years the Pennsylvania Railroad had been constructing works which will create one of the greatest traffic centres in the entire city. These numerous tunnels will bring many thousands hourly, to an aggregate of many millions yearly, to a centre whence they must be distributed promptly unless the interests of the city are to suffer. For that distribution no preparation has been made.

There is much to be said in favor of the monumental tri-borough route which the Commission proposes to build with city money, if the bids by private capital are unsatisfactory. Perhaps there can be no better route for a man who wants to ride a dozen miles or so, straight north and south. But it is a serious defect that it provides almost no accommodation for the man who wants to ride east and west. In this respect the route ignores the effect upon the rapid transit situation of the speedy opening of the bridges and of the tunnels under the rivers on the east and west sides of the city. They are going to make traffic history, and it would be a prime defect in any transit enterprise that it should overlook the accommodation of this huge number of relatively short-distance riders. No private enterprise would dare to do it, and the handicap on any scheme of construction with public funds would be the same, although the unlimited tax fund would make good the deficiency of earnings.

Now the Commission replies to these representations that it would delay their plans too long to remedy the defects of the route, the existence of which they do not deny. The road when built will be used for so long that the delay is relatively a small matter, especially as the Commission is not taken by surprise, the same representations having been made many times and long ago. Happily delay is not necessary. It is easy to avoid it by adopting a route thus described by the Pennsylvania Railroad in its protest to the Commission last year:

> We have always believed that when the present Subway was utilized to its full capacity, and new subways required, as is now the case, the most economical and practical course would be to extend the present Subway from Forty-second Street down the west side under Seventh Avenue to the downtown district, connecting with Brooklyn, and up the east side from Forty-second Street to the Bronx, with suitable crosstown connections, permitting of convenient transfers from one line to the other.

That remains the most sensible, the cheapest, and the most profitable addition to the city's subway facilities. Others may be grander and costlier, but by those qualities they are economically inferior. Where a prudent man would not place his funds the city should not.

The latest political weather bureau reports received at the White House show a wide area of low pressure throughout the Middle West and the valley of the Missouri, accompanied by pronounced local disturbances. In the East the storm in which the stout ship Hale was driven to shelter from fear of utter wreck on the Maine coast is regarded as connected with the hurricane in Massachusetts in the region of Cape Cod, but the bureau is both puzzled and anxious by the occurrence of the cyclone of Tuesday in the Genesee Valley in Central New York in which disastrous losses to political merchantmen took place. It is understood that danger signals have been ordered by the bureau for all points east of the Rocky Mountains, and especially along the Great Lakes. Vessels heavily laden with tariff favors are privately advised to stick close to port and to take in sail as much as possible.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Business, Not Curiosity. Before the rest of the country makes the usual comments on the behavior of the women who crowded the sidewalk and street near St. Bartholomew's Church Tuesday afternoon and defied rain and the police in an apparently frantic desire to see something of the big wedding which took place there, it would be well to take a good many things into consideration, and especially to get a little exact information as to who these women were and what they wanted.

It will be assumed, of course, by hinterland critics, that such a display of bad taste, impudence, and vulgarity could take place only in this city, and that it was characteristic, if not of New York women, at least of a large and rather typical or representative fraction of them. As a matter of fact, neither assumption is certainly or even probably true. Like manifestations have again and again been reported from London, Paris, and other European capitals, and even in our own smaller cities any well-advertised wedding excites the interest and attracts the intrusive attention of more people than are invited to be present at its celebration.

The chances are, moreover, that only a minority of the women who made the mad rushes around every carriage that drove up were there for the gratification of a morbid curiosity excited by the widely heralded wealth of the bride and bridegroom. That brought a few, no doubt, but those who are wise in such affairs insist that most of the rioters came in order to gain knowledge of very practical utility in their business—knowledge that would enable them to make for their ambitious customers gowns more or less like those worn by the wives and daughters of big fortunes. In other words, it was the desire for money rather than the worship of it that moved the greater part of the outdoor assemblage, and they took advantage of an unusual opportunity only with the earnestness and disregard for appearances that are characteristic of commercialism in all its phases.

This is, to be sure, an explanation of what happened rather than an excuse for it, but it does in a way and to a degree free New York as a whole and the women of New York in particular from most of the accusations that will be brought against them. After all charity has been exercised, however, the scenes around the church will remain an unseemly and humiliating page in local history. People who go where they are not wanted, and where they have only a vague and general right to be, cannot complain if they get roundly scolded.

Good Advice from the Mayor. "Let them advertise in the newspapers," said Mayor Gaynor in vetoing a number of Aldermanic resolutions permitting societies and institutions to drive advertising wagons through the city streets. The suspicious and cynical may credit us with something less than complete disinterestedness if we praise these vetoes, but they would have deserved—and therefore, of course, would have received—our approval even if they had not been accompanied by a suggestion as to the proper place for advertising, which, if followed, would be to the financial advantage of the newspapers.

For the wagons which the Mayor condemned really are public nuisances in a city like this one, where the transaction of necessary business results in such frequent congestion of traffic. They are always of large size and invariably they are sent into the most crowded streets, where they will be seen by the largest number of people and also where they will cause the greatest amount of inconvenience. As a means of publicity, too, they are crude and out of date, and, while publicity thus secured may be worth something, from its value must be subtracted not only the cost of sending out the wagons, but the loss sustained because of the irritation which they produce in the minds of those whom they bother and delay.

"Let them advertise in the newspapers" in certainly good advice. That all advertising should be confined to the newspapers may or may not be true. We have, of course, an opinion on that subject, but we will refrain from expressing it, partly from modesty, partly from caution, and partly from a vague distrust of our right to decide the question as well as of our competency to decide it impartially. There is, however, we think, no doubt whatever that of all advertising that in newspapers is among the most effective, and it is the lesson of experience that when well done it is worth what it costs. Street advertising, on the other hand, has the characteristic of almost always being in one way or another troublesome and obnoxious, and, as for the "desecration of scenery," that is a form of barbarism which is practiced by many but defended by none, so there is no use in talking about it in a discussion of permissibilities.

Making a Grave Mistake. James Davis, the negro who was forcibly ejected from the Victoria Theatre when he refused a request to change from the orchestra seat which he had paid for to one in the balcony where he would have been welcome, has, of course, some reason for considering himself ill-treated. There is not, however, any chance that he will accomplish anything through causing the arrest of the usher who put him out, for the section of the Penal Code to which he trusts does not, as repeatedly interpreted by the courts, sustain his asserted right to any seat in a theatre for which he is able to pay.

On the contrary, it has been decided that the managers of theatres can admit and exclude whom they please, and that they do not need to have even as much excuse as a man's color either for preventing his entrance or for expelling him after he gets in. Just why a theatre is not one of the "public places" to which the law refers is not, perhaps, as clear to the lay as to the judicial mind, but the fact has been settled, and if Davis had any hope or expectation of turning his humiliation into cash he is doomed to disappointment.

He thinks that he was deprived of a right, but it was only a privilege that was refused, and for that the law gives him no redress. The like privilege has been refused to white men, in this city and not so long ago, and the courts said that they had no case.

TEACHER IS HOPELESS.

Wishes He Might Have Been a Carpenter or Bricklayer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read the letter of "Disheartened" in The Sunday Times with much interest. I am sorry for the young man, of course, but does he fancy for a moment that he is badly off? Let him hear another tale of woe—e pluribus unum.

I spent between three and four thousand dollars of my father's hard-earned cash "getting an education." Having then been certificated and "much degreed" in the arts and in pedagogy, I waved an armful of diplomas in the air, and shouted to the world that it needed me. Alas, some well-meaning friend, finding me jobless, advised me to take the examinations to become a high school teacher in this city. I did so futilely two or three times. Later, having quite innocently met a "particular friend of a particular friend of a particular friend of Frohman's," I took the examination and passed—passed high! What then? Why, a "position," to be sure, for the holding of which patronizing ignorami sometimes dub me "Professor." My work has always been graded A1 by my Principal and the succession of "educators" above him. I have been praised in public and private for excellent teaching and for "doing good." But after five years of dodging these bouquets I find myself in the same old place which I entered. My praises are still being sung; I have taken a promotion examination or two, passed, and am "on the list," (whatever that means.) That's all! But I have had the pleasure of seeing incompetents of sometimes but one year's experience promoted to high positions, and they are still soaring. They are, of course, not teachers, but crafty politicians—in other words, they are "educators." Moreover, I have the additional pleasure once a month of being reminded of the criminal fact that 1 per cent. of my salary per year is deducted for a cause through which I shall probably never benefit, granting that I should be able to create the pull were I to become eligible for such benefit.

Now, I am much worse off than "Disheartened." My present status socially is far inferior to his—for who regards a teacher as much better than a tramp? Furthermore, I have to face the fact that my father's money was wasted on me. If only I were not educated! If I had been a bricklayer, a carpenter, a plumber, or any one of a hundred other things, I could long since have married the girl of my heart and established a home. But I went wrong and became a teacher! I earn only enough to avoid shabbiness in dress and starvation, (if existence in the average New York boarding house be not worse than starving.) And I loved the girl far too well to ask her to share a teacher's lot with me.

Proposed 150th Street Station.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I hear that a new Subway station is proposed at Broadway and 150th Street. The congestion at the 145th Street station leads me to suggest that the new one extend the full block to 151st Street, which would make four exits possible, (two at each street, facilitating the exit at night,) shortening the distance home to some (an advantage in inclement weather) and easily providing a station of sufficient length for trains of any size.

A NUMBER OF WORDS ON THE CLUB WOMAN.

The Club Woman is the regular Woman, minus her French Chef and Incubator Attachment;
She has the faculty, all her own, for disagreeing, arguing, and speculating
On other subjects than the servant girl, the parson, the baby, and the matchment
Of all the young folks and old maids and a few widows that she thinks should be up and mating.

The Club Woman has the gift of finding time to earn her own and her husband's living
And yet read up on politics, law, and local matters, and finds an avocation
In some side issues, like those of helping, teaching, hunting out suffering folks, and giving
A little money here and there while she settles innumerable questions both for men and nation.

The Club Woman is the woman of the past in her atavistic likeness to Dame Eve;
She wants to know—and is not afraid to eat any old apple of learning;
And then she tells the men, who, like Adam, are only too glad to stand, open-mouthed, and receive—
For they know they would have remained in innocuous desuetude had it not been for Eve's wise yearning.

The Club Woman is the woman of the present, inasmuch as no other woman is in it
In re. intelligence, up-to-date-ish-ness, and all around general information;
She is head and shoulders above those queer ones who say they "would like to see themselves waste a minute.
From warming somebody's food, shoving the perambulator and carrying on the burden of excessive population!"

The Club Woman is the woman of the future, for she already has one foot in the breach Between Race Suicide by natural causes and the same through man's inability to pay the price of meat;
A few more Clubs and a little more absent treatment on those to whom their voices do not reach
And the Trusts will find that by a bountiful feeding of the brains the home consumer will not require so much Pure Food to eat.

KNOX ARBITRAL COURT PLAN.

Permanent Tribunal Which He Expects Will Bring Disarmament Finds Favor.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Ultimate disarmament of the nations of the world is practicable in the opinion of Secretary Knox. He believes the establishment of a court of arbitral justice, to which nations of the world may appeal for the settlement of their controversies, will have the effect, as its own natural consequence, not merely of reducing armaments but of rendering ultimately large armaments unnecessary.

His plan for the establishment of an international court of arbitral justice, which was outlined in an identical note sent in the Fall of last year to various nations, is said to be meeting with general favor, and Mr. Knox believes that such a court will be constituted at The Hague in the near future.

The court, the Secretary explained, would be composed of Judges representing various nations or systems of law, and it is expected would develop international law just as the common law of England and the United States has been developed by judicial decision. The Secretary also said that while the court would be primarily intended for the powers participating in its constitution, it would, nevertheless, be open to any power that might wish to submit a controversy to it, thus making it in the fullest sense international.

It is not proposed in signing a convention for the establishment of such a court, that the nations shall obligate themselves to disarm or make any move toward disarmament. The successful operation of the court, however, would have for its consequence a reduction of armament if not complete disarmament.

STANDARD OUSTER APPEAL UP

Supreme Court Hears Arguments of Kentucky Oil Company Against Tennessee Decree.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Anti-trust legislation, the great commercial problem which the Supreme Court of the United States has found so perplexing this term, came up again to-day in the court, when arguments were made on the appeal from the ouster decree, issued by the Tennessee courts, against the Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, which, the State asserts, violated the Tennessee Anti-Trust act.

The specific complaint is that an agent of the company procured merchants of Gallatin, Tenn., to countermand an order to purchase oil from an opposition company, the inducement to do so being a gift of oil with each barrel purchased from the Standard.

Attorney John J. Vertrees, who defended the Standard, told the court that all oil dealers tried to get merchants to countermand orders to opposition dealers, although he admitted that it was not fair trade. He argued that inasmuch as the countermanded order was for oil in another State, the transaction was inter-State commerce, and if any offense had been committed it was against the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

"Although the act complained of occurred within the State of Tennessee?" asked Justice Lurton.

"Every act must occur somewhere," replied Mr. Vertrees.

Justice White questioned the attorney about his contention concerning the power of the State on this subject. The Justice took the position that because a State law touched inter-State commerce it was not unconstitutional, but became so only when it laid a burden upon that commerce.

RAILROAD ACCIDENTS GROW.

More Killed and Injured Last Fall Than the Year Before.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A large increase in the number of casualties on American railroads is shown by the report for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1909, as compared with the corresponding quarter of the previous year. A bulletin issued to-day by the Inter-State Commerce Commission shows an increase in the number of persons killed of 301 and in the number injured of 5,645, as compared with the corresponding quarter of 1908. The total number of persons killed was 1,090 and the total number injured 22,491.

The bulletin makes a comparison of steam roads with the electric lines on which inter-State traffic is carried. The total number of persons killed on the electric lines was 26 and 642 were injured. The total number of accidents on the steam roads was 3,206, (1,745 collisions and 1,461 derailments,) of which 257 collisions and 155 derailments affected passenger trains. The damage to cars, roadbeds, and equipments amounted to $2,733,830.

BIXBY TO HEAD ENGINEERS.

Will Succeed Gen. Marshall and May Be Followed by Col. Goethals.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Col. William H. Bixby, the senior Colonel of Corps of Engineers, recently stationed at St. Louis, and President of the Mississippi River Committee, will be appointed Chief of Engineers to succeed Brig. Gen. William L. Marshall, who retires in June.

Col. Bixby will retire as Brigadier General just about the time of the completion of the Panama Canal, and it is surmised that this will afford an opportunity for the promotion of Lieut. Col. Goethals, the engineer in charge of the canal construction, to the head of the Engineer Corps.

"Third Degree."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In The Times to-day reference is made to the remarks of Judge Crain (in sentencing a prisoner) to the "third degree" as practiced at Police Headquarters. I have been an attendant at the General Sessions Courts for twenty years and would make the following suggestions based on experience:

Whenever a prisoner has a confession to make, instead of his making it privately at Police Headquarters, he should be brought before a Magistrate and his statement taken down by a court stenographer and signed by him in the presence of the Magistrate, and all other confessions be regarded as unlawful testimony, only in the case of a prisoner being brought before a dying person, then what he says can be used against him.

I, for one, do not believe that a prisoner is treated wrongfully at Police Headquarters, but lawyers are constantly prejudicing the juries with the "third degree" bugaboo, and I think the safest and best means would be for a prisoner to make his statement in open court.

Subway Platform Danger.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While so much agitation has been going on in regard to subway construction and operation, why does some one not look toward the safety of the passengers and close up the space between the car platform and the station platform so that the crowds can be handled without the possibility of getting their feet or limbs injured by falling down the space between the car platform and the station platform?

I have personally observed the situation, and it is astounding that so many accidents do happen when some small device could be used to close up this space. I notice that the trainmen and also stationmen are constantly warning the passengers of this danger, but it does not seem to me to be a practical way of overcoming the same.

INSIST ON COURTS IN CITY HALL PARK

Mayor's Commission, in a New Report, Declares the Other Sites Too Expensive.

THINKS PARK ISN'T NEEDED

Anyway, the City Has No Money to Build Elsewhere, but, If It Has, Chambers Street Is Advised.

The Mayor's Court House Commission has submitted a new report on the question of a site for the proposed new building, in which it still favors placing the Court House in City Hall Park, despite the emphatic objection which has been raised against this plan.

The commission declares that City Hall Park is no longer a public park, in the true sense of the word, and that the taking of additional space in it for the Court House would work no hardship upon the people.

The report goes on to say that the City Hall Park site would be the most economical of any yet suggested, the cost of construction ranging from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000.

Of the twenty-five sites suggested, the report says, only five are suitably located or such that they "may reasonably be considered." These five are City Hall Park, Chambers Street, Duane Street, Mulberry Bend, and Centre Street. The commission then goes on to give the following reasons why the first is "under all the circumstances the most desirable":

> First—Because the present Court House buildings are now located on that site, which has been approved by a majority of the lawyers of the county as being nearest to the centre of business, in the midst of the civic centre, and most approachable by transit. The public buildings already located at this point have been so located largely with reference to the location of the Court House on said site.
> Second—Because its location does not deprive the people of any park space that has heretofore been used or can be used for that purpose; but, on the contrary, the selection of any other site would undoubtedly deprive the people of the use of funds for parks to be located where they are most needed.
>
> Third—Because it was understood, by reason of the rejection of costly sites previously recommended, that strict economy was required to be observed, and it was found that this site was the most economical site that could be selected, and upon it can be constructed without delay the much-needed Court House.
>
> Says Park Is No Use to the Public.
>
> The main objection to the City Hall Park is that it required the taking of park space which it is claimed should not be taken for other public purposes. This board is not in favor of sacrificing park space for other public purposes where the space is of any use as a park for a recreation or breathing space for the people. But City Hall Park has not since many years been used as a public park, and is now only serviceable to the people as a public square and a thoroughfare.
>
> The use of the park for the Court House would not deprive the people of any park area which they now possess and use for park purposes, and the removal of the present Court House Building would not give to the people any additional space which can suitably be used for a recreation or breathing space for the people.
>
> On the contrary, the placing of the Court House on another site would entail such great expense for the acquisition of a new site as would exhaust much of the city's resources, and thereby the people might be deprived of the use of large funds for park purposes in the denser sections of the city where recreation centres are most essential.
>
> The only advantage there can be to the addition of this area to City Hall Park is to provide a plaza in front of any public buildings which may be located on Chambers Street.
>
> A suitable Court House can be erected, as we are informed, at a cost not to exceed $10,000,000. If this building is erected on the site selected by the Court House Board the project would involve no additional cost. But if another site be selected the cost of the land would make the total project cost not less than $25,000,000, and probably very much more.
>
> It is believed that the city is in no condition financially to incur an expense so totally non-commensurate with the actual needs of the Court House, when it is already burdened to meet the pressing needs for rapid transit and other purposes.
>
> A very important reason for the choice made by the Court House Board was to prevent the time and delay which would be ocasioned by acquiring any site in condemnation proceedings.
>
> Court House Condition Shameful.
>
> The condition of the present Court House is shameful. It is detrimental both to the health of the Judges and lawyers, as well as to the parties in the actions and the public, and all concerned demand that there should be a suitable Court House without delay.
> Assuming, however, that your honorable board deems it advisable to devote to this purpose in addition to the cost of the building a sum of from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 for the land to avoid occupying City Hall Park, and assuming that your board considers that it is possible that this large expenditure can be made to give that additional area to City Hall Park, which would very greatly increase the beauty of this group of public buildings, this board will offer the Chambers Street site, facing City Hall Park.
> If the Chambers Street site is selected the space north of Chambers Street, consisting of the two blocks bounded by Broadway, Duane Street, Elm Street, the Hall of Records, and Chambers Street, will be required. The assessed valuation of this site is: Land, $7,805,000; improvements, $3,533,000. Total, $11,338,000.

Some of the most important civic, artistic, and patriotic societies in the city have registered objections to the placing of the new Court House in City Hall Park, and there undoubtedly will be opposition to the confirmation of the report by the Mayor.

A bill allowing the taking of additional space in the park for the purpose has already been passed by the Legislature and approved by the Mayor. He also has expressed himself as being in favor of the park site.

NURSES MUST DRESS PLAINLY.

Health Board Soon to Issue an Order Against Fancy Gowns and Hats.

Feminine desire for picture hats with long willow plumes is said to have inspired the Health Department to frame an order, soon to be issued, to require its 300 nurses, who visit the public schools, to wear blue serge suits and sailor hats while on duty. The nurses have heard of the decree about to be promulgated and were said yesterday to be protesting vigorously, with the usual threat to "tell it to Gaynor."

Dr. Walter Bensel, City Sanitary Superintendent, said last night he had heard of only one protest, and that didn't come directly or officially.

"We are not going to require the nurses to wear uniforms," he said, "only a blue serge suit and a sailor hat, which is distinctive but not conspicuous. No one would pick it out as any different from other street costumes. The fact is, that while not many do so, some of the nurses go from school to school in fancy dresses and highly fashionable hats, bearing ostrich plumes. We don't think such a costume is in keeping with the character of the work."

Dr. Bensel said that the order would be issued as soon as it was found out where the best suits could be obtained for the smallest outlay. He thought that they should cost from $20 to $22 each, an done suit should last a year, good for all street wear, if the nurse chose. The nurses are paid $75 a month, and he thought they could afford to buy the distinctive suit without great hardship.

Mustn't Appeal to the Public First.

Secretary James K. Paulding of the Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, issued a statement yesterday declaring that Dr. J. P. McGrath and Dr. L. H. Rogers had been dismissed from the staff for having made public through newspapers their grievance against the food provided by the hospital for their consumption, thus appealing to the public instead of the proper authorities. Mr. Paulding declared that the hospital authorities knew nothing of the complaint until their attention was called to it through the newspaper articles.

J. M. WILLETS AND MISS BLOODGOOD WED

MISS CONSTABLE A BRIDE

Wedded to John H. MacCracken, Son of Chancellor MacCracken—Schuyler-Carpender Nuptials.

The wedding of Miss Gladys Augusta Bloodgood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hildreth K. Bloodgood, and Josiah Macy Willets, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bloodgood, 11½ West Thirty-seventh Street. The wedding was originally to have taken place in St. Bartholomew's Church, but owing to the illness of Mrs. Bloodgood it was celebrated quietly yesterday in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends.

The house was decorated with Autumn leaves and roses and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herbert Shipman of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, under a bower of white roses.

Mr. Bloodgood gave his daughter in marriage. The latter wore a gown of white satin embroidered in roses and trimmed with point lace. It had a court train. The bridal veil of point lace was the one worn by the bridegroom's mother at her wedding. The bride carried gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The bride's sister, Miss Vera Bloodgood, was maid of honor, and wore a turquois blue satin robe veiled with pink chiffon to the knees and caught with a band of embroidery. The low neck bodice was trimmed with gold lace and she wore a black hat trimmed with pink ostrich plumes. She carried a leghorn hat basket filled with moss roses and forget-me-nots.

William de Forest Manice was Mr. Willets's best man. There were no ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Willets will probably go abroad in the Autumn on a trip around the world. They have bought a country place at New Marlborough, in the Berkshires, twenty miles from Lenox. It is situated between the home of Mr. Willets's father and that of Mr. Bloodgood. Here they will spend their Summers and will probably make their home in New York in the Winter.

Those at the wedding yesterday included Admiral and Mrs. Casey and Edward Casey of Washington, Howard Willets, father of the bridegroom; Mrs. John Bloodgood, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Schoonmaker, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Hoyt, John T. Willets, grandfather of the bridegroom; Dr. Samuel W. Lambert and Mrs. Lambert, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Wylie, Mrs. Caswell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Carson, Miss Lord, Miss Underhill, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Macy, Mr. and Mrs. V. Everit Macy, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graeme Ladd, Miss Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bull, Miss Beatrice Flagg, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hunter Brown, Miss Elizabeth Hoyt, Miss Rosamond Dixey of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. George Widener, Miss Widener, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Leith of White Plains, Erving Rand, Mrs. Cortwright and Miss Rhea Reid, Mrs. J. Howard Wainwright, Mrs. R. T. Wainwright, and Mrs. C. J. Peters.

MISS CARPENDER A BRIDE.

Wedded to Philip Van Rensselaer Schuyler in Church of Heavenly Rest.

The wedding of Miss Jeannie Floyd-Jones Carpender, daughter of William Carpender, and Philip Van Rensselaer Schuyler, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street, the Rev. Herbert Shipman officiating.

The bride wore a trailed white satin gown with a low neck bodice draped with point lace. Her tulle veil was bordered with point lace and caught with orange blossoms.

Her sister, Miss Ella Floyd-Jones Carpender, was maid of honor and wore pale blue satin draped with chiffon of the same color and trimmed with gold lace. Her black tulle hat had a wreath of several pink roses around the edge.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Marion Rutgers Doughty, Gertrude Riker Leverich, Mrs. Noel Lispenard Carpender, and Miss Anita Ingersoll, and they wore trailing pink satin gowns with tunics of pink chiffon. Their bodices were of cream and gold lace as were their overlength sleeves. They wore pink hats covered with pink tulle and faced with black. All the attendants carried pink sweet peas.

Miss Isabella Floyd-Jones Carpender, the bride's niece, was the flower girl.

Mr. Schuyler had for his best man Roger M. Minton, and his ushers were Herbert L. Riker, Noel L. Carpender, William H. Emory, Jr., Telfair M. Minton, Henry Le B. Carpender, and John R. Moore, Jr.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Carpender in West Forty-sixth Street.

MISS EDITH CONSTABLE WEDS.

Becomes Bride of John Henry MacCracken, Son of Chancellor MacCracken

One of the largest of the Spring weddings in Westchester County was celebrated in St. Thomas's Protestant Episcopal Church, Mamaroneck, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Miss Edith Constable became the bride of John Henry MacCracken, son of Chancellor MacCracken. The church, which was crowded with society people, was built by the bride's grandfather, the late James M. Constable of the house of Arnold & Constable.

The church was ornamented with roses, and Bishop Courtney, rector of St. James's Church, New York City, performed the ceremony, assisted by Chancellor MacCracken and the Rev. Frank F. German. Miss Constable, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. There were no bridesmaids. George G. MacCracken was his brother's best man, and Profs. Arthur B. Lamb and Henry Noble MacCracken of New Haven, Dr. John J. Moorehead, Hicks Weatherbee, and George A. Bodman were ushers.

KLAW ANSWERS WILLIAM A. BRADY

WELCOMES A TEST CASE

Says Brady's Announcement Proves Klaw & Erlanger's Contention There Is No Monopoly in Theatricals.

Marc Klaw of the firm of Klaw & Erlanger yesterday issued a statement referring to the recent withdrawal of William A. Brady from the ranks of the theatrical syndicate, announced in yesterday morning's papers. Mr. Klaw said:

"There is nothing new about this, nor has Mr. Erlanger sent any message by wireless or otherwise. We have known of this matter for many weeks; in fact, we know that Mr. Brady has had an alliance with the Shuberts since shortly before the production of 'The Lottery Man' at the Bijou. Mr. Brady does not take with him the attractions in which he and Mr. Grismer are jointly interested.

"The weakness of Mr. Brady's statement consists in the threat to make us let him into Missouri and Texas even if he has to invoke the law, and if the law is not sufficient he is going to the Legislatures and have adequate laws passed. In other words, the moment he is out of the syndicate he wants to use a legal crowbar to pry his way into it. That is funny. In fact, funnier than that law which was passed in Texas two or three years ago. In order to save Mr. Brady and his legal advisers time I might say to him now that we positively decline to book any of his attractions in any theatres we control in Missouri or Texas, and we will help him to get before a United States court, because if he takes the case into the courts of either of those States we shall promptly move to have it transferred to the United States courts. He will there be instructed that the Constitution of the United States does not allow any confiscation of private property, and that theatres are private property under the control of their owners.

"The courts of this country, all the way up to the last tribunal, have decided that a manager can keep anybody he pleases out of the front of his theatre, even if the fellow pays money. If we can keep one fellow out of the front door, what is to prevent us from keeping a whole company out of the stage entrance?

"But, after all, does not Mr. Brady's announcement and Mr. Shubert's prove what Mr. Erlanger and I have always contended—that there is no such thing as a monopoly in the theatrical business, and that no man can have all the theatres and all the attractions? We do not know why there has been so much secrecy about it by Mr. Brady himself, who would not even convey the information to his own partner, Mr. Grismer, because everybody has known it for many weeks."

FOR AN INDIAN MONUMENT.

Col. Cody Offers Cash Prizes for the Most Suitable Design.

Col. William F. Cody, whom every small boy, and some boys no longer small, know as "Buffalo Bill," has interested himself in the movement for the erection in New York Harbor of a monument to the Indian. Rodman Wanamaker started the effort to perpetuate the memory of the red man, and bills before Congress now provide for the erection of a suitable memorial.

Various designs have been submitted already, and Col. Cody has selected one which pleases him most. Before final selection is made, however, every American-born artist will have an opportunity to submit a design of his own for the Indian tribute. Col. Cody has offered cash prizes for a National competition by artists, the first prize amounting to $250 for the most suitable design for a monument.

The newspaper artists of this city will act as judges of the competition.

HENRIETTE BACH'S DEBUT.

Young Violinist Pleases in a Difficult Programme at Mendelssohn Hall.

Henriette Bach, violinist, a pupil of Franz Kneisel, was introduced to this public last evening at Mendelssohn Hall. With the exception of a group of three Brahms songs, which were interpreted by Sydney Biden, Miss Bach gave the whole programme herself. It was not a long one, but it was of a character to test the mettle of any violinist, including Vieuxtemps's concerto in F sharp minor, a group of numbers by Bach, taken from various sonatas for the violin alone, the air from Goldmark's concerto in A minor, and a caprice of Guireau's.

Miss Bach made a pleasing enough display of technical prowess and showed some knowledge of style. Her début was a most promising one. Her tone at times has not all the beauty which is demanded of a violinist of rank, and her manner of playing is a bit cold. But as most young violinists err on the side of exaggerating sentiment perhaps this fault is a virtue.

The floral tributes were many and imposing.

CORSE PAYTON AT ACADEMY.

Brooklyn Manager to Establish Stock Company at Old Playhouse.

Instead of the Academy of Music becoming a motion picture theatre immediately after the end of its regular season on June 6, it will pass under the control of Corse Payton, the Brooklyn theatre manager, for an indefinite period. Mr. Payton's plan is to install a stock company that will present modern plays at a scale of prices the same as that prevailing at his Lee Avenue and Bijou Theatres in Brooklyn.

The season will open on June 7 and will continue as long as it proves profitable. Mr. Payton, following the plan adopted in his Brooklyn houses, will have a souvenir day every week. Matinées will be given every day.

"Jim the Penman" to Be Revived.

William A. Brady, Incorporated, the newly formed theatrical concern, announces that an all-star revival of "Jim the Penman" will be made at an early date with a cast including Wilton Lackaye, Florence Roberts, Marguerite Clark, Arthur Byron, and John Mason. Mr. Lackaye will play the title rôle, and Mr. Byron will play Capt. Redwood. The play will be given in New York in about three weeks at one of the Shubert theatres.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Daniel V. Arthur has engaged Joseph Santley, Ethel Green, Georgie Mack, and George Backus for important roles in support of De Wolf Hopper in "A Matinee Idol," opening at Daly's Theatre on April 28.

Frederick Belasco, proprietor and manager of the Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco, and a brother of David Belasco of New York, is in town, engaging new people for his Alcazar stock company. Among those already selected are Katherine Calhoun, Jane Gordon, and Rodney Ranous.

Next Sunday evening, April 24, a testimonial will be given at Weber's Theatre to Robert E. Stone, business manager of the theatre. The entertainment will be furnished by a number of volunteers from vaudeville.

A recent contribution to the Actors' Fund fair is a round-trip ticket and a ringside seat for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, contributed by James J. Jeffries, to be sold by raffle. Jeffries has promised to entertain the winner as his guest in California.

Tickets for the performance to be given for the benefit of the mother of the late Lotta Faust at the Broadway Theatre on May 1 will be sold at the box office next Monday morning by the various Shubert and Fields stars, who will take turns acting as ticket sellers.

GETS THE GARRICK, LONDON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 20.—George Tyler, managing director of Liebler & Co., to-day completed arrangements for the London production of "The Dawn of a To-morrow" at the Garrick Theatre in the second week of May. It has taken Mr. Tyler nearly a month to obtain the Garrick, on which he had set his heart for the production. Several other theatres were offered to him, while there appeared to be insuperable difficulties in the way of getting the Garrick, but once again the American manager achieved the seemingly impossible.

"The Dawn of a To-morrow" will be given with a remarkably strong cast, including Miss Gertrude Elliott, (Mrs. Forbes Robertson,) Henry Ainley, Herbert Waring, J. H. Barnes, and Miss Portia Knight, the last named an American actress who has been in Europe for several years past, but who will return to her native country in the Autumn with Miss Ellen Terry when the latter makes her lecture tour.

The scenery for the production of "The Dawn of a To-morrow" was aboard the ill-fated Minnehaha and portions of it are now floating about the Scilly Isles. Mr. Tyler arranged to-day for a complete reproduction of the scenery to be made in London, each act to be placed in different hands so as to insure it being ready by May 2, when the play will begin a preliminary run at Liverpool.

FRENCH HOSPITAL BAZAAR.

"Curious" Wants to Know About Prize Winners—Mr. Weber Explains.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I use your widely read columns to report an occurrence affecting a fairly large number of people and my disapproval thereof?

At the late fair for the benefit of the French Hospital at the Metropolitan Opera House over 5,000 chances were sold on a motor car. Presumably nearly as many individuals had an interest in the result of the drawing. In no newspaper did I see, nor do I know of any one who saw, the published name of the winner.

Attempted telephoning being quite unsatisfactory, a letter of inquiry was sent to the French Hospital and brought the answer that "Mr. Brown won the automobile." Hardly a wealth of detail there!

An equal mystery surrounds other things raffled for.

The entire cessation of interest in the drawings on the part of the fair managers—after the public's money was all in—is doubtless not entirely appreciated by many, and it is not impossible that a worthy cause may be thus made to suffer vicariously. CURIOUS.

Jules Weber, Treasurer of the French Benevolent Society, under whose auspices the French Hospital bazaar was held, said last night that the name of the winner of the automobile was printed in the newspapers a day or so after the bazaar closed, and that the machine was delivered to the man who won it.

"At every booth there were several raffles of one kind and another," went on Mr. Weber. "Chances on these things were sold, not only at the booths, but by the women who went around through the bazaar. A great many tickets were taken out by women who volunteered to try to sell them. There were some 200 articles to be disposed of by drawing.

"On the last night of the bazaar more than half of these were disposed of by drawing and the names of the winners announced from the stage. The drawings came off after midnight, and the names were not obtained by the newspapers for the Sunday papers. The next day accounts telling the names of the winners of the automobile and several other valuable articles were sent to the papers.

"The names of the winners of small articles, of which there were many, were not sent out, because it did not seem likely that they would be printed, and, besides, they had been announced from the platform at the end of the bazaar.

"After all these drawings, however, there still remained several large and valuable prizes to be disposed of, including a piano, the order for the $4,000 Flameng portrait, a fur coat, and a gold purse. For all these articles the society had put out a great many tickets. We knew that not all of them had been sold, and we wanted to get full reports on the number sold before we had the drawings, so that we could exclude from the urn the numbers held by representatives of the society. We didn't want to draw the things.

"Last Monday a meeting of the heads of all the booths was held at the Café Martin, and the winners of all these articles were announced. All the winners have been notified, and the articles have been started on their way. This list was sent also to all the newspapers; the French papers published it. Any one who cares for a complete list of all the winners may obtain it by applying to President Lucien Jouvaud of the French Benevolent Society, 486 Broadway."

Maxine Elliott Sails for London.

Maxine Elliott was a passenger on the Lusitania yesterday, bound for a Summer's vacation in England. She will arrive in London in time to witness the first performance of her sister, Gertrude Elliott, in "The Dawn of a To-morrow." She will return to America early in the Fall to begin her tour in "The Inferior Sex," which she will take to the Pacific Coast.

Roumanian Pianist to Appear Here.

Rose Foxaneanu, a young Roumanian pianist, is to make her first appearance in Mendelssohn Hall on Friday evening. She will play Beethoven's D minor sonata, Opus 31, No. 2, and compositions by Brahms, Tschaikowsky, Chopin, Scarlatti, and Liszt.

A New Theatre for Brooklyn.

Another new house is to be added to Brooklyn's fast-growing number of theatres. At Fifth Avenue and Fourth Street, South Brooklyn, a theatre will be erected by the Bryant Improvement Company. It is expected that the new building, which is to cost $125,000, will be completed in October. It will have a seating capacity of 1,400, and will offer vaudeville attractions.

"Up and Down Broadway" for Casino.

At the conclusion of the run of "The Chocolate Soldier," at the Casino Theatre, the Shuberts will produce there a new Summer review, to be called, "Up and Down Broadway." The piece is by Edgar Smith, with music by Jerome and Schwartz, and Eddie Foy will be the star of the company. It will be under the stage management of William J. Wilson.

Typewriter Salesmen in an Opera.

The Royal Opera Club, whose members are salesmen of a typewriter company, will give an opera in two acts, called "Sylvia," at Turn Hall, Lexington Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, on the evening of April 30. There are eleven principals in the cast, and a chorus of forty-five.

WOODWARD.—The Hanover National Bank of the City of New York, New York, April 19, 1910.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of The Hanover National Bank of the City of New York, held this day, the following action was taken on the death of the President, Mr. James T. Woodward:

The Directors of The Hanover National Bank, with deep sorrow, are called upon to record the death of their late President, Mr. James T. Woodward, and in doing so they have ordered that the following preamble and resolutions be entered upon the minutes:

Whereas, We have learned with profound sorrow of the death of our beloved associate, Mr. James T. Woodward, President of The Hanover National Bank for thirty-three years and a Director for thirty-six years, and desiring to place upon the record an expression of the feelings of love and affection in which he was held by every member of the board, their high esteem for his great ability as a banker, their appreciation of his successful labors as chief executive officer of the bank, and their sorrow and regret for his death, it is

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Woodward The Hanover National Bank has lost an executive officer who presided over its affairs for more than a generation, and who, by his courage and great ability, had built up its business to the present proud position as one of the largest, strongest, and most influential banking institutions in the United States. He brought to the office all those sterling qualities which go to make up the ideal chief executive of a bank. His great business ability, integrity, and sound judgment enabled him by advice and suggestion to guide the bank's affairs upon sound and conservative lines, and build up for it a name and reputation of which its Directors and officers are justly proud. In the various important crises, both political and financial, through which the country passed during his long term of office, he was always found on the side of safety and conservatism, particularly distinguishing himself in the perilous times of 1907, when, as Chairman of the New York Clearing House Committee, his wise counsel and strong guiding hand and the trust reposed in him by the banking community aided materially in restoring confidence throughout the country.

Resolved, That in their departed and much respected colleague the Directors, officers and employes of the bank alike had a true and warm-hearted friend, whose every act in public and private life could be pointed to with pride. His name was the synonym for kindness and hospitality among his intimates, while his interest in and desire for the welfare of the humblest employe caused him to be held in affectionate regard by them all. Strong in his convictions, he was frank and outspoken in his views. Kindly and modest in his nature, unostentatious but discriminating in his many charities, his death will be deplored and his name held in grateful remembrance by every one who knew him.

Resolved, That this preamble and resolutions be entered in full upon the minutes of the board as a token of our sincere respect and sympathy, and an engrossed copy thereof be prepared.

ECONOMY

Too far East is West and too far West is East.

Economy can be pushed to that extreme where it ceases to be economy.

But if an Owner himself dictates the policy of his building economy, he has solved one of the perils of enterprise.

Our Cost Insurance contract ensures the maximum of economy, consistent with quality and speed of completion.

It gives an Owner absolute veto over every expenditure.

MAYOR STARTS GAME; GIANTS BEAT DOVES

25,000 Persons Cheer Gaynor and Root for New York Victory at Polo Grounds.

After waiting patiently for two days for the weather to give them the chance, the Giants rose in their might yesterday in the first home game at the Polo Grounds, and with nearly 25,000 persons looking on, humbled the Boston Doves by a score of 4 to 0. The city's enormous baseball appetite had reached a keen edge and the artistic whitewashing of the Beantown team was relishing satisfaction. The weather was worth waiting two days for, and so was the ball game. It was just a bit cold for the spectators, but not enough to make any difference to a real fan. If the sky was ever bluer or the sun brighter, no one has ever noticed it. Opening the home season with a win, and a shut-out at that, on a day that was fine enough for the Queen of the May, what more can any one ask?

The grand stands groaned under their load, and every seat was taken and the boxes were all filled, but there were plenty of empty seats out in the bleachers. When a game has to be postponed on two different occasions, and then the crowd comes back 25,000 strong, it only goes to show that next to three meals a day there are a good many folks who give a ball game the next place of prominence in their estimation.

Old and Young Fans Turn Out.

The opening of the baseball season at the Polo Grounds has become a fixed institution, like July 4, and there were lots of gay old sons who would tell you that they hadn't missed an opening in years and years. Yes, and there were young lads who occupied good spots in the bleachers at an hour when school was in session. Here and there you would see a gray-haired, dignified man rise from his seat and call Boston names, and tell them they never could hit the ball anyway. There was many a broker and business man downtown yesterday afternoon who told his clerks that he had an important "deal" on and probably wouldn't be back for the afternoon. And likely as not he was in the jamming, pushing, crushing mob that you met in front of the Polo Grounds gates.

Mayor Gaynor Cheered.

Mayor Gaynor got as big a reception as the ball players. With Secretary Knowles, Inspector Hoolihan, Capt. Cruce, and an escort of friends, the Mayor marched across the field while the Seventh Regiment Band played "Hail to the Chief." The coliseum of seats which surrounded the field was pretty well filled by this time, and the crowd was soon on its feet cheering. The Mayor raised his hat and looked very solemn. He occupied an upper box, and made a pretty throw when he tossed the first ball down into Umpire Rigler's outstretched hands. In the seventh inning Mayor Gaynor stood up and stretched like the rest of the fans, and at one point of the battle, when George Wiltse sent out a two-bagger which brought in two runs, do you think the city's Chief Executive lost his dignified composure and looked as if he was on the verge of throwing his silk hat in the air? He did not.

The world's championship flag which the Giants won back in 1905 floated in the breeze, and right under the flag in far centre field sat Billiken, the new mascot. The little grinning god of "things as they ought to be" was right on the job, and all that he has to do is to keep up the good work.

McGraw Again at the Helm.

Although McGraw was sick in bed Tuesday, there was no keeping him under cover when the sun was shining, and he was on the coaching lines passing out quiet but effective suggestions to his men. Rigler and Klem were the umpires, and they gave the camera battery its first taste of President Lynch's new order to keep off the field. The umpires chased the photographers inside the stands, and the only snapshots they got yesterday were taken before the game began, when the Boston and New York squads, in all about sixty men, were frisking around the field getting ready for the battle.

Yesterday's gathering had its first experience with the roomy headgear that the women are wearing this Spring. If you happened to get in back of one, the only thing you could see was a fly ball, and the only way you knew that New York was scoring was by the cheering. Occasionally in the vast collection of black derby hats one could see great splashes of red. Those were red straw hats decorated with long red feathers, which invariably got under your eyelash or tickled your ear.

Giants Outclassed Doves.

The Giants were a far better ball team than the Bostons yesterday. They cudgeled the ball with vim and destruction, and afield were as spry as they are in midseason. The pitching and batting of George Wiltse and the tapping of Devlin were mighty obstacles to the Boston team. Wiltse, although he favors warm weather, never worked smoother. The southpaw had the Doves baffled, and the best they could do was to rip off three whistling singles, widely separated, in as many innings. Only nine men faced him in the first three innings. Not a Boston player reached second base. A couple of them started the journey, but never connected. Larry Doyle was usually in the way. Only one mishap marred the Giants' play, that was in the sixth, when Moran bunted and Meyers made a bad throw to first, which Merkle made a desperate stab at but did not squeeze. Wiltse had great control and fanned two and didn't walk a man. Wiltse's service "had something on it." The majority of the collisions the Boston batsmen made with the ball sent it high into the air, and there was sure to be a Giant under it when it came to earth.

Mattern No Stumbling Block.

Mattern started on the slab for Boston and was soaked for eight hits in six innings, two of them doubles. New York grouped these raps where they would do the most good. The wind carried the ball and troubled the fielders, but there were no muffs. In the fourth inning, Seymour smashed the ball into the right-field stand for what looked like a home run, but the wind carried the ball foul.

Umpire Rigler has been studying law all Winter and is getting impressive with his oratory. When he announced the batteries yesterday he assumed an attitude not unlike Napoleon when he gave heart-to-heart talks to the Old Guard. After chasing all the peanut boys and the photographers he yelled "Play ball!" The first ball that Wiltse whipped up to Moran was clipped on the side and sent foul into right field. The first three Doves went out in order. With one down in the first, Doyle singled. Larry took a big lead, and Mattern heaved the ball to first base about a dozen times and got caught on the thirteenth try. Murray hit a grounder to Mattern, who broke its speed and Shean fumbled it. Murray stole second, but Seymour flied out. New York began to gather runs in the second. Devlin doubled to right field and scored when Merkle rolled an inoffensive grasser to Charley Herzog, the ex-New Yorker, and the new Dove threw the ball low to first base. Herzog's friends came to his rescue and said: "They all make errors some time or another."

Wiltse Drives in Two Runners.

In the fourth inning Seymour fanned and Bridwell went out at first. Devlin singled and Merkle walked. Meyers crouched and looked as if he was going to lose the ball. Mattern walked him, filling the bases. The Boston pitcher was laboring under the impression that he could easily strike out Wiltse. The only thing that Wiltse did was to swing his bludgeon against the ball and whack it to the left field fence, sending Devlin and Merkle home. The fifth saw the last of Mattern when Seymour and Bridwell singled and Devlin's two-base drive to left centre scored Seymour.

Manager Lake then sent "Chic" Evans to the mound. Evans was with Hartford in the Connecticut State League last year. He made a nervous start and walked Meyers and Wiltse, but pitched himself out of the hole. Boston never got within speaking acquaintance with a run during the game. Wiltse did not permit one Bostonian to reach second base.

The crowd was glad the Giants made such a fine start at home, and after the game swarmed on to the field and threw the leather seat cushions at each other. No, not because they were angry, but, according to Hoyle, the correct way to show enthusiasm when the home team wins is to hit your best friend over the head with something. If it isn't a cushion it's something else. Then the crowd swarmed the elevated trains, and there was a rush for the new runway up over Coogan's Bluff to the Speedway. This delegation went back downtown by Subway. The surface cars, the sight-seeing automobiles, taxicabs, hansoms, and open-faced hacks carried the joyous crowd home to dinner, and there was but one thing to talk about—the score:

Tenney's Story of the Game

By FRED TENNEY of the Giants

The sun finally getting ashamed of himself came out of his hiding place yesterday and gave the Giants a chance to show themselves to their thousands of home fans. The two days' delay in the opening seemed to only whet the appetite of the rooters. Yesterday they started early and kept coming until late in the day. When the gates were opened at 1 o'clock there were several hundreds in the mad rush for the choice of seats. By 2 o'clock, when the players began to appear, there were easily 10,000 people in the stands. The bright sunshine enlivened the band and they kept very busy in an effort to bridge the blank space before the practice and game should start. It was appreciated by the people, who applauded every selection.

When the balls commenced to dance around the field the band was forgotten, no one knew or cared whether it played. The fans were too busy in picking out the old favorites, seeing if they were in satisfactory condition, watching the actions of the new men, learning each one's name and position, trying to figure the added strength to the team. When "Big Six," Wiltse, and Ames appeared walking up the field together the people dropped everything to join in the ovation to these three sterling pitchers, whose combined work will mean so much to the success of the team and New York this season. They deserved it all. "More power to them."

When the time came for the field practice the boys had an opportunity to demonstrate how much good the training trip had done them. The plays were made in lightning speed, the work calling for continued applause.

Just before game time a small procession came marching up through the field. It was Mayor Gaynor, (the man who is making the whole country sit up and take notice,) escorted by Mr. Knowles, Secretary of the club, and others. His Honor thought so highly of his privilege of throwing out the first ball of the season to the umpire that he requested Manager McGraw to have the ball sequestered and returned to him as a souvenir of the occasion. Needless to say the ball is now the sole property of the Mayor.

Suddenly, as if dropped from the heavens, there appeared two men in navy blue uniforms. They moved around in a very businesslike way, and ordered all the boys and men except the players out of the open field. All the cheering and wild hurrahing were hushed as if by magic. A short consultation was held between these two men and Managers McGraw and Lake at the plate. All the while the great crowd, which had swelled to 25,000, was very still. For the advent of these two men meant that the game was about to start. The stillness was in order that the spectators could catch the names of the batteries when announced by the head umpire. When Wiltse was called as the selection of Manager McGraw, a shout went up which completely drowned the name of Mattern, who had proved such a stumbling block in Boston. But what did the fans care who worked against the steadiest "south paw" in the business. Wiltse was good enough for them. Right well did he justify their faith, for during the whole nine innings he was never in danger or trouble. His control was magnificent, his curve wasn't working very well, but he made the gray matter overcome that handicap to such an extent that three lonely hits in as many different innings was all his opponents could gather. It was great work, for the Bostonians only last week used several of our hurlers in a very harsh manner. Meyers gave him excellent support behind the bat.

In the field there were no particularly hard plays to make, the pitching being so effective that the ball was not hit hard, a double play on a sharp line hit to Bridwell being the best effort turned in. While "Hooks" was toying with his opponents, our men were having a lovely time with Mr. Mattern. The first score came in the second, when Devlin hit for two bases, coming in on Herzog's bobble of Merkle's hit. In the fourth Devlin broke loose with a hard single and clean steal, then Merkle and Meyers were both passed in order to bring up Wiltse. Just to show that he resented being picked for an easy mark, "Hooks" slammed the ball against the left-field fence for a couple of sacks and two large runs.

In the fifth, with two out, Seymour, Bridwell, and Devlin connected safely, Arthur's rap being good for two bases. This fusillade was sufficient for Mattern, who retired, giving place to Evans. He was rather wild, but yielded no runs. We didn't really care, as four was as good as a hundred.

From the foregoing it is easily seen that Devlin was the hero with the stick. His efforts brought him three safeties, two of them for two bases. The only time he failed to deliver was on a hard line smash which Shean did well to catch.

The game was fast and pleasing from a New York standpoint. The fans left for dinner with the firm belief that New York had a great team, with more than a look-in for the flag. It was a great opening, and once more demonstrated the tremendous hold our National game has on the people. To-morrow, same time and place, the battle will be renewed.

Giants Release Eight Youngsters.

Announcement was made by Manager McGraw of the Giants yesterday that he had released eight players. Pitchers Bell and Daily go back to the Springfield (Ill.) Club; Montreal gets Outfielder Kommers and Catcher Curtis; Pitchers Durham and Temple and Outfielder Williams go to New Bedford, and Outfielder Shaw to Toronto.

Stopped Game with Bases Loaded.

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—With three St. Louis men on bases and only one out in the eighth inning to-day, Umpire O'Day stopped the game, according to agreement to permit the teams to make trains. Beaumont's home run in the third, scoring Evers, gave Chicago the game, 5 to 4. Pfeister was taken out in the eighth, with the bases full, and Overall forced two runs home by walking two men. O'Day then called the game. Score:

BROOKLYN'S CLUB OPENS WITH DEFEAT

Pitcher Rucker Fails to Hold Phillies, Who Win Handily by Score of 6 to 2.

It was a disastrous opening for the Brooklyn National League Club at Washington Park yesterday afternoon when the Philadelphia team took the baseball heroes from across the river into camp to the tune of 6 to 2, and then it was after the Ebbets players had been trying for two days to get the best of the weather man so that the formal opening of the park for the season could take place. The grounds held 16,000 spectators, and after the first few innings there was little chance to cheer, and the throng gave evidence of its lung capacity in a little tuning up at the expense of the umpires.

Considering the season of the year the weather conditions were ideal, and the only fault was found under foot on the base lines, there being mud here and there which caused several spills. Two floral pieces were out in the centre, and a band that had been practicing up during the two rainy days preceding enlivened the crowd in anticipation of real baseball. The players paraded across the field about 3 o'clock, both Philadelphia and Brooklyn, and just as they were starting out on the diamond the flag began to rise from the grand stand, propelled skyward by a rope in the hands of Manager Bill Dahlen and Charlie Dooin.

The Stars and Stripes had mounted only a short distance when the rope broke and down came the flag. The crowd did not mind, however, and cheered as much at the downfall as if Old Glory had risen to the top of the staff. In the light of after events, however, it was a bad omen, and there was just a hint that the fortunes of Brooklyn were not going to rise dominant over the rival team from the Quaker City. The Sheriff of Kings County tossed out the new ball to the umpire and the game was on.

The real baseball was played by the Philadelphia team, which was just the reverse of what should have been the case, considering that it was the opening of the Brooklyn Park. At any rate it was revenge for the defeat which the Dodgers administered to the Phillies when they were raising the flag or something of that sort down in the Quaker City.

It was hitting which won for the visitors, the Quaker City players getting a total of ten from the three pitchers used by Brooklyn, while McQuillan was at all times a puzzle which Dahlen's men could not solve. Rucker, who is usually considered very effective against the Phillies, was called from the mound in the fifth inning after Magee, the first man up, had ripped off a single to left field and Bell took his place. His work was good, but Jordan was put in to bat for him in the eighth and Barger went on the slab in the next inning.

The visitors started Brooklyn's downfall in the first inning, when Grant singled to left and reached third on a wild throw by Bergen, who attempted to block off his steal of second. Magee's hit brought him across the plate. All this occurred when two were down and the spectators had begun to settle themselves in the seats in anticipation of a snappy game. In the second the one chance to give vent to pent-up feelings came to the Brooklynites. Smith, the second man up, smashed a double to left field and scored when McMillan hit to centre.

Philadelphia, however, took the lead in the next inning. Bates singled to centre, went to second on Grant's neat sacrifice, and scored on Bransfield's hit. The fourth inning was the real Waterloo for the home team. Rucker was wild and handed out three bases on balls. Then with the bases full Bates slammed a double that brought in Knabe and Jacklitsch, and Grant's single folowing scored McQuillan. Magee tallied the last Philadelphia run in the fifth inning.

The final count for Brooklyn was in the ninth when Wheat came home. He drew a pass to first, went to second on Smith's infield out, and scored when Lennox singled. The score:

Fordham Beats Columbia, Scoring Enough Runs at Start.

Fordham found Murray Lee, Columbia's left-handed pitcher, easy to hit on Fordham Field yesterday, and in the first inning gathered five runs, enough to win. Fordham won a clean-cut victory over the Morningside team by the score of 8 to 4. It looked as though Capt. Mahoney, Fordham's star pitcher, was going to register a shut-out against the Blue and White. For five innings he held them runless, allowing only one hit, which was made by Lommel in the fourth, a hot liner that was too hard for McCarthy to handle. However, with the score 7 to 0, Coach Coffey took Mahoney out, so as to have him fit for the Holy Cross game on Saturday. Kehoe, who succeeded him, was wild. In the fifth he passed Lee, and errors by the infield allowed him to score. Osterhout was passed. Kehoe made a wild pitch, allowing two men to cross the plate, and McCaffrey's error let in the fourth and last run.

Lee was very erratic in the first inning, issuing two passes, which, coupled with hits by Mahoney, Schiess, and Sharkey's home-run drive, gave Fordham five earned runs. Ted Kiendl, the basketball star, put up a good game at first base for the visitors.

Skip McCarthy, the Maroons' star catcher, was hurt by a foul tip in the fifth, and retired in favor of McCabe. McKeown relieved Kehoe in the eighth and was a great improvement over his predecessor. The score:

ATHLETICS SHUT OUT THE YANKEES

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 20.—The Yankees went down in defeat at the opening of the American League season in the game with the Athletics here to-day by a score of 6 to 0. The weather was perfect after the two days' rain, but the field was heavy. A crowd of over 15,000 persons attended the opening, and the two teams, headed by a military band, paraded about the field and stood around the flagpole in centre field as the Stars and Stripes were raised and unfurled to the breeze. The Athletics now have one of the best ball parks in the country, and the inaugural was especially auspicious when Connie Mack's batsmen got busy and brought victory to the home team in a shut-out game.

The Athletics bunched hits on Joe Doyle in the second and eighth innings. In the eighth, they went at him hard, and with six singles and a sacrifice fly, collected five counts. In all, the Athletics got twelve hits, and they bunched them so as to be most effective. Bender was on the slab for the home team and kept the Yankees from hitting hard. They managed to get seven safeties, but these were distributed through many innings and did not figure in any run-getting. Cree, who has been laid up with a sore hand for the past two weeks, was in the game again and led the team in hitting. The Yankees played a fast game in the field, but their hitting was weak.

The Athletics got their first run in the second. Davis singled and Murphy struck out. Barry flied to Foster and Davis stole second. Thomas singled, but fast fielding by the Yankees held Davis on third. Bender singled to centre and scored Davis. The teams then went along scoreless until the eighth, when the Athletics landed on Doyle. Collins singled through short and stole second. By fleet base running, he got to third and scored on Baker's single. Davis singled and Murphy sacrificed, Sweeney to Gardner. Baker scored on McInnis's single. Thomas followed with a single, and Bender did the same thing, sending Davis and McInnis across the plate. Bender went to second and Thomas to third on the play. Thomas tallied on Hartsel's sacrifice fly, and Bender ended the inning by getting out at third, Hemphill to Foster to Austin. The score:

Good taste!
Isn't it summed up in "conspicuous inconspicuousness?"
Take Spring overcoats for example.
The oxford grays, faintly self striped, or diagonally woven to snap 'em up a little—who could tire of them.
Take Spring suits—the neatest, quietest fabrics are always favorites.
Bound to be, because they're so satisfactory to the wearer and his friends.
Monotonous! How impossible, with so many of the quiet grays relieved by stripes and overplaids of brighter hues.
For livelier tastes—browns, for one thing.
Spring suits, $18 to $45.
Spring overcoats, $18 to $40.
Little things for little boys in a department all their own.

PECCAVI IN FIRST FOR ROSE STAKES

Small Crowd at Aqueduct Track Sees a Rather Uneventful Day's Sport.

A truly singular early Spring day's racing was offered for the smallest attendance of the season at the Aqueduct race course yesterday. With training stables and tracks all over the turf quarters of Long Island literally swarming with horses in training, a programme of six events, one of these a good stake, drew to the post just twenty-nine horses all told. Two events were contested for by just three horses each, a number only sufficient to claim the three prizes offered in each race.

The card from its first announcement made poor promise, and with bleak Winter weather as an attendant circumstance, the patronage of the track was reduced to the weather hardened regulars.

If there was a feature of the sport, it was in the contest for the Rose Stakes, a half mile for fillies two years old, which was further distinguished by the fact that it drew to the post one added starter. James R. Keene started two horses, Dreaming and Susan, but they were little considered by the public, the general choice being R. F. Carman's Horizon. Horizon gave his partisans a brief period of hope, when he broke first of the field, but Peccavi, a lightly thought of colt, carrying the colors of the Canadian turfman, R. J. McKenzie, quickly went to the front, and Horizon never again was able to get up to him, Peccavi winning rather easily two and a half lengths before the favorite.

Another race for two year-olds, the first on the card, made a much more interesting and sensational contest, Ladasette already a winner at the meeting, starting as a warm public choice in a field of five. Ladasette broke badly, and for the remainder of the race vainly tried to find a way through to the front. In a hard fought finish the Oneck Stable's Golden was first by a head, with Ladasette second and R. T. Wilson's Cherish third.

Ben Loyal and Galley Slave ran away with their respective races, while Keep Moving was hustled out to beat Royal Onyx for the third purse, and Falcada had his work cut out for him to beat the newcomer from the West, George Field, for the fifth event. Summary:

Harvard Beats Navy at Lacrosse.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 20.—Harvard, which has been beaten at lacrosse by Johns Hopkins and other teams, which had lost to the midshipmen, surprised the naval lads by their aggressiveness and individual brilliancy this afternoon, and took the game by 1 to 0. The midshipmen felt the defeat by Harvard keenly, as it broke an otherwise clean record this season.

Garden City Golfers to Buy Links.

Rather than lose their links the members of the Garden City Golf Club have voted to buy the ground outright, provided the necessary funds can be obtained. The property, which is at present leased from the Garden City Estates Company, amounts to about 125 acres, and it is understood that the price asked is in the neighborhood of $400,000.

BASEBALL NOTES.

President Murphy of the Cubs has sold Pitcher Geist to the Lincoln team.

In order to guard against the loss of a player through accident while on the road, President William Armour of the Toledo Club has taken out insurance covering each and every member of the team. Policies will be made payable to the President of the club.

Dan Brouthers's Colts will hook up with the Royal Giants Saturday at Bronx Oval, 163d Street and Southern Boulevard. On Sunday at the oval the fast Bronx Athletics will tackle the Royal Giants at 3 P. M.

Andy Coakley's Leaguers will make their appearance in Meyarrose Park, Covert Avenue "L" station, Ridgewood, on Sunday, and tackle the crack Ridgewoods. The Rivals and Elmonths, two fast amateur teams, are booked again and will come together at 1 P. M. The stellar attraction will begin at 3:15 P. M.

President Pat Powers has engaged Tim Hurst, the veteran umpire of the National and American Leagues, to officiate in the Eastern League. Tim will make his debut at Jersey City this afternoon, and Finneran will work with him. The other assignments of umpires for to-day in the Eastern League are Kelly and Boyloot at Baltimore, Murray and Stafford at Providence, and Byron and Halligan at Newark.

JEFFRIES BOXES FAST.

Bob Armstrong Willing to Quit at End of Three Rounds.

BEN LOMOND, Cal., April 20.—Three rounds of fast boxing with Bob Armstrong, negro pugilist, were the most interesting feature of James J. Jeffries's training to-day. Jeffries had been instructed by Berger to put some steam behind his punches. He obeyed so well that Armstrong was more than willing to quit at the end of three rounds. Jeffries's old left punch landed several times with telling effect on the negro. Jeffries reversed the regular order of things at the camp to-day. He crowded a full day's labor into the morning session, as though anxious to make up for his rest of yesterday.

Besides the boxing Jeffries went through his regular indoor work, the handball court alone escaping him. There was a red tinge to his face and he went at his task with the vim of perfect health. Despite his long hard morning Jeffries in the afternoon went out where laborers were building a dam to make a swimming hole for him in the San Lorenzo River, and toiled away with pick and shovel most of the afternoon. Billy Papke worked by his side.

J. Cal Ewing, former coast baseball club owner, was a visitor at the camp during the day. He has been on friendly terms with Jeffries since Jeffries started his ring career, and declared himself greatly pleased with the fighter's condition. "I have watched Jeffries prepare for nearly all his important fights on the coast," said Ewing, "and I doubt if he ever looked a bit better than he does today. I have bet on him every time he started, and it looks as though I would have to do so again."

Johnson Starts West To-Day.

CHICAGO, April 20.—There will be nine people in Jack Johnson's party, which leaves for the Pacific Coast to-morrow night. Besides Johnson and his wife there will be Manager George Little and wife, Sig Hart and wife, George "Kid" Cotton, Barney Fuhrey, and Monte Cutler. Tom Flanagan, the Canadian trainer, who will take charge of Johnson's road work, will report on the coast about the middle of May.

Johnson boxed six fast rounds to-day in front of a camera, for which a moving-picture company gave him $1,000.

FITZGERALD LOSES FIGHT.

Dixie Kid Defeats Quaker in Ten Rounds at Sharkey A. C.

George Brown of San Francisco, the negro who fights under the name of "The Dixie Kid," earned the decision over Jack Fitzgerald of Philadelphia in the main ten-round bout at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night.

In the first round the negro sent Fitzgerald, who outweighed the Californian about twenty pounds, down for the count of nine with a hard right cross to the jaw, and only the bell saved the white man from worse punishment. The negro was as lively on his feet as the proverbial cricket, and made his more stolid and phlegmatic opponent look like a truck horse as against a thoroughbred.

Walsh Here for Bout with Moore.

Jimmy Walsh, who claims the bantamweight title, arrived in town yesterday afternoon looking the picture of health after his long siege of training for his ten-round bout with Pat Moore, which is to be held at the Empire Athletic Club, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue, to-night. Walsh declared to the friends who met him at the pier that he was never in better condition, and that he is certain of defeating the "Philadelphia Phantom" this evening. Moore will come in from Allenhurst, N. J., this afternoon, and will attend the game between the Giants and Bostons. The New York and Boston teams will occupy box seats at the ringside to-night.

MEYER TO SEE CREW RACE.

Secretary of Navy Going to Annapolis for Harvard-Navy Contest.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 20.—With predictions of fair weather, with light to moderate winds, conditions at Annapolis to-night are not particularly encouraging for the boat race between Harvard and Navy to-morrow, which will open the rowing season on the Severn. The weather has been unsettled for a day or two, and a stiff breeze again seriously interfered with the practice of the crews this afternoon. A choppy sea forced practice to be held in College Creek, under the lee of Cemetery Hill. Only racing starts with a little speeding were attempted.

Coach Wray of Harvard announced today that he will take his men out for another light practice to-morrow morning and for final instructions before the race. Both crews are in the pink of condition, and, while there has so far been little betting, both are confident of victory.

The race will start as soon after 4 o'clock as possible, and if water conditions permit the contest will be pulled over the outer course. An official tone will be given the event by the presence of Secretary of the Navy Meyer and Assistant Secretary Winthrop, who will witness the race from the deck of the Government dispatch boat Dolphin.

MEADOW BROOK TEAM WINS.

Britons Beaten in Final Game of Tournament at Lakewood.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 20.—The final big game of the polo carnival was played this afternoon at Georgian Court, and it was without doubt the hottest contest of the entire series, the Meadow Brooks winning by 6 to 1½. The Meadow Brook team clashed with the English team, which has been annexing victories in California, and every player was a star. In team work the Americans quite surpassed the Britishers, but there was a recklessness in the play which aroused the big throng of spectators. The Waterburys were the stars on the American team, while the goals of the Britishers were made by Gill. This victory gives the Meadow Brooks second place in the tourney, the Hurlinghams of England having beaten the Meadow Brooks twice. The line-up:

MEADOW BROOK.	BRITISHERS.
1—L. Waterbury.	1—Maj. G. W. Hobson.
2—J. M. Waterbury.	2—F. B. Hurndall.
3—L. E. Stoddard.	3—F. A. Gill.
Back—H. F. Smith.	Back—Maj. Romer Lee.

New Rule Hits Ball Players.

CINCINNATI, April 20.—Presents to players released from teams who battle for the world's championship, previous to the time of the big series, was tabooed to-day by the National Baseball Commission in a rule which is an addition to those that govern the championship struggles. The rule follows:

"Rule 19—A player released by a club during the season, in which it qualifies for the world's series, to another club in the same league, shall not participate in the proceeds of such series as a present or award from his former team mates or any official of the releasing club."

Bills Not Contract Jumper.

CINCINNATI, April 20.—The claim made by the Fresno Club of the California State League that Player Joseph Bills, now with the Detroit Americans, should come under the head of a contract jumper, or ineligible player, was refused to-day by the National Baseball Commission. Evidence from the case showed that Bills had acted with the permission of the Secretary of the National Association. The National Commission referred the claim of the Fresno Club of $77 against Bills to the National Association.

MOORE HORSES WIN AT BROOKLYN SHOW

International Carriage Pair Defeat Harriman's After Close Competition.

The second night's horse show of the Riding and Driving Club of Brooklyn brought out another large and select attendance last night, among the most interested spectators being Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt. One of the features of the programme was the question of superiority between the horses of Judge W. H. Moore and those from J. W. Harriman's Avondale Farm. They opposed each other twice, and in both instances the first prize went to the Moore horses. In the class for pairs of harness horses Judge Moore drove Phyllis and Amaryllis to victory against Mr. Harriman's Lady Dilham and Starlight, driven by Jack Donnelly, and for the best collection of three horses Judge Moore, holding the reins over Lady Seaton, defeated the trio from the Avondale Farm.

The Sequatogue Farm at Babylon, L. I., scored a win from a good field of saddle horses, open to members of the Riding and Driving Club only, Irvington Mollie Bawn, ridder by George Watson, securing the blue ribbon. For ponies in harness the Belton Farm of Greenwich, Conn., carried off first prize with Belton Leading Girl, with Philip B. Thompson's Hollyport Vesta, second.

Ten horses were brought into the ring to compete for the $250 prize in plate, the conditions being that the exhibits must first be shown to an appropriate vehicle, and then to be unharnessed in the ring and shown under saddle. It was quite a smart field, but the Mayor, the Hon. John G. Beresford, and his associate judges were unanimous in picking Andrew Morison's Sonia as the winner.

Among those in attendance were:

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, Judge Moore and Mrs. Moore, J. W. Harriman and Mrs. Harriman, F. T. Frelinghuysen, Mr. Davie and Mrs. Davie, formerly Emily Bedford; Miss Ethel Moore, Park Commissioner Kennedy, Theodore F. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Dykman, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton H. Salmon, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Seaman, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Pinkerton, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Carlisle, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mills Gibb, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Murr, Mr. and Mrs. George Hadden, Mr. and Mrs. David F. Butcher, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Coats, Mrs. J. Carleton Semple, Mrs. A. Browning Prentice, Mrs. Charles F. Hubbs, Miss Elizabeth Kent, Miss Elsie Ladew, and Miss Janet C. Bowers.

FINN WINS MARATHON RACE.

Kolohmainon Makes a Fine Sprint and Beats Indian by 5 Laps in Brooklyn.

William Kolohmainon, a long-distance runner from Finland, won the international Marathon race at Saratoga Park in Brooklyn last night from a field of thirteen starters. Only a fair-sized crowd saw the event, and the last few miles was a duel between Bill Davis, the Canadian Indian, and the Finland runner. The winner's time was 2:51:09.

Feruccio Penzeri, an Italian runner, took the lead at the start, and led the field for over a mile. Then Davis, the Indian, went to the front and made the pace for twenty miles. Davis jogged along at a steady, monotonous gait, and although the other runners often tried to pass him, his pace kept in front. After the twenty miles Kolohmainon, who up to this point had stayed in the rear, started to sprint, and passed all the runners one by one, until only Davis was ahead of him. The Indian had quite a lead, but Kolohmainon's sprint was gradually killing him off, and before the twenty-second mile was passed the Finn went to the front. He finished five laps ahead, which was about five-eighths of a mile. Davis was second, Penzeri third, and W. F. Crowley of Boston fourth. The race was over the full Marathon course of 26 miles 385 yards.

St. George Athletes Best.

The St. George Athletic Club athletes defeated those of the St. Bartholomew Athletic Club last night in a dual meet at the St. Bartholomew Athletic Club by a score of 50 to 40. Five events were contested, the most interesting of which was the half-mile walk, in which there was a great running race between all of the contestants. The officials, however, could not see that phase of the situation. The summary:

20-Yard Dash.—Won by G. Voltz, St. Bartholomew A. C.; T. Newman, St. George A. C., second; William Quinn, St. Bartholomew A. C., third. Time—0:03.

Running High Jump.—Won by Koechlein, St. George A. C., with a jump of 5 feet 8 inches; W. Price, St. George A. C., second, with a jump of 5 feet 6 inches; O. Deneke, St. George A. C., third, with a jump of 5 feet 4 inches.

600-Yard Run.—Won by W. Travers, St. Bartholomew A. C.; I. Goldberg, St. Bartholomew A. C., second; H. Hunter, St. Bartholomew A. C., third. Time—1:32 4-5.

King's Derby Winner Unplaced.

EPSOM, England, April 20.—The City and Suburban Handicap of 2,000 sovereigns, for three-year-olds and upward, distance about one mile and a quarter, was run here to-day and won by Bachelor's Double. Mustapha, ridden by "Danny" Maher, the American jockey, was second, and Dean Swift third. There were fourteen starters. King Edward's Derby winner, Minoru, was a warm favorite in the betting, but was unable to secure a place. The American stables were not represented in this event.

NO. 4834. FISHING TACKLE.—A European business house advises an American Consular officer that it desires to represent American manufacturers of fishing tackle. The report states there is a growing local demand for this article, and American makes are considered the best. One concern alone disposes of $200,000 worth of fishing tackle in a year.

NO. 4835. DENATURED ALCOHOL APPARATUS.—The Bureau of Manufacturers is in receipt of a communication from an American business firm stating, that its correspondents in the Philippine Islands are anxious to get in touch with concerns in the United States producing lamps, stoves, or heating apparatus for burning denatured alcohol. These articles must be cheap in order to insure a big sale.

NO. 4836. RESIN.—An American Consular officer in Russia reports that $1,500,000 worth of resin is imported into that country annually, principally through German houses, and local dealers would like to be placed in communication with American producers with a view of buying direct.

NO. 4838. STAVES FOR DRY CASKS.—An American Consul in England writes that the largest manufacturer of barrels for wet goods in his district is about to engage in the manufacture of dry casks and would be glad to enter into correspondence with American firms that are looking for a market for staves or timber suitable for this purpose.

NO. 4839. EVAPORATING MACHINES AND SUGAR MACHINERY.—A report from and American Consul in a Latin-American country, in response to inquiries from the United States, contain the information that if improved machinery were placed on the local sugar plantations the production would be much greater and the quality greatly improved. The Consul thinks it possible to introduce better implements and machinery in the treatment of cane and its products if an intelligent effort is made with the growers themselves.

NO. 4840. MUNICIPAL LOAN.—Consul General Edward H. Ozmun of Constantinople has forwarded a newspaper clipping showing the conditions and terms of the new municipal loan negotiated by the City of Constantinople through the National Bank of Turkey, the new bank recently established in that city by British capitalists.

NO. 4841. TELESCOPE FOR OBSERVATORY.—An American Consular officer in Eastern Europe reports that a large observatory will be built in that region, and a telescope costing from $40,000 to $50,000 installed. A local firm expects to receive the contract for supplying the instrument, and it is anxious to please the persons financing the observatory, who are partial to American telescopes, so that the order will undoubtedly be placed in the United States, but it is desired that manufacturers furnish catalogues, prices, discounts, &c. Firms should furnish this information as soon as possible to the Consular officer in question, for transmission to proper parties.

NO. 4842. SYRUP, DRIED FRUITS, OLEIN, SEEDS, AND PARAFFIN.—A business man in Sweden writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that he would like to be put in touch with American exporters of syrup, dried fruits, olein, seeds, and paraffin. He states that he is well connected with the buying interests of the country and can secure a very large business for firms that can compete.

NO. 4,844. ARTICLES FOR CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.—An American Consul in a Latin-American country in a report submitted several months ago, publication of which was made in Consular and Trade Reports, called attention to the opportunity for American firms to introduce articles suitable for the centennial celebration which was to be held in the country in question during the present year. He now states that no replies were received in response to this notice, and the Mayor of the city in which he is located desires correspondence, catalogues, and price lists for such articles as decorations, banners, electrical displays, torches, fireworks, &c. The Consul expresses the hope that American firms will take advantage of this offer as soon as possible.

Ragsdale of Halifax has forwarded copies of Canadian tender blanks for furnishing clothing supplies for the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. NO. 4,847. CONCESSION FOR AUTO PASSENGER AND FREIGHT BUSINESS.—An American Consul in South America reports there is a strong probability the local Government will in the near future give to a business man a concession covering the auto passenger and freight business. The term of the contract is for seventy years, and from what is at present known of the terms of the concession amounts to a monopoly of the carrying trade of the city. As the concessionaire will require a number of vehicles, he requests that American manufacturers of freight and passenger automobiles send their catalogues to his office that he may have a chance to lay the same before the proper person. This should be attended to by manufacturers at once, and if they prefer they can send their catalogues and correspondence direct, mailing the Consul a duplicate catalogue.

He would like to have such firms quote him prices and send samples of their best quality staves. If prices and terms are satisfactory, he would use the goods in his own shop, and also act as agent on a commission basis for sale to other similar business houses. The names of other business men in his district, with whom correspondence may be taken up, are given in the report of the Consul.

NO. 4,851. FISHING SUPPLIES.—A report from an American Consular officer in Western Europe states that a business man in his district wishes to receive catalogues and price lists of fishing nets to be used in sardine fishery. Correspondence should be directly with him, but manufacturers of all sorts of material used in deep-sea fishing, trawling, &c., would do well to send to the Consular officer submitting the report full catalogues, with price lists and discounts. Catalogues without prices are useless. Correspondence is also desired by this party with houses in the United States that may wish to purchase sardines in tins.

NO. 4,852. AMERICAN NOVELTIES OF ALL KINDS.—An American business firm writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that one of its correspondents in South America has made inquiries as to the possibility of getting agencies for his country in the sale of American novelties of all classes. At the present time he sells agricultural implements, dairy machinery, pictures, picture frames, postcards, electrical novelties, rat traps, oils for the destruction of bugs and fleas, varnishes, paints, and novelties in the cheaper line of goods.

NO. 4,853. IRRIGATION APPARATUS.—A wealthy landowner in a European country advises an American Consular officer that he wishes to purchase in the United States an irrigation apparatus of the following kind: A wheel about 6 feet in diameter is mounted directly above a well about 30 feet deep; on the rim of this wheel is an endless chain carrying buckets of about one-quart capacity to double that. This wheel is revolved by a solid axle about 25 feet long, provided with a gear wheel at its extremity, which in turn is revolved by a mule or other animal traveling in a circle. This system is what is known as a noria, and comes from old Moorish days. It cannot be replaced by pumps or windmills. This party wishes to purchase one only, but if it proves successful many other orders will follow, as thousands of these norias are in use in that country.

NO. 4,854. SUGAR MONOPOLY.—A dispatch from the American Legation at Athens, Greece, refers to a previous report, published as Foreign Trade Opportunity No. 4,649, in the March 12 issue of Weekly Consular and Trade Reports, relating to the establishment in that country of a Government monopoly in sugar, and states that the application of the law on this subject has been postponed for one year, until Dec. 1, 1911. The Government has found it impossible to arrange the administrative details of the proposed monopoly within the time first set, and the Chamber has voted the postponement. As of further interest to American producers, the report states that the Government hopes, while retailing the sugar at 10 cents per pound, to make a profit of not less than 4 cents a pound. A later telegraphic dispatch from Minister Moses states that the Government of Greece has decided to advertise for bids for supplying the sugar, which will close June 1, 1910.

The men in charge do not know just what kind of grass would be most suitable; it is therefore suggested by them that seed men in submitting prices and descriptions bear in mind the climatic conditions of hot, dry Summers and long, cold Winters, together with thin soil full of stones, and none too fertile.

HARVESTER'S BEST YEAR.

Sales Ahead of High Mark of 1907 and Gains Over 1908 Large.

The annual report of the International Harvester Company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1909, shows a heavy increase in sales and net earnings. Sales during the year were $86,614,550, an increase of $14,072,779 over the previous year. In the same period the cost of manufacturing and distribution increased $8,054,012, being $67,669,234, leaving a balance of $18,945,316, against $12,926,549 in 1908. Other income amounting to $869,769, an increase of $345,169 in that item over the previous year, brought the total income up to $19,815,083, against $13,451,147 in 1908. Administration and general expenses were $589,753, an increase of $68,784, leaving net earnings at $19,225,330, against $12,930,378 in 1908.

Deductions for insurance, deprecation, and renewals amounted to $3,774,533, and a further charge of $558,057 for interest on loans left the net in profits at $14,892,740, against $8,885,682 in 1908. The payment of $4,200,000 in preferred dividends, the same as in 1908, left a surplus of $10,692,740, against the previous year's surplus of $4,685,682. The final surplus after the addition of the year's surplus to that previously existing was $27,384,730. Out of this $20,000,000 was paid in common stock dividends. No dividends were paid on this issue in the previous year.

Profit and loss surplus after the payment of this sum on the common stock was $7,384,730.

Sales of harvesting machinery, tillage implements, and twine, were slightly larger than those of 1907, which was the previous high mark, and increased 10 per cent. over 1908. The sales of new lines of output, which include gasoline engines, tractors, cream separators, &c., increased 45 per cent. and bore a large part in the showing of increased earnings. Domestic trade increased 20 per cent., and foreign trade 13 per cent. over the previous year.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Grain Weak Early, Recovering Late—Provisions Firmer—Cotton Dull—Awaits Investigation Developments.

There was a heavy trade in wheat and new low levels were reached at the opening. The early decline was on the continued fine weather throughout the country, and on the decided weakness of the cables. Prices were down from ⅝c to 1⅛c. Following this there was a slow but steady recovery, and the early losses were regained in the afternoon. The late advance showed presence of a good sized short interest in the market, and buying was quite active. The news was apparently unchanged. The weather is improved. The storm has been followed by clear weather and rising temperatures throughout, and there has been ample rain in all sections excepting possibly Nebraska, where more rain would be beneficial. The bulls, however, state that there is no improvement in the Southwest, and that no amount of good weather will improve the situation there. In the Northwest the seeding has been rapidly advanced. It is reported complete in the southern half, and about seven-eights complete in the more northern sections, with a liberal increase in area. Reports from Manitoba were also of very rapid advance in seeding. The receipts of cash wheat were not so heavy at the West, and possibly this was a factor in the market late in the day. Cash wheat, however, has been very dull, and mills are persistently declaring inability to sell flour on a satisfactory basis. Cash prices quoted No. 2 red Winter, $1.13 c. i. f.; No. 2 red spot, nominal, $1.14½ f. o. b. afloat for export; No. 1 Northern Duluth, opening $1.15½, nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, May, $1.10¼.

Corn was weak and active early, with heavy liquidation on the fear of the keeping quality of the corn and apprehension that there would be more posting of cash corn in the different markets. Later, however, the liquidation in the May seemed over, and when early sellers tried to cover, prices advanced about 1c a bushel. Trade was quite active on the advance. Cash corn quoted No. 2 nominal, elevator export basis; No. 4, nominal, and steamer 62c bid, elevator export basis.

Oats were also lower during the morning with other grain, and on the favorable weather conditions and favorable reports regarding the crop, but there was strong recovery after midday, and a much better tone was reported late both in cash and futures. Cash oats quoted natural white, 45¼c@48c; white clipped, 46¼c@52c.

Provisions were very steady, showing an improvement for the futures and a better tone in cash. Live hog receipts were small, and live hog prices were firmer. The decline in hogs has been about 2c a pound from the top, while pork has declined $5 a barrel. Prices during the afternoon were very steady at the advance.

COTTON.

The situation in cotton is a waiting one, with trade of very small proportions. The market was a little lower early on the weakness of the cables, the favorable weather conditions, and the reports of additional curtailment by the Southern mills. The mills at the South say they find very great difficulty in disposing of the goods, and that only further reduction in output will save the situation. The weather has become warmer through the South and generally fair. These conditions are what is desired for the early crop. There was some complaint that the recent storms and low temperatures have necessitated replanting, and that seed is extremely scarce. After the early decline there was a slow recovery, and a very quiet trade the balance of the session. Operators were again discussing the Government investigation and its possible bearing not only on the immediate situation, but on the entire trade in future. There seemed to be a growing disposition to criticise the investigation. Prominent representatives of the bull party again disavowed any combination.

Southern spot markets unchanged.

COFFEE.

Coffee was more active, total sales being 42,000 bags, but of this amount 32,000 bags were switches from May to March at 40 points difference. Tuesday, April 26, will be first notice day for May delivery, and there has been considerable liquidation and switching on the part of longs, who were apparently not inclined to take the coffee, owing to the very indifferent spot demand. Prices were easier, closing at a net decline of 5@10 points. Havre was unchanged to ½f lower, Hamburg was unchanged to ¼ pfennig decline, and Brazil was unchanged. A private cable from Havre said that a cable received there from a prominent Brazilian house estimated the Santos crop at 7,500,000 bags, which compares with previous estimates of 8,000,000 to 9,000,000 bags, and a popular idea of about 8,500,000 bags. Spot coffee steady, 8⅛c for Rio No. 7.

EXCHANGE ELECTION FIGHT.

Two Independent Candidates for Governing and Nominating Committees.

Two independent candidates for membership in the Governing and Nominating Committees of the Stock Exchange were nominated yesterday. They are Arthur Whitney of W. H. Goadby & Co., whose name was put up in opposition to Albert Francke of Francke, Thompson & Robb, on the regular ticket for the Governing Committee, and Erastus T. Tefft of Tefft & Co., who is named in opposition to Fuller Potter of Potter, Choate & Prentice, for the Nominating Committee.

Friends of the new candidates declared yesterday their nominations were simply intended to bring them forward for honors, and any opposition to the policy or management of the Exchange was not involved.

BREAK IN STEEL FACTOR

Follows Reports of Halting Trade and Reduced March Quarter Earnings—More Gold Taken for Export.

From the opening of business on the Stock Exchange yesterday the tendency of prices was steadily downward, the pace being very much accelerated in the afternoon by a sharp break in United States Steel common. Final losses in the conspicuous shares ran from 1 to 2 points or so. During the greater part of the day, and, in fact, until the closing hour trading was dull and the selling movement under these circumstances seemed to indicate nothing more than one of the familiar shifts of position on the part of speculators on the floor of the Stock Exchange and in brokerage offices. Toward the end, however, the declines appeared to provoke a certain amount of actual liquidation, the break in Steel in particular causing some general selling with the demoralized market in Lehigh Valley on the Philadelphia Stock Exchange a factor of perhaps equal importance. To explain their changed attitude toward the market traders pointed to the result of the Rochester Congressional election and to the menace to all markets contained in the continued excited speculation in rubber issues in London. The defeat of Aldridge was construed as another indication of the restlessness of the people under the burdens incident to the recent tariff law, reinforcing in this respect the inference drawn from the election of Mr. Foss in the Fourteenth Massachusetts Congressional District some weeks ago.

It is perhaps merely illustrative of the Wall Street temperament that the personal element in the Rochester election was altogether overlooked in the appraisement of the outcome, although the vote itself shows that many Republicans simply refrained from voting. As for the current boom in rubber stocks in London it is possible, of course, that it may come to an end without financial disturbance, but it has undoubtedly instilled a spirit of caution both in conservative banking circles in the English capital and in other quarters where the delicate position of trade and finance is well understood. The ease with which Steel shares declined naturally directed attention to the usual weekly review of the leading iron and steel trade organ, which put stress upon the evidence of lessened consumption of both iron and steel, and at the same time gave wider circulation to various reports regarding the earnings of the Steel Corporation for the March quarter. The break in Lehigh Valley followed directly upon the announcement of an issue of additional stock without mention of the cash distribution which the financial district had been led to believe would be made in connection with the offer of new stock.

Further engagements of gold for export were announced during the course of the day, but, as in the past, these announcements were without effect upon the money market. As a matter of fact quotations in the case of a number of the longer maturities were easier. The position of the money market here and at several inland points has been materially eased by the drastic liquidation which has been going forward in the commodities markets and which was noted again yesterday in wheat.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—All other developments in Philadelphia were overshadowed by the action of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in doubling its capital stock. The news was not announced until 1 o'clock, conforming closely with advance information, but its effect market-wise was depressing. When the news came out the stock was quoted at 117¾, compared with 119 last night. After the "Street" became conversant with the proposition another outburst of selling sent the prices under 113. Based on the price at which the stock was selling when the news came out, the operation would work out thus: 100 shares at 117, 50 per cent. new stock at $25, or the total of $142. Divided by 150 the result would be 94⅛ at which the stock would stand the holder. In the last few minutes of trading "Valley" fell to 112⅝, and then rallied rapidly to 114. The action of the stock was in keeping with market precedent of selling off when the news is out. It was clear that more was expected and those well posted said this explanation might be realized. In any event there were signs of very good buying on the decline. The weakness of such arbitrage stocks as Pennsylvania, United States Steel, and Reading exerted a depressing effect upon the general local list to-day and moderate recessions were the rule.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

The Break in Steel.

The advantage of setting up straw men to be bowled over at an opportune moment was well illustrated yesterday in the course of United States Steel common. A few days ago traders were buying the Steel shares and working heartily for the rise which followed, on the strength of stories originating with themselves that the corporation's earnings for the March quarter would be well over $40,000,000. Yesterday the same traders attacked Steel on the strength of stories, again originated by themselves, that the March quarter earnings would fall substantially below $40,000,000. No one disputed the first estimate, and no one disputed that circulated yesterday. The stock sold off easily, finding practically no support in quarters where those executing the day's manoeuvres feared it might be found, and as a result a considerable amount of liquidation in other directions was provoked. Curiously enough, those who expressed themselves as most fearful of the earnings for the March quarter expressed equal confidence in the prospect of a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent.

Lehigh Valley Stock Issue.

When the news came out prematurely from Philadelphia some weeks ago that to Lehigh Valley stockholders would be accorded an opportunity to subscribe to new stock on very favorable terms, it was also said that a cash dividend would be made at the same time, in amount sufficient to cover a good part of the subscription price to the new shares. Yesterday the company issued an official statement in which new stock was offered in accordance with the earlier story, but without the accompanying cash dividend. Naturally the stock broke violently in Philadelphia, to the discomfiture of a large speculative following which Lehigh Valley has had in this market.

Gold, Cotton, and Grain.

At the inception of the present gold export movement bankers ventured the opinion that before it had run far, the cotton and grain markets would be called upon to bear their share of the essential financing. Since then wheat has declined 10 cents a bushel, and there have been several sharp breaks in cotton. The speculation in these markets was extended and required huge sums for its conduct. To all save those immediately concerned, therefore, it is a matter of some satisfaction that some of this money, at least, has been diverted to other and more useful ends.

A Neglected Opportunity.

Some wonderment has been expressed over the fact that New York has been slow to follow in the wake of the rubber share speculation which has been carrying London off its feet in a wild rush for profits in the stocks of companies professing to own rubber plantations in places with barbarous names, which have been proving very good bait for those with the get-rich-quick fever. Lest the advantages of the opportunity offered should escape for good and all, one philanthropist came forward yesterday with a proposal that immediately appealed to the Curb brokers who were to be invited to float the stock of the new undertaking. This philanthropist was loath to disclose his plan except to a favored few, but it got out somehow before the day was over. What he disclosed to the favored few was this: Several years ago he had bought a rubber coat, which he had worn very little and laid aside. He did not know where it was just now, but he purposed capitalizing it and issuing dollar shares against it, with the understanding that the rubber coat would be turned over to the company as soon as found. If the rubber coat wasn't found—well, in that case the same thing would probably happen to the shares of his company that will probably happen to the shares of most of the London rubber companies.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 20.—North Butte was the feature at the opening of the Boston copper share market to-day, selling off 2 points, to 33. It became steady for a while, but later on it was forced to 31. Stop loss orders helped to a great extent in the late decline. In sympathy with the decline in New York and in North Butte the balance of the list reacted from a fraction to 2 points. The close was steady but dull.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Foundries Not as Busy Now as in March—Curtailment Looked For.

The leading trade papers are inclined to take a conservative view of the iron and steel outlook.

The Iron Age says:

> More attention has been given in the past week to indications here and there of lessened consumption of iron and steel. Foundries in some lines are not as busy as was the case in March, and in the metal working trades the manufacturers' employment bureaus are placing fewer men. There is considerable variation in the reports from these consuming industries, however, operations with many of them being fully up to the scale of the past six months. With most of the large steel companies the volume of new business falls somewhat short of the average of last month.
>
> Blast furnace companies are agreed on the necessity for cutting down output. Pig iron stocks at furnaces are piling up more rapidly, and it is evident that action by some producers cannot be long delayed.
>
> Further evidence comes up that pig iron taken in quiet deals in the past month much exceeds the general estimate. In the Chicago district a very large buyer has been figuring on iron needed late in the year. The pipe interests that were reported to have broken off negotiations with Southern makers closed 25,000 to 30,000 tons of lower grades.
>
> Railroad demand is more strongly counted in finished steel lines. Among rail orders are 12,000 tons for the Lake Shore, 5,000 tons for the Nickel Plate, and 11,000 tons of open-hearth rails for the Boston & Maine, which is expected to buy 10,000 tons additional.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> The pig iron market drags, and the next few weeks will see a sharp curtailment in production unless there should be a decided change for the better in demand. Advances made to the Steel Corporation to induce it to buy a large tonnage of Bessemer have not met with success. A reduction of output seems to be the only remedy. While activity continues in some finished lines, other show decreased buying and keen competition.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Strathmore Apartment on Riverside Drive Sold—Buyer of Marshall Plot Offered a $200,000 Profit—East Side Tenements for Investment.

By far the most important transaction in the realty market yesterday was the sale of the Strathmore apartment house at the southeast corner of 113th Street and Riverside Drive.

The Strathmore, which was owned by the Akron Building Company, composed of Messrs. Bing & Bing, is a twelve-story structure, occupying a plot fronting 104 feet on Riverside Drive and 117 feet on the street. It was completed late last Fall, and is considered one of the finest structures of its kind in the upper end of the Drive.

It is understood that the property will be taken over by the United Proprietors' Realty Company, in which one of the large estates of this city is interested.

The Strathmore occupies with the Fowler Court, purchased last year by Robert Livingston, the entire block front on the Drive between 112th and 113th Streets.

The Proprietors' Realty Company, it is understood, recently acquired several other large plots in this section. Calden & Nassoit were the brokers.

Buyers Offered $200,000 Profit.

Title to the Marshall plot, at the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-seventh Street, was taken yesterday by William H. Bryan at a stated consideration of $880,000. The sale of this choice plot, recently reported, aroused more than usual interest, as it is the first big sale for some time of Seventh Avenue property in a section that is destined to be highly developed. That Mr. Bryan has obtained a valuable piece of realty at a reasonable price was the opinion of several real estate experts, a fact that seems to be borne out by the statement that the new owner was offered immediately after the negotiations were closed a profit of $200,000 for his contract of sale.

The plot presents an interesting illustration of the rapid rise in values of city property. In 1847 John I. Norton sold the plot to Lewis I. White for $5,000. In 1852 John F. and Jesse Marshall, who conducted the Seventh Avenue stage line, bought it for $13,000, and it has remained in the family for over half a century. In 1886 Jesse Marshall leased the plot for twenty-one years, but afterward wishing to sell was unable to secure a cancellation of the lease. In 1906 the lease was canceled. Meantime Alfred Marshall, son of Jesse, died, and in his will directed that the property was not to be leased for more than a year, and was not to be improved. These conditions were a prime factor in causing the recent sale.

The price just obtained represents an increase of 20,000 per cent. over the price paid in 1847. The plot contains 24,400 square feet, representing a trifle over $36 per square foot, yet property no better situated in the Times Square neighborhood is closely held at $60 a square foot. The adjoining parcel, extending to Broadway, owned by the Fitzgerald estate, is understood to be held at $120 per square foot.

A first mortgage for $500,000, made by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, was filed simultaneously with a purchase money mortgage of $380,000 given by the Marshall estate. Dutton & Kilsheimer, attorneys, represented the Marshall estate in the transaction.

Huberth & Gabel, in conjunction with S. B. Goodale & Son, have sold for Elizabeth Hayes the five-story hotel buildings on plot 39.2 by 80 at 63 and 65 Lexington Avenue, adjoining the northeast corner of Twenty-fifth Street, to Bernard Reich. This property has not changed hands for fifty years.

There were no bids for the Wolfe Building at 80 and 82 William Street, which was offered at auction yesterday by Parish, Fisher & Co. The offering was under the direction of Edward L. MANHATTAN—FOR SALE.

EXPERIENCED Mortgage Investors know that the value of a Mortgage Company's guarantee is not so much in the size of its capital as in the ratio which that capital bears to its outstanding guarantees. Our ratio is about 10%—or double the European standard, and far in excess of that offered by any of our competitors.

The Experienced Investor knows, also, the advantages of an inflexible policy of conservatism which declines to enter into hazardous risks for the sake of forcing business growth. We have loaned $65,000,000 on bond and mortgage and have never lost a dollar. That describes the kind of mortgages we sell. No other company in New York has such a record.

ASKS FOR REMOVAL OF LAND APPRAISERS

THEIR VALUATIONS TOO HIGH

Woodland Appraised as City Lots—Favored Lawyer Flannery—Watson Philosophises on Tipping.

Supreme Court Justice Tompkins of Westchester County issued an order yesterday directing George N. Rigby of Yonkers, Bernard F. Martin of this city, and James P. Apgar of Peekskill, the members of one of the condemnation commissions for the acquisition of the land for that section of the new Catskill Aqueduct known as the Hill View Reservoir, near Yonkers, to appear before him at Nyack on Saturday to show cause why they should not be removed. Apgar and Rigby are Republicans and ex-Assemblymen, and Martin is an ex-State Senator and former Tammany leader of the old Fifth Assembly District.

The complaint on which Justice Tompkins's order was issued was drawn by Corporation Counsel Watson. It contains specifications in which the three men are charged with "willfully and without justification, holding unnecessary and unimportant sessions, to the delay and injury of the claimants, herein adding greatly to the cost and expense of the proceedings to the City of New York"; with holding twenty-three sessions, at which 739 pages of testimony were taken, "which was grossly unnecessary and excessive; the expense incurred as a result of which illegal action and improper procedure was at least $10,000."

The complaint goes on to say that in this proceeding the commission, which was composed of the three men, reported to the court in November, 1908, and that their findings were set aside in January, 1909, and a new commission appointed to sit upon the property. Despite this, it is alleged that they repeated their tactics, this time also running up an unnecessary expense of some $10,000. This report was received by the court in June, 1909, and set aside in the following October.

Notwithstanding all this it is declared that they "are now and have been willfully and without justification proceeding in the same illegal manner," and that their findings with respect to the property owned by clients of Lawyer Joseph Flannery, who has made thousands of dollars out of condemnation proceedings in the last few years, "exhibit such bias and prejudice in favor of such counsel as against the City of New York and other claimants as to render said commission unfit to act."

The men are charged with "reckless disregard and contempt of the court" and "refusing to follow the rules of the court."

The order of Justice Tompkins, in which he set aside one of the reports of the commission, is quoted, in which he cited the fact that wooded property had been dealt with as if having been cut up into lots, and that land which experts testified was worth $48,857 had been valued at $76,200.

Corporation Counsel Watson sent a letter to Controller Prendergast yesterday on the question of allowing condemnation Commissioners to charge in their expense accounts for parlor-car fares and tips to waiters. He appeared to be a bit sarcastic, saying:

> I most earnestly advocate, as I know you do, economy in condemnation proceedings, even in small particulars; but I must confess that your esteemed communication suggested to me a new ramification of reform, and one which, if pursued relentlessly, might even involve a general crusade against the practice of tipping. This I have not decided upon as yet, but I shall at once further examine into the ethical and moral aspects of tipping in its relation to condemnation matters.
>
> In the tipping case to which you call my attention the court apparently thought that reasonable tips to waiters, porters, and others, where the service rendered is incidental to an item of expense properly chargeable to the city, should be allowed. Whatever might be said of tipping, so called, as an original proposition, it has become an established practice and custom to such an extent that it is taken into account, as I am informed, in fixing the wages of certain classes of subordinate employes.
>
> A reasonable fee, for example, to the waiter who has served the meal, in addition to one's restaurant check, though perhaps theoretically gratuitous, is as usual as the payment of the bill itself, and it was perhaps upon some such theory that the court concluded that the tip became a part of the cost of the dinner, and that if the city was liable for the meal it should tip the waiter, too.

The Controller had no comment to make on Mr. Watson's letter.

LEHIGH TO INCREASE CAPITAL.

To Be Raised to $80,000,000—Prices Fall, Due to No News of Cash Dividend.

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company here today a resolution was adopted recommending to the stockholders that the capital stock be increased from $40,334,000 to $80,000,000.

A meeting of the stockholders has been called for June 22 to act on the resolution. If the stockholders approve it the Directors propose to issue $20,167,400 new stock, giving stockholders the right to subscribe for it at par. The management announces that $6,000,000 of 7 per cent. outstanding bonds and other obligations will be paid off out of the new stock, and the balance used for betterments.

The announcement of the proposed increase had an adverse effect on the price of the stock. It sold at 119½ early in the day but declined to 112⅝. The close was at 114, a net decline of 5½ points from the day's highest figure.

The weakness in the stock of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company yesterday was attributed to disappointment over the failure to declare a cash dividend, which had been expected. The shares, of a par value of $50, are not listed on the Stock Exchange. Besides the common stock outstanding, the road has $106,300 of 10 per cent. preferred stock of the same par value.

NEW YORK CENTRAL MEETING.

Directors Chosen in Place of Three Who Recently Died.

ALBANY, April 20.—The stockholders of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad, at their annual meeting to-day, at which 1,500,000 shares were voted, elected W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Lewis Cass Ledyard, and Marvin Hughitt to fill vacancies caused by the deaths during the year of D. O. Mills, H. McK. Twombly, and E. H. Harriman.

ALL TRANSIT EARNINGS.

Service Commission Gives Statement of Incomes of the Operating Companies.

The Public Service Commission made public yesterday a comparative statement on the income of all the transit companies operating in the city for the last quarters of 1908 and 1909, which gives a complete idea of the present condition of the various systems. The figures are also interesting in that they represent the statistical work of the commission for the first two years of its existence.

The total revenue from transportation for 1909 is shown to have been $19,215,881, as against $17,467,177 for 1908. Other operating revenues for the last quarter of 1909 footed up $711,000. Operating expenses were $10,850,554, leaving a net operating revenue of $9,076,841. The total net revenue from all sources for the quarter was some $250,000 in excess of this.

The more important figures for the principal transit companies of the city are:

LETTER-TELEGRAMS ARE DOING FINE

Western Union and Postal Report Great Increase in New Style of Message.

DAY BUSINESS BENEFITED

Brokers Use Them for Market Letters—Drummers to Send in Orders, and Society for Correspondence.

The fifty-word night telegrams at the rate of one ten-word day message, which the Western Union calls "night letters" and the Postal calls "lettergrams," have been in force now about six weeks, and both companies say the public has taken to them so cordially that they must become permanent fixtures. The experimental stage has been passed.

"One of the most remarkable things," said Belvidere Brooks, general manager of the Western Union, "is that they have caused an increase in the number of standard rate messages sent. We figure the thing out this way: A man who has a short letter that he wants to go in a hurry sends a night letter; the receiver gets it the next morning, and the very fact that the original came by wire suggests to his mind that he send the answer by wire also, and so he sends a day message. But for the night letter both the original communication and the short answer would go by mail in many cases."

No part of the country has taken to the wire letter more kindly than any other; all sections are using it. A few nights ago a man down in Winston-Salem, N. C., dropped 500 night letters upon the Western Union in one evening. The Western Union record shows that in the second week of the new rate one Chicago commercial house sent 1,109 night letters in one evening, and last week two New York business houses sent 4,200 and 4,400 respectively.

The Postal reports that an increasing number of brokers, who used to issue a daily letter through the mails, telling their out-of-town customers about important changes in stock prices, are now sending the same information every night by wire.

Out in Indiana a few days ago a factory man suddenly discovered that about fifty invoices had been sent out with the same mistake of figures in all of them. He sent night letters to head off the invoices and correct the mistake. Drummers, it is reported, are gaining custom by sending orders for goods by wire to their houses.

Theatrical managers instruct their road managers to send in daily reports of business—the weather, the opposition, the outlook, local conditions, and so on. These used to be sent by mail. Now many of the managers find on their desks every morning reports of their traveling companies of the night before.

Some houses are even sending out short advertising circulars by wire. Indeed, both companies report that so many business men all over the country, who are always keen to take advantage of any innovation for saving time, already have adopted the night letter and the lettergram, and that this class of business alone would make it worth while to continue them.

Outside of the business uses of these low-priced night communications by wire, both companies report an increasing use of them for social and household purposes. England and France, particularly, have for years used the wire extensively for social purposes—invitations to dinner, reports of how baby's tooth is coming out, explanations by husbands why they cannot get home to dinner, and so on.

The rates have heretofore discouraged that use of the telegram here. The innovation, however, is bringing out this kind of custom, though it is naturally of a slower growth than the business use.

In spite of the fact that their use is increasing rapidly, the Western Union reporting a 66 per cent. increase in one week, few additional operators are needed. The communications must be in before midnight, and the operating force get the night letters off after the regular business has lulled.

MEDALS TO OLD SEVENTH MEN

Cross of Honor Veterans Review the Regiment; Then Are Reviewed.

Eight hundred Seventh Regiment veterans, who have received the Cross of Honor for long and faithful service, were reviewed in the armory at Park Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street, last night, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of the institution of the decoration. Every old Seventh man who could get there, was present last night to see the men of a later day pass in review. It was one of the most notable reviews in the history of the regiment.

The chief reviewing officer was Brevet Major Gen. George Moore Smith, N. G. N. Y., who, as Lieutenant Colonel of the Seventh, in 1885, suggested the Cross of Honor. With Gen. Smith were a score of National Guardsmen and regular army officers, all of whom, at some time, had been connected with the regiment. In addition to the review of the honor men, who this year completed a service extending over ten, fifteen, twenty, and twenty-five years, received crosses. Eight of those so honored were twenty-five-year men.

They received the golden cross, the "7" being set in diamonds. Company B furnished three of these men—Capt. J. Rutherford Stewart, First Lieut. William Moore Halstead, and First Lieut. H. V. D. Black. The others were Corporal Gouverneur Kemble of Company F, Major A. White, Private Abraham W. Stout of Company H, Private Daniel C. Meyer of Company C, and Private Eugene Horton of Company I.

More than fifty received the decoration for lesser periods of service, the twenty-year men including Gen. James R. O'Beirne and Gen. N. B. McLaughlin of the civil war regiment.

Every company turned out practically its full quota of men, and the men never looked smarter. Gen. Moore and his staff stood in front of the middle tier of boxes. With him were Brig. Gen. David E. Austen, Brig. Gen. H. W. Freemen, Brig. Gen. William G. Bates, Lieut. Col. B. B. McAlpin, Gen. Alexander Shaler, and Col. J. Fred Pierson.

After the presentation of crosses all the honor men marched past the regiment. In this line were more than a hundred grey-haired men, one of whom, Private William M. Morgan of Company H, is just completing his forty-seventh year in the ranks. Gen. Edward L. Molineux was in line, as was Major Ivan Tailof, Gen. H. E. Tremain, and Capt. Henry I. Hayden, all war veterans.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Mills & Gibb Win a Partial Victory in the Assessment on Cloth.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has disposed of a controversy between Mills & Gibb, dry goods importers of this city, and Collector Loeb by sustaining in part the contentions raised by both parties. General Appraiser Howell, who writes the decision for the board, decides that some of the goods are dutiable as assessed by Mr. Loeb, while the others are classifiable as alleged by the importers.

The merchandise in controversy consists of cotton cloth. It was assessed for duty as "colored" at the appropriate rates under the provisions of Paragraphs 305 to 309 inclusive, and Paragraph 313, tariff act of 1897. Under the assessment imposed the goods fell within the so-called "countable" cotton paragraphs of the tariff, while the classification under Paragraph 313 carried with it the imposition of an additional duty of 1 cent. per square yard for cloth into which a figure thread was introduced.

The contention of the importers was that the cloth should be allowed to enter under the same provisions as assessed, but under that section of the paragraphs relating to cloth bleached or unbleached. The shipments covered by this decision appear from an inspection of the official papers to be extensive, and it is not clear from official documents whether the majority of the claims raised by Mills & Gibb are sustained. All that the General Appraiser says is that "the protests are sustained to this extent." Reliquidation, he adds, will follow on the basis of his decision.

PHYSICIANS HONOR DR. ABRAHAM JACOBI

"A NATIONAL BENEFACTOR"

"Always Prominent in Civic Life, His Personality Has Permeated City History," Speaker Says.

The venerable Dr. Abraham Jacobi was entertained at dinner last night in the Waldorf-Astoria by the Directors of the Hospital for Deformities and Joint Diseases, of which he is dean of the consulting physicians. It was the first of a series of entertainments arranged by the medical men of the city for this week in appreciation of the prominent part Dr. Jacobi has taken in the medical profession in the last fifty years.

Dr. Jacobi, who is now 80 years old, was hailed as one of the few great men whose names stand out in bold relief in the annals of medicine. He was acclaimed as a man who has aided more sick poor than any other in America; whose work has stamped him as one of the Nation's benefactors. About 100 medical men were present.

Edward Lauterbach, the toastmaster, started the praise of Dr. Jacobi by saying that early in his career the doctor's discernment and ability had had an uplifting influence for the medical profession, which had increased with his years.

Mr. Lauterbach spoke, too, of the invaluable aid Dr. Jacobi had given to the Mount Sinai and the German Hospitals, with which he still is associated.

"His professional ability, his diplomatic skill has enabled the Mount Sinai Hospital to become the foremost institution of its kind in the city and, perhaps, in the world," he added. "Dr. Jacobi has been a foremost citizen in this community. He always has been ready to speak for clean government and honest administration, and we have grown to look upon him as a leader in civic affairs."

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, former Commissioner of Health, who was the late President Cleveland's physician and intimate friend, also had much to say of the achievements of Dr. Jacobi. Dr. Bryant advocated the establishment of a National Department of Health to have supervision over the health of the nation.

Dr. Bryant, who responded to the toast "Public Health," said that cleanliness always plays an important part in the good health of a community. He told of the establishment in this city during his term as Health Commissioner of a conference committee of physicians, of which Dr. Jacobi was then and still is a member. Dr. Bryant said a bill creating a National department of health was now before the Senate, and he urged all physicians to work for its passage.

Dr. Emanuel M. Baruch, who spoke on "Medicine and Charity," said that the personality of Dr. Jacobi had permeated the community for fifty years, and had done much toward promoting the present state of health in the city.

"There is no page of medicine in this country on which the name of Dr. Jacobi is not written in indelible letters," said Dr. Baruch.

Borough President George McAneny, a son-in-law of Dr. Jacobi, speaking on "Our City," said he was afraid to say much about Dr. Jacobi, lest on the way home his father-in-law administer a rebuke.

In reply Dr. Jacobi said that he was deeply touched, and that he was glad to have been able to lend some assistance to the cause of medicine.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes.

Our Policy

YEARS ago, when we opened our first shop, we made up our minds that in value giving lay the sure road to Success.
We were right!
The size of our business to-day proves that. Our Policy now is what it was when we started,—a full dollar's worth of merchandise for every dollar spent, and generally a bit more.
This is eminently true of our clothing.
Our Hart, Schaffner & Marx Suits start at $18.
In nearly every other city of the United States the same clothes sell for $20,—and mighty unusual values they are at $20.
In other words, here you can get at $18 a Hart, Schaffner & Marx suit that otherwhere would cost you $20—a suit that, made by another firm, would cost you all of $25.
Furthermore, at $18 you get exclusive styles and exclusive patterns.
In the selections at $25, $30 and on up to $50 the same principle holds true. Each suit or overcoat is worth more than its price.
A good deal more.
This,—as we have told you, is the Wallach way [illegible] business.

Suits $18 to $50.
Overcoats $15 to $40.

Among our $18 suits are some made from regular $22.50 and $25 materials. They have no vest—that is why these two-piece suits are marked $18. Many men prefer a fancy vest.—We have them at $2.50 and upward.
